WASHINGTON Oct. 8, 1866 GENTLEMEN: I shall be unable to accept your invitation to attend the proposed meeting on the 5th instant at Tammany Hall to respond to the nominations of the National and State Conventions

My best wishes, however, will be with you, and with all who are associated with you, in vindicating the Constitution and maintaining the integrity of the Union .-I have never believed that a State has the right to withdraw from the Union, nor do I believe the Federal Government has any authority to exclude or expel a State from the Union. I am therefore no secessionist-I am no, Radical, nor have I any sympathies with the principles and actions of either. When the Republican party was organized in 1856, to assert and maintain popular sovereignty, or the right of the people to form their own State constitusion, decide for themselves, in regard to their local government, without dictation or interference from the central Government, or from border ruffians, I did not besitate to act with the organization.

Efforts had been made to impose a Con stitution upon the people of Kansas without their consent and against their will -They resisted the efforts to invade their rights, and they have my sympathy and support in that resistance

But the Radical element of the Republican party, which for the last three years had control of that organization, unmindful of the professions of regard for popular rights and State rights, and of its avowed opposition to Federal aggression, has been engaged in greater outrages upon popular rights and State rights, and in a more arbitrary and despotic exercise of Federal power, than was ever attempted by "border ruffians," or those who have abused the authority of the General Government at any former period.

A party so talse to its professions, and to the principles which led to its organization, is not deserving of public confidence. I shall rejoice in its defeat, and in the triumph of those who are striving for a restoration of the Union and a restoration of the States to their legitimate constitutions and constitutional rights. GIDEON WELLES. Yery respectfully, ernor Seymour in 1863

As the Radicals have been laboring so industriously to provide that Governor Seymour is not a loyal man, and that during the war he arrayed himself in opposition to the cause of the Union, we present the following incident for their spe cial consideration at this time.

When Lee was thundering at the door of the capital of Pennsylvania, and fear and trepidation possessed the souls of the men who are now reviling and slandering Governor Seymour, Andrew G. Curtin, then Governor of Pennsylvania, visited Camp Curtin, Harrisburg. This visit was occasioned by the disinclination of the Pennsylvania volunteers to enlist, except for the expulsion of Lee from Pennsylvania. Governor Cartin, in company with another gentleman, rode into camp in an open barouche, to see the officers, and was stopped on his way by the soldiers and called on for a speech. Raising in his carriage, he spoke substantially as FELLOW-CITIZENS OF THE VOLUNTEERS F PENNSYLVANIA: I came here to-day to see your officers, who ought to be here to make their complaint in form. I have a right to expect the confidence of the volun teers of Pennsylvania, for I have never broken faith with them, I assure you, you will be ratained just long enough to repel the present invasion-so long-no onger, be it sixty days, or thirty, or ten. But we cannot draw your pay unless you conform to the regulations of the army. and enter your name in regular form.

Then turning in his carriage and point ing to the white tents of the New York troops on the hill across the river, he exclaimed:

Look at the crowning of yonder hill ! There are the troops of our sister New York, defending our frontier, where you ought now to be, instead of wrangling here about how you will enlist. Great God! What are you doing? Thirteen regiments from New York already on the ground, and in tront, while not a regiment in Pennsulvania is yet ready !

Soon after Governor Curtin appeared on the hill on the opposite side of the river, rode inside the fort, into the midst of the New York troops, who poured out from their tents, and loudly called on the Governor for a speech, Again rising in his carriage, with his hat in his hand, he spoke as follows: SOLDIERS OF NEW YORK: Pennsylvania had a right to expect that her sister New York would come to her aid, but she did not have the right to expect that New York troops would be here on our soil, oc cupying the front of her defense, before ber own troops were on the ground. From the bottom of my heart, I thank you for this generous alacrity. Bear my thanks, as well as the thanks of Pennsylvania, to your patriotic Governor for the promptness with which, through your presence, he has replied to our need. On some future occasion, I will in some more appropriate and formal manner, make known to him my grateful appreciation of his prompt ac-noble band of soldierly men! Again I thank you! And with a graceful bow and wave of his hat, the Governor resumed his seat in the

tion in hurrying forward to our aid this
