It will be seen by a telegraphic dispatch from Washington, that Dr. Lotz, named as Surgeon in this district, under the enrollment act, has declined; and Dr. S. T. It appears like a gentle admonition, and a sort of exhortation to the Governor, in which he is urged to abandon his erratic course. The when combined action and universal confidence and support are especially needful for united operation against the common enemy. Nobody loubts that Governor Brown is a good confederate, and has at heart the independent separa'e existence of Georgia and her allied States. No man has charged him with any coward the accursed old Union. His errors, if such they be, are errors of expediency, not of principle; and we are well assured, by distinguished Georgians, that no man in all the louth has more warmly at heart the total separation of our slaveholding states from all the Yankee States without exception. Once more, we disclaim all idea of thrusting ourselves into question which so essentially pertains to the people of Georgia. At this moment, all that the confederacy can ask of the people of that the confederacy can ask of the people of that State is to give it a Governor who will truly represent the thoroughgoing confederate principle, as that is understood by the hosts of brave men that Georgia has sent forth to stand in the front rank and court the most perilous people of Georgia.
