are one company of six month's men.

It is understood that some dissatisfaction is expressed by a number of the residents of Huntingdon at the manner in which your correspondent, in a former letter, made mention of the existence, within her limits, of a set of extortioners, who, having neither the fear of God nor the love of justice implanted within their breasts, charge double, and often treble, prices for cert in necessary articles pertaining to camp.life. The complaint is, not that he has seen too severe on these harpies, but, rather, that he should "have spoken right out in meeting," and given their names, so that the com-munity might be enabled to readily identify

With all due deference to the opinion of these patriotic cit zens, your corresp ndent is still of spinion that that task should of right devolve ut on other shoulders. In mentioning the existence of these land sharks—these excrescences that, to a greater or less extent, intest all communities—no intention was had of casing odium or discredit upon Huntingdon. It was only desired to make public a fact that is, or should be, self-evident. Having thus done, he rests content, and leaves the tack of tracing the gentry aforementioned to those who are more intimately concerned than he.

In conclusion, your correspondent would say, that, for a town of its size, Huntingdon is a remarkably loyal place. Within her limits, Union is the rule. Cop, etheadism the exception. Yours, etc.,
