PANIC AT CARLIELE .- This morning a number of farm wagons, heavily laden, arrived in this city from Carlisle. From one of the teamsters who was considerably excited, we learned that a rumor that the rebels were rapidly approaching Carlisle, had been circulated, the citizens became panic-stricken, and the merchants packed up their goods for shipment. The wagons which arrived here contain goods of every description which were intended to be shipped East. From a reliable source we af ferward learned that there was no special cause for the excitement—the rumor, as in numerous other cases, having no foundation.

A WARNING TO PROPANE SWEARERS. - An'engineer on one of the railroads, leading from this city, was recently killed under very distressing circumstances. It seems he was sadly duct, and placed in the lock-up until this eveaddicted to profane swearing, and on his last ning. trip, remarked that he would run the damned old machine, referring to his engine, as an old one, to hell some of these days. On his return trip, whilst waiting at one of the stations for the signal to start, the boller of the engine exploded, instantly killing him and one of his companions, and wounding several others .-Little did he, probably, think that the Almighty would take him at his word.

THE COTTON FACTORY HOSPITAL.-The building recently occupied by medical authorities, near the Cotton Factory, as a hospital, and used by the Company to store away cotton, is again to be opened for the accommodation of sick and wounded, and will be ready for the admission of patients to-morrow. This new hospital has one hundred beds ready to be occupied by sick and wounded, all placed in the main room, which is plenty large enough to accommodate one hundred invalids. The room looks very neat and clean, the walls are well white washed and ventilation has been increased by taking away the old ceiling, thus giving the air free access through the blinds in the roof. Tents have been erected in the yard, to be used by the nurses for sleeping apartments, an improvement never before carried out at this place. Surgeon Woods, late of the 52d Penna. Vols. will have charge of the patients and superintend the duties of those attached to the hospital.
