HINTS FROM THE LONDON HORSE Passenger Mail BOOK. Train.

1. All herees must be feel in the same proportions. without due regard to their ages, their constitutions and their work. Because the impropriety of such a practice is self evident. Yet it is constantly done and is the basis of disease of every kind. 2. Never use bad bay on account of its cheapness

Because there is not proper nourishment in it. 3 Damaged corn is exceedingly injurious. Because it brings on inflammation of the bowels and skin discases. 4 Chaff is better for old horses than hay. Because they can chew and digest it better. 5. Mix chaff with corn or beans, and do not give the latter alone. Because it makes the horse chew his food more and digest it better. 6. Hay or grass alone will not support a horse under hard work. Because there is not sufficient nu(ritive body in either 7. When a horse is worked hard, its food should chiefly be oats; if not worked hard, it food should chiefly be hay. Because outs supply more nourishment and flesh making material than any other kind of food. Hay not so much 8. For a sadile or coach horse, half a peck of sound oats, and eighteen pounds of good hay is sufficient. If the hay is not good, add a quarter of a peck more oats. A horse which works harder may have rather more of each ; one that works little should have less 9. Rack feesing is wasteful. The better plan is to feed with chopped hay, from a manger. Because the food is not then thrown about, and is more easily chewed and digested.

10 Sprinkle the hay with water that has salt dissolved in it. Because it is pleasing to the animat's taste, and more easily digested. [A teaspoonful of salt in a bucket of water is sufficient.

11. Outs should be bruised for an old horse, but not for a young one. Be ause the former, through age and detective, can not chew them properly; the young borse can do so, and they are thus properly mixed with the salies and turned into whole-termediate stations, arriving at Philadelphia at 0.00 p.m., and at Now liberation with a train for Easton in the spring to houses that cannot be turned out into the fields. Because they are very cooling and refreshing, and almost medicinal in their effect;—but they must be supplied in moderation, as they below. are liable to ferment in the stomach if given

13. Water your horse from a poul or stream, rather than from a spring or weil. Because the latter is generally hard and coli, while the former is soft and comfortably warm. The horse prefers soft

14. A horse should have at least a pail of war ec morning and evening; or, still better, 'our balf pullsful, at four several times in the day. Because this assuages his thirst without bloating him. He should not be made to work directly after he has had a full draught of water; for digestion and exertion can never go on together.

DRIVING MILCH COWS.

Dairymen are every year astonished at the remarkable yield claimed for some dairies, reaching five or six hundred pounds of cheese and butter per cow, and even higher than this, the cow being fed on hay and grass alone. To prove the truth of these statements, we referred to the book of the merchant who has received the produce, and it was und all correct. Good cows good feed, careful dairymen are the most obvious reasons that must unite in producing this result. These are at the command of any one who earnestly sets about it ,-Yet how difficult it is to attain these high yields of the dairy. The truth is many minor causes, apparently too trifling for notice, must operate togeth-fers for sale an entirely new assortment of

7. Their pleasures are simple and less exhausting.

For heavy work always feed corn to horses. Where you wish them to be sprightly and lively feed them oats. It is not always safe to allow all horses to "feel their oats" too much. The late Sir Robert Peel, one of the most eminent of English Statesmen, lost his life by riding a fractious horse, which his groom had neglected to fill up with water before his master rode him, as he had been ordered Sir Robert was consequently thrown off and killed A horse that has a couple of buckets of water in him just le'ore being driven or rode out is not so wild and frickey as one that is empty.
