HARRISBURG, PA.

Thursday Evening, May 14, 1863.

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

THE ARMY COMMITTEE of the Y. M. C. A. are requested to meet at the room of the association this evening at 8 o'clock, for the transaction of important business.

THOS. H. ROBINSON, Chairman.

WENT TO THE FIELD.—Major Harry White, who was absent from his regiment, the 67th P. V., during the past year, attending to his duties as State Senator, and was on a short visit home since the adjournment of the Legislature, left his home last Monday to rejoin his regiment in the field. Major White was an active member of the Senate during its late session. He now goes to fill his military station at a moment when events crowd fast upon the other, and when the service of every soldier is needed.

RECORD THEIR NAMES.—While thousands of names are being enrolled, showing that their owners are unconditionally for the Union, let a book be opened in every community (in Harrisburg especially) to enter the names of those who refuse to join Union Leagues and who act with the copperheads. When the war is over and the Government victorious, the copperheads will be the loudest to protest that they were loyal citizens and in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war. Let us have it in white and black, and there will be no mistake. Record their names.

THE MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION.—Mayor Rounfort deserves the thanks of the soldiers in and the citizens of Harrisburg, for his prompt action in reference to the sale of intoxicating liquor. In the judgment of many good citizens, however, the time specified for closing bars, retail liquor stores and lager beer saloons, will scarcely remedy the evil feared. The proclamation, to be effective for good, should have fixed the hour of closing at noon every day until further notice. We mention this to His Honor, Mayor Rounfort, as the suggestion of those whose judgment, like his own, is worthy of respect in such matters.

PROTECT THE BEASTS.—Animals have laws for their protection as well as human beings, and when beasts in the shape of bipeds violate those laws they should be held to a strict account. Yesterday we noticed a horse tugging and blowing while pulling a cart heavily laden with coal. The driver was on the side walk, and as the horse was thus left to steer his own course, he came in contact with a lumber wagon. The collision was the signal for the passage of a volley of oaths between the two drivers, while the fellow in charge of the coal cart made it an excuse for beating his horse violently over the head and mouth. There was no policeman about, or the brute-man would have undoubtedly been arrested. He is a beast who should not have the charge of an animal so much his superior as the horse.

THE DAUPHIN COUNTY REGIMENT.—We learn direct from Washington, that the Dauphin County Regiment had not arrived at Washington last night, but were expected to arrive there to-day. There are now three regiments lying in Washington waiting for transportation, so that should the 12th reach that city even to-day, the chances are that it would be detained there until Saturday, while the probabilities are that even then it may not be able to get transportation. As soon as the regiment reaches Washington, we will be applied of the fact, and as soon as it is furnished with transportation, our readers will be informed, so that ample time may be afforded for preparation for the grand reception. That reception cannot possibly take place before Saturday, and we are inclined to believe that it will more likely be postponed until Monday or Tuesday. However, the TELEGRAPH will contain the latest movement of our regiment, so that all can be prepared for the reception.

INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE.—The following correspondence, relating to a highly interesting subject, has been handed to us for publication. We trust that all who peruse it, will contribute the force of their personal aid to secure the success of the entertainment which it suggests:

HARRISBURG, May 14th, 1863.

To Rev. T. H. ROBINSON, J. F. SKELER and R. A. MARTIN, Committee of the Y. M. C. A.

GENTLEMEN:—We have learned with much pleasure that the "Young men's Christian Association" and the "Harmonic Society" are preparing a second concert of music in behalf of the objects of the "United States Christian Commission" in its work of charity and patriotism in the army and navy.

The late battles on the Rappahannock have greatly added to the labor of the commission, and the demand for money and stores in behalf of the sick, wounded and weary soldiers of the country is very great.

We trust that this object will elicit the hearty support of this patriotic community.

Very respectfully your obedient servants,

A. G. CURTIN, D. W. GROSS,
ELI SKELER, KELLER & BROTHER,
WM. M. MERRITT, HENRY GILBERT,
A. L. RUSSELL, JOHN W. HALL,
ISAAC SKELER, WM. DOCK,
WM. V. M'GRATH, CHAS. C. RAWN,
W. M. KERR, WILLIAM BORNBERG,
J. W. WHEE, GEO. BROWN,

WEST FORNEY.

We are permitted to state, for the information of our readers, that the concert referred to above will be given by the Harmonic Society are busily engaged making all the needful preparations. It is the purpose of the society to bring out in the best manner the celebrated Cantata by Mr. Root, called the "Haymakers."

The entire proceeds of the concert will be given to the charitable objects of the Christian Commission.

THE BLOOMFIELD DEMOCRAT lately had a mean attack on the line of mail stages which run to that beautiful village. The object was to injure Mr. Rice, the proprietor of the line, who is obnoxious because he is a loyal man. An arrangement which the passengers in a coach choose to make with regard to seats, is always considered just by those who ride in a stage. The complaint of the correspondent of the Democrat is that there were negroes inside of the coach, while white men rode on the outside. This is certainly a grievous wrong! Why not hold the passengers responsible, instead of the proprietor. The stage line in question is one of the best conducted in the Commonwealth, and hence no anonymous libeller can impugn its reputation.

OUR ORDER OF MEN.—Two Specimen in Lancaster County Soldiers.—One of the favorite boasts of the men of the South has ever been with reference to their superiority as a race. Going back many years in the tracing of their lineage, those in the South who are not directly descended from Pocahontas, claim to be the descendants of men who made the fields, the cabinets, the legislative chambers, and even the thrones of Europe immortal, centuries since. From the chivalry of Virginia to the repudiators of Mississippi, the women Mayers of Louisiana and Florida, down to the dirt eaters of the Carolinas, there has always been a spirit of boasting, such as to lead most people to believe that the men of the South lived on saltpeetre and dealt entirely in "lead or steel." We of the North have heretofore been accustomed to yield the position of martial superiority to the South. It was claimed and worn, and never contested, until the young men of the free States actually began to believe that a soldier, and particularly an officer could not spring from any other locality but where "niggers" were whipped for sport. Previous to the precipitation of this war, such was the faith of the people in the martial superiority of the South, that to question it was to be subjected to doubts as to sanity. But the struggle in which we are engaged has made developments which have upset all this theorizing on the superiority of Southern men. In the fiery crucible of battle, the mettle of men has been severely tested, and out of that fierce heat truths have been melted which have astonished not only the self-asserted chivalry, but summoned the martial valor of the world to pause, contemplate and do homage to the valor of the gallant young men of the North.

We had two specimens of this order of valor in our sanctum yesterday morning for half an hour. Both came from the gallant Old Guard—one a Colonel, the other a Lieutenant colonel. Before the war for slavery was inaugurated, neither dreamed of battle or thirsted for blood. Colonel Emilen Franklin, (for it is he to whom we refer,) of the 122d regiment, P. V., comes from a stock that may not be able to trace its lineage to the brown-faced and soft-eyed royal daughter of the forest, Pocahontas; nor do his armorial bearings carry his name back to the cavaliers whose crimes forced them from the land of their birth. He belongs to a family of lawyers. His father, we believe, was one of the former President Judges of Lancaster county, whom the writer of these paragraphs justly remembers as one whom all delighted to honor. His brother is a lawyer, and he himself is a young lawyer of the highest promise. Yet this man has proven to the haughty dependants on slavery that he can fight without boasting, and gather victories where they shrink from crossing swords with brave soldiers. Lieutenant Colonel M'Govern, also of the 122d regiment, accompanied Colonel Franklin. He was not raised a fire-eater. He has none of Pocahontas' blood in his veins. His heart throbbed with a pure Irish current, which, while it never tingled to the touch of cavalier titles and dignities, leaps to the emotions of a true chivalry, and gives life and animation to a true man.

We want no better specimen of the order of young men in the North, who left professions which do not teach the art of killing such as is taught in the duelling code of the South, a code by which Southern valor alone is measured. We repeat, we want no better specimen of our young men, who have sprung to the vindication of the Government, than those to whom we now allude. And we allude to these with no desire to make invidious distinctions. They are just representatives of the order to which we refer and of which we have a right to be proud. Like them, hundreds of others have left the professions, have left the plough, the press and the workshop, to establish for themselves the very highest characters as soldiers. They went forth to meet men whose lives had been passed in training for war. They went out plain citizens, to contend with those whose boasts have ever been of their matchless prowess and indomitable valor. They have fought a good fight, and return to us with their brows crowned with victorious wreaths. They are ready either to become plain citizens or to resume their position in the field. And in this is their highest virtue. It is their noblest boast that they can be warriors to-day and citizens to-morrow. Surely a nation possessing such material for soldiers, must not, should not, will not be allowed to perish beneath the strokes of as base a conspiracy as ever organized for evil to freedom.

—We must not allow ourselves to be tempted to become verbose while referring to this idea of southern superiority over all that is manly in the north. Our young men have all established their valor. Those to whom we allude personally in this article will shortly return to Lancaster at the head of their brave companions in arms. May we trust that they will be received, as they deserve to be, with honor and the loud acclaim of the people. Now let us add, that we trust all the regiments now in Camp Curtin, with their brave leaders, deserve a like reception at the hands of their friends at home. Let Lancaster city, with all the other localities, prepare a greeting such as the brave have earned. Let her loveliest daughters come forth, and shed their smiles in the paths of the young victors. Let the honored mothers of these brave prepare their noblest blessings. Let fathers and brothers and sons erect the triumphal arch and utter the proclaiming words for those who are about to return, of whom Rome and Greece would have been proud, and to whom Sparta, in the days when her valor was her religion, would have erected altars and burned incense as unto gods.

LOOK OUT FOR PICKPOCKETS IN THE COUNTRY.—We warn our soldier friends who have just been paid off to look out for pickpockets at the Circus this afternoon and evening. A gang of these scoundrels, from Baltimore and Philadelphia, are now in the city, expecting to reap a rich harvest by picking the pockets of the soldiers. Look out, then, for the scoundrels.

A NOBLE TRIBUTE TO VALOR.—The following is one of the most noble tributes to valor which we had the pleasure of printing for many a day. Our readers will concur with us that it is deserved, as the gallant young Harrisburgers to whom it refers has, on many other occasions, proven his mettle as a soldier and a man:

CAMP OF THE EXCELLENCE, N. Y. VOL., Near Fort Mifflin, May 12, 1863.

Editor Harrisburg Telegraph.—Having read an article in your paper some time ago in regard to the bravery and fighting qualities of Lieutenant O. B. Simmons, I will state that on the night of May 2d, when the Eleventh corps broke our line, which was the second battle line, was ordered to advance, and upon coming on the rise of a hill which lay in our front, I saw a Lieutenant with some five or six men fighting and keeping at bay a largely superior force; and as our line advanced up to where he was, I at once made inquiries as to who he was, and what regiment he belonged to. I was told it was Lieutenant Simmons, of the 46th Pennsylvania Volunteers, who, in the darkness and confusion, had become separated from their regiment and were determined not to be taken prisoners. Such men as Lieutenant Simmons are an honor to the country and State they represent. I send you this not as a friend of Lieutenant Simmons, for I never met him before that night, but because it is due to him. I afterwards learned that he was slightly wounded in the face by a piece of shell.

Hoping this may meet your attention, I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,
J. W. STIRDEVANT,
Captain Co. K, 4th Excelsior.

ARRIVAL OF NINE MONTHS' REGIMENTS AT CAMP CURTIN.—Up to last night, five regiments of the nine months' men had arrived and taken quarters at Camp Curtin, namely:

The One Hundred and Twenty-second, Col. Franklin.
The One Hundred and Twenty-third, Col. Clark.
The One Hundred and Twenty-fourth, Col. Jas. W. Hawley.
The One Hundred and Twenty-fifth, Col. Jacob Higgins.
The One Hundred and Twentieth-ninth, Col. Frick.
The One Hundred and Twenty-eighth, Col. Matthews, now a prisoner, arrived here at seven o'clock this morning. This regiment has seen much hard service, and suffered severely since it marched from this city nine months since. These men have all seen hard service. They fought well, and are determined, two-thirds of them, again to enter the army, as soon as they have visited their different homes, and give personal attention to private business which needs their care and supervision. They embrace in their numbers some of the best men in the localities where they were organized, and constitute as good material, as soldiers, as ever shouldered a musket in defence of a great cause.

The following are the nine months' regiments yet to arrive:

One Hundred and Twenty-sixth, Col. James G. Elder.
One Hundred and Twenty-seventh, Col. W. W. Jennings.
One Hundred and Thirtieth, Col. Levi Malah Lee.
One Hundred and Thirty-second, Col. Charles Albright.
One Hundred and Thirty-third, Col. Franklin B. Speakman.
One Hundred and Thirty-fourth, Col. Col. E. O'Brien.
One Hundred and Thirty-fifth, Col. Porter.
One Hundred and Thirty-sixth, Col. Thomas M. Payne.
