> NECESSARY.—The lower market house, in Market square, was converted into a rendezvous early this morning, by the provost guard, which they continued to occupy until the TELE-GRAPH went to press this afternoon. The reason assigned for this movement is to prevent any riotous conduct in the vicinity of the paymaster's office, near the Jones House, and to have the men ready should any disturbance require their services in any other section of the city.

REVOKED.—A dispatch received from Lieut. Colonel M'Carthey, who was sent to Washington last week to inquire into the facts relative to the payment of the officers of the different regiments, as regards their arms, equipments, &c., states that he has accomplished his mission, and the order to retain their pay until all their accounts are settled has been revoked. In this manner five of the dwellings suffered, by the breaking of windows, door panels, furniture, &c., frightening the occupants out of the back doors bscured by fresh loads, and day after day the safety in flight. Just at this stage of action, the Mayor of the city appeared, addressed the mob, and requested them to disperse, without committing any PROMOTIONS FOR GALLANT SERVICES .- Colonel further deprecations, stating that if it was not would be resorted to. This had the effect of distanding the crowd, which had increased to several hundred persons, and they all retired without any further damage to the premises.

When the excitement first commenced, a squad of the provost guard made its appearance, but did not succeed in effecting much good, although it quieted and scattered the mass for the time being.

This morning the scene of operations of the mob bore a sad and disgraceful appearance.-The neighborhood is a favorite negro resort, being almost the prescribed limits of the negro population: It was a sad and pitiful sight to see old and young negroes, helpless women and children, some bleeding from wounds inflicted, others in despair at the destruction of their property, and all utterly wee-begone and hope-less of protection from the mad fury of the mob which still glared upon them with threatening that the Garman was a sout who have been which still glared upon them with threatening that the Garman was a sout who have been been who have been who h less of protection from the mad fury of the mob which still glared upon them with threatening aspect. First Soldier .- "Well, Ned, we have got our green-backs, and we have won a little reputation as soldiers, so that we can now go home with satisfaction and be certain of an honorable velcome at the hands of our friends and relations.

Second Soldier .- "Home! go home; did you say, Bill?" First Soldier. - "To be sure I said home. Ain" you going home?"

Second Soldier .- "No! Let me tell you why who are beautiful, with a mother who loves me and whom I adore, but," and the soldier hung his head in shame. "my father is a bitter copperhead. I have a letter in my pocket from one of my sisters, in which she writes, that father has become so odius in the neighborhood for his treason sympathy, that he is shunned by his neighbors and despised by all his former friends. I cannot go home to share that disgrace. I will attempt to preserve the name I bear from dishonor by re-enlisting and fighting in defence of the Government which my father AND MODERN ARENA is attempting to disgrace and dishonor." The soldier, evidently moved by stiring emotions, left his companions and was soon lost in the crowd which then occupied the side-walks.

We trust the father of that brave boy may yet feel some pang for his treason sufficiently strong to change his malignity. And may his son, thus driven from his home to find love and duty in the ranks of the glorious defenders of his country, some day find the home of his childhood cleansed of all that is treasonable and cowardly, and be welcomed to it by the smiles of his mother and brothers and sisters whom he so sincerely loves.

PHILADELPHIA, August 23d, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Kvans:—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouch ed for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, and under the immediate command of Captain R. B. Ayers. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in No vember last with inflammation of the lungs on board the steamer State of Maine, from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it is the same distribution to be supported by the same distribution. it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these cir cumstances; and, accordingly, the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me and advised me to see a clergyman and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Stein-bron, of Sixth below Arch street, advised me, as a forlorn hope, to tryfyour bitters, and kind-ly procured a bottle. From the time I com-menced taking them the gloomy shedward. menced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained ten pounds, and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months; for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly yours, ISAAC MALONE.
