

Friday Evening, May 22, 1863.
TOWN AND COUNTRY.
The Episcopal Convention.—The Annual Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Convention of Pennsylvania will meet in Philadelphia on Tuesday next. This convention generally remains in session for two or three days. It is composed of both clerical and lay delegates.

The Harmonic Society have appointed a special meeting for this evening, to be held in the lecture room of the Presbyterian Church, at Market Square, to practice for the concert they are about to give for the benefit of the Christian Commission. A full attendance is earnestly hoped for. Meeting to commence at 8 o'clock.

JOHN JOLLY, Co. C, 35th New York regiment, residing at Tereza, Jefferson county, N. Y., while riding on top of a car, was knocked off by a bridge near Hanover Junction, yesterday afternoon, and instantly killed. His remains were taken charge of by his comrades, who have put them into a coffin and shipped them, by Express, to his home. He was an only son, aged twenty years. He had served out his time of enlistment—two years. The regiment passed up the Northern Central Railroad, opposite this city, last evening.

FIRE IN THE MOUNTAINS.—We learn from a correspondent in Penn's Valley, Centre county, Pa., on what is known as the "Seven Mountain" an immense conflagration is now raging, and interrupting travel in that locality. The main stage between Lewistown and Bellefonte is unable to perform its daily trips over the mountain line in question, on account of this fire. A great drought has prevailed in that section of the State, for some weeks, so that the dry underbrush and loose timber on the mountains afford immense fuel for the flames which are now raging.

THE PAYMENT OF CAPTIVES.—Understand, that the Government has agreed to pay the ransom of $10,000 and may be informed, he has received $10,000 besides insurances on the Philadelphia Valley, and other insurance companies, sufficient to almost, if not entirely cover his loss.

LADIES' LOYAL LEAGUES.—We still continue to notice that these organizations are being rapidly established in various parts of the Commonwealth, and wherever the movement is made to secure such an organization, the most respectable ladies of the locality are identified with the League. We have frequently urged their support on the attention of the ladies of the State Capital, where of all other localities such an organization should exist. The elements which compose respectable society in this city are mostly loyal. Occasionally an influence attempts to show itself, which would tend to sympathy with treason if it were suffered to develop; but this is met and frowned down by the ladies of Harrisburg, who wield a just influence in such matters. That influence would be augmented if every lady in the city would resolve to organize a Loyal League. Combined and strengthened by unity of action, the ladies could effect additional good to that which they are already doing for their country. They could add to the resources of the Government in a hundred ways, if they would take advantage of organization. We, therefore, again urge this matter on the attention of the ladies of Harrisburg. It was related of Lydia Darrah, the fearless and pure souled Quakeress who was of such incalculable service to Gen. Washington while his army was encamped amid the snows of Valley Forge, that she frequently declared to Washington, that men only should contend with men in war, but that women should be left alone to combat with torments. Lydia Darrah despised a tory as she hated sin. Let her example be followed by the ladies of the great free North. While the men of the free States are contending with traitors in arms, let the ladies organize to do battle with the tories!

A FRIENDLY ENTERTAINMENT TO A BRAVE MAN.—Gen. E. B. Tyler, late commander of the First Brigade, Third Division, Fifth Army Corps, arrived in this city yesterday and took rooms at the Buehler House. In the course of the afternoon, a large number of the 126th and 134th regiments, now here awaiting payment, which were attached to his command, thronged his apartments, expressing for him a hearty welcome and their delight at his presence.

STANT DEATH.—Mr. Johnston Irvin, an engineer, died on Saturday morning last, met with an accident on Saturday morning last which makes a person shudder to think of. The Cambria Times says that while he was engaged in cleaning around a moving rod and pulling upon a cloth while the rod slipped through his hold, he was against a large strap-wheel, and was carried under and around the wheel to the other side, where, coming in contact with the floor and frame work, his presence under the strap stopped the wheel and a twenty horse strap was split and cut and the man released one about expected to find him crushed to a shapeless mass and dead. He was still alive, and, but, astonishing to a few moments, but much less so than was expected. He was conveyed to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Geo. W. McDowell, in Kettleville, where he remained with a prospect of ultimate recovery. One of his shoulders was dislocated, and the bone fractured, as was also the dislocation of several cuts and painful contusions. Mr. Irvin returned from the army a month or two weeks since. If he survives this, he is a great credit to him hereafter. He wasn't killed in that way.

THE NEW RULES OF WAR.—The War Department has issued the instructions for the armies of the United States in the field, prepared by Gen. John A. Brinton, and revised by a board of officers, of which Major General E. A. Hitchcock was President. Having been approved by the President of the United States, he commands that they be published.

Among other things, the instructions set forth that the place, district, or county, occupied by an enemy, stands in the same relation to the occupying army, whether any proclamation declaring martial law or any public warning to the inhabitants has been issued or not. Martial law is the immediate or direct effect and consequence of the authority and use of war; it is the status of the power which that law confers. As martial law is executed by military force it is incumbent upon those who administer, to be strictly guided by the principles of justice, honor and humanity.

Consuls among American and European nations are not diplomatic agents. Nevertheless, their offices and persons will be subjected to martial law in case of emergency; only their property and persons are not exempted. Any delinquency they commit against the established rule may be punished as in the case of any other inhabitant, and such punishment forms no reasonable ground for international complaint.

The more vigorously wars are pursued, the better it is for humanity. Sharp wars are brief. The instructions also treat of the appropriation by a victorious army of the public and private property of the enemy—protection of persons, especially of women, children, the sick, and wounded, and punishment of crimes against the inhabitants of hostile countries. There exists no law or body of authoritative rules of action between hostile armies except the law of nature and the usages of war on the land.

Slavery, complicating and confounding the idea of property (that is of a thing) and of persons, especially of women, children, the sick, and wounded, and punishment of crimes against the inhabitants of hostile countries. There exists no law or body of authoritative rules of action between hostile armies except the law of nature and the usages of war on the land.

THE CITIZENS OF HARRISBURG are informed that the instructions say "armed troops levying war against the United States, and is therefore treason."
