THE SITUATION.

Let no man be deceived this morning that the city of Harrisburg is safe from rebel attack; that they have left our immediate vicinity, and retlacing their steps towards Virginia. Such is not the fact. It is true that they have retreated from our immediate front, but there is no doubt that they are concentrating their forces in the mountains between Carliele and Gestvsburg. Remember that they left Chamtheir homes, believing that they would not be molested again, the rebels returned, which enabled them to steal more the last time than they obtained on their first visit.

Danger to Pennsylvania and the North is still imminent—everything depending upon the encounter between Lee and Meade. If our army should be defeated, we have no hope ex cept in the large armies raised in the North No efforts should be spared to hurry forward military organizations everywhere. We have the best of reasons for giving this intimation.

PROVE our special reporter who got through the rebel pickets at Carlisle, on Saturday night many are aware as to cause of their suffer and was equally successful yesterday at twelve tion of their doings.

ARRIVAL OF THE BESELS.

During the afternoon of Saturday the advance guard of rebels arrived at Carlisle, which consisted of twelve regiments, who encamped at the Garrison, one brigade encamped in the College grounds, and another brigade at Bosler's Mills, at the head of the Letort Springs

They had twenty pieces of artillery with them, and under the command of Gen. Ewell. Gen. Jenkins fode at once towards Mechanicsburg, with a force of about fifteen hundred cavally. Gen. Johnson had a force of near five thousand men around Plainfield and Mount ertyre er tal abbra

A skirmish ensued about six o'clock last evening, a few miles west of Oyster's Point, between a portion of rebel cavalry, with ten pieces of artillery, and an infantry force under Gen. Knipe, with four pieces of artillery.

The engagement was quite brisk, the artillery firing several rounds. One of our lieutenauts was wounded in the neck, and a private in the leg.

The enemy was finally forced to retire, and were followed up by Gen. Knipe.

The reports of the cannon were distinctly heard at several points in this city.
