SAMUEL SARGE, Secretary.

A Soldler's Test Vote-Curtin or Wood-ward. That the sick soldier, the convalescent soldier, and the soldier on the battle field are de voutly attached to Andrew G. Curtin, is neither reasonable. Brave men are those eccentricities for which a sick man is not acgenerally grateful, and if ever a class of men had cause to be grateful to any individual occupyling official position and wielding power, those to an article headed "The Soldier's Candidate—An Incident," because I had read an article with men are the soldiers, and the one to whom they are indebted most, is Andrew G. Curtiu. No man ever served a constituency as Andrew G. man ever served a constituency as Andrew G. was sought to be created that the portrait of Curtin has served and still serves the soldiers of Gov. Curtin which adorns the walls of this hosthe Keystone State, both while they are in the pital, had been placed in position against the will field battling with traitors, and while they are in of the soldiers, and that its being within our the hospitals suffering from the effects of their sight is distasteful and insulting. I am almost too weak to write, but thank God I am strong struggles for the government. The soldiers enough to brand the author of the article in understand this service, and they know how to the Tory Organ, which contains this assortion appreciate it. If the soldiers had not been deas a liar as well as a coward, as a base fabrica-prized of the secred privilege of the franchise tor as well as a traitor. Not only the portrait of, prived of the sacred privilege of the franchise. by the action of a meanly partizen judicial decision, they would prove the grateful devotion, which we know they entertain for Gov. Curtin, at the ballot box next October. As an evidence of this fact, we submit a brief account below of a test vote taken in one of the U.S. hospitals in the vicinity of Philadelphia. The vote was taken last Saturday morning, and may be regarded as a fair indication of the sen- grant us the glorious privilege. But if we cannot timent which animates the great majority of vote for Andy, we can love and honor him.

In conclusion, Mr. Trlegraph, just say to the Tory Organ writer that he lies when he gives this vote:

Rapid Emancipation in Missouri.

The slaves in the Western border countles of Missonti have been practical emancipationists for some time, and the war is making what is left of them immediates of the active persuasion. The St. Louis Union of the 18th states that the negroes are leaving the Western border counties in droves-starting, sometimes, from fifty miles in the interior, and traveling unmolested directly along the public highways, through towns and villages, to the Missouri THE REBELLION—THE TRIUMPH OF river, where they are promptly aided to cross THE "STARS AND STRIPES." In some instances they are guarded STRICT MAINTENANCE OF THE UNION. and protected on their journey by Kansas Jayhawkers and Missouri troops, who prevent attempts by their masters to arrest them, by armed

The St. Joseph Herald states that during the ast two months the slaves have been leaving Platt county at the rate of about thirty per day. The slave population of the county in 1860 was 8,312, and now there are but two or three hundred left. The Herald says from all portions of North Missouri we have the same information. The claves are leaving by day and by night .-Few owners pretend to stay the excdus.

Such is the slave situation in Missouri, an the St. Louis Union declares the fact to be that "there is no longer any slavery in the State. A gegro is just as free as the man who pretends to own him. There is hardly a single darkey who cannot run off, or even walk off, any hour of the day or night without terlous fears of being oursued."

Missouri is a State of immense territory, as well as agricultural and mineral wealth, and when fully rid of slavery will rapidly fill up with an intelligent, enterprising population -Free labor will, in due time, make Missouri the Empire State of the Great West.

Gov. Curtin, the Soldiers' Candidate.

Editor of the Evening Telegraph: By the merest accident a copy of that vile sheet which you justly denominate the Tory Or countable, I was induced to peruse its pages for a few moments. My eye was naturally attracted to an article headed "The Soldier's Candidate article in the Tory Organ, that the impression but Gov. Curtin himself, is beloved by every active and disabled soldier claiming to come from the old Keystone State. He is emphatically the friend of the soldier, and if Woodward, the copperhead candidate for Governor, had not robbed the boys of their right to vote, Andy would get such a majority next fall as would satisfy the Tory Organ how distasteful his por-trait is to the sick seldiers in the Cotton Factory Hospital.
