Rebel Advice and Copperhead Response.

"The success of the Democratic party will be no longer doubtful, should Gen. Lee once more advance on Meade. Let him drive Meade into Washington and he will gain again the spirits of the Democrats, confirm their timid and give confidence to their wavering."—RICHMOND ENQUIRER.

"We must arouse ourselves, and reassert the RIGHTS OF THE SLAVEHOLDER, and add such GUARANTEES to our Constitution as will protect his property from the spoliation of religious bigotry or persecution, or else we must give up our Constitution and Union."—Geo. W. WOODWARD.

George M. Dallas.

We have noticed, for some time, a statement in different journals, to the effect that Hon. George M. Dallas, perhaps the oldest Democrat now in the Union, had expressed a determination to vote for Andrew G. Curtin. The statement has been repeated so often, without contradiction, that we are willing to accept it as the truth. It has nothing strange in it, when we remember that Mr. Dallas never acted with the men who now have possession of what is called the Democratic organization. He has always opposed the faction at the head of which he stands, and still stands, James Buchanan. He has never been a favorite with the rulers of the Democratic party. Dallas and Buchanan, Dallas and Jerry Black, Dallas and Woodward, Dallas and Lowrie and in fact Dallas and every prominent man now at the head of the copperheads, have been and still are foes, the jealous foes in aspiration and principle. In order to kill Dallas, these very men seduced him into voting against protection—a vote from which he has never recovered, and for which perhaps he is now anxious to do penance by lending his influence to defeat the men who deluded him into the perpetration of that great wrong.

To Be Impeached.

T. G. Bingham, Esq., of Pittsburg, a candidate on the Union ticket in Allegheny county for the Legislature, has addressed a note to Justice Woodward, informing him of his intention to ask the appointment of a committee at the coming session of the Legislature, for the purpose of investigating the charges of disloyalty now resting against the Chief Justice. This is the bravest declaration of a just purpose that we have heard for many a day. Taking the sentiments heretofore uttered by Justice Woodward, accepting his declaration of attachment to the South as sincere, and laying aside all personal prejudices against Justice Woodward, we believe that his impeachment by the Legislature could be as effectually established as could the guilt of a man proven who is caught in the act of stealing a horse by a dozen respectable and intelligent witnesses. In the case of Justice Woodward the people of the State will testify, and the testimony of his overwhelming rejection at the polls as a candidate for the highest office of the State will be the evidence of his disloyalty, the proof of his treason sympathies and practices, sufficiently strong to secure his impeachment, and have him hurled from the bench which he dishonors, with the disgrace he deserves. In announcing his intention to call for a committee of investigation, by the next Legislature, into the loyalty of Justice Woodward, Mr. Bingham has earned the good opinions of all good men in Pennsylvania. We believe that a committee fairly constituted, and willing to listen to the testimony as it could be produced, would be able to impeach Justice Woodward on the high crime of treason. If Woodward is innocent, so are Davis and Lee, and all the other bloody cut-throats now upholding the rebellion.

One of the Objects of Democratic Sympathy for Rebellion.

When the slave-holders prepared to inaugurate rebellion, they had other objects in view besides those of merely establishing a government independent of that of the National authority. They did not seek merely to associate, alone, the slave-holding States, and to pursue their own path of prosperity by the assistance of slave labor. While such results were contemplated, the great object in view was the complete ruination of the free States. The interests of free labor and the influences of free institutions were alike to be degraded and destroyed. The Southern Confederacy, with its lack of the means of progress, and its spirit of antagonism, growing out of the institution of slavery, to the improvements and elevations of civilization, could not exist side by side with a Republic ever developing, ever pushing forward, gathering new strength with years, and increasing in power while other Governments were decaying in influence. Hence, the first great object of the rebellion was to ruin the free States. Perhaps the term ruin does not express this object in its true sense. The people of the free States were to be utterly degraded. They were to be allowed an existence entirely dependent on the behests and the will of the minions of slavery. No penal colony was ever as subservient to a home government as were the free to be made subservient to the slave States.

When the rebellion was in the course of concoction, the Democratic leaders of the free States were fully apprised of this intention. As the conspirators hoped to be undisturbed in their aggressions by the degradation of the people of the free States, those same Democratic leaders dreamed of being eternally able to wield power by the same influence, and thus pledging themselves in mutual efforts for the consummation of a great wrong, these wretches bound themselves in oaths to an alliance which they have ever since maintained.

In Pennsylvania, to-day, the object of the leaders of the copperhead Democracy is to secure the degradation of the free States, before they can secure the final triumph of the rebellion. This degradation is to be fixed by elevating men to power who are favorable to the disfranchisement of the masses—who are sworn to the degradation of the defenders of the National authority—and who will, in all things, degrade labor. Justice Woodward is the advocate of the divine right of slavery, which doctrine means, that all labor should be degraded to slavery, and that all men who labor, whether white or black, are unworthy the rights or the franchises of freemen. The slaveholders in the South rebelled to vindicate and permanently establish this doctrine. With a confederacy founded on this faith, the friends of slavery could not live in peace side by side with a nation devoted to freedom. Hence, while the confederacy was being established, the free States must be ruined to secure the establishment of a nation devoted to slavery. This ruination is to be the work of the sympathizers with traitors. How well both are to succeed, the people of the free States themselves must decide. It is useless to discuss the points of this question, to make them plain to the people. All men who want to see these facts need only observe the actions of the leaders who now possess what is called the Democratic organization. If they cannot discover in these acts, the indication of a purpose on the part of these Democratic leaders to ruin the free States and to degrade free labor, then are the people blind to their own interests, and almost deserve the calamities which are impending, to restore them to their right and their manhood.

REMEMBER, THE PAYERS, that in one year the ordinary expenses of the State Government were reduced NINE-FIVE THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEEN DOLLARS, ($95,317 '00), by ANDREW G. CURTIN!

The War Democracy.

The Tory Organ is in a rage this morning. Violent Barrett must have snapped a valuable string of cat gut while musically invoking the aid of the spirits. We know of no other way to account for the froth which effervesces in the editorials of the Organ this morning, unless some of the editorial staff have been presented with a free ticket to Friedrich's beer vault, where they drank to the oblivion of truth, decency and patriotism. The War Democracy have excited the ire of the Organ, and we wonder whether they have not also aroused its fears and its guilty conscience. There is no doubt whatever of the intentions of the War Democrats. Those who have, like MacDowell, Hester, Burke, and hundreds of others, come out boldly for the Union cause, have struck terror to the guilty souls of the demagogues and tricksters who now lead the Democratic party for the purpose of ruining the State of Pennsylvania. But it is not these outspoken, fearless men who have alone produced consternation among the copperhead leaders. Those leaders begin to discover a more dangerous evil in the ominous silence which hundreds and thousands of the masses of the Democratic party are maintaining—the real War Democrats, whose patriotic devotion for the Union and the Government is so bitterly denounced by the Tory Organ. Thousands of Democrats will vote for Curtin and Agnew, and let the act only be known to themselves and their God. Thousands of Democrats will vote quietly for Union candidates for the Legislature, willing to be unknown in the labor which brought about victory, and willing to stand aloof from the glory of a triumph which they assisted in achieving. Such men are under no obligations to the Democratic party, save the obligation of support which they feel they owe it when they imagined that its principles were pure. But that day has passed. The scales have fallen from their eyes. The stench of Democratic corruption is in their nostrils. They feel that the country needs their services—so that the blows which will come from these silent, humble, though pure and patriotic men, will teach copperheads how really terrible the war Democracy are, when aroused by fears for the safety of the Government. In view of these facts, we advise the Tory Organ to recognize its spleen, and save a portion to be poured out on the heads of the War Democrats who have not yet spoken. Don't pour it all out on Col. MacDowell.

THE COMMISSARY'S WAREHOUSE.

The facts in relation to the recent discharges at the Commissary's Warehouse are of the simplest character. Those discharged were alike Republicans and Democrats, but so jealous are some of the loud-mouthed locofocos of this city, (and we may add so guilty, also,) that the discharge of any of them from the public service is at once attributed (by themselves) to lack of loyalty. Perhaps it would be well to let fellows sit in judgment on their own cases, and accept the verdict which they render against themselves. Certain it is, that none of the Republicans complained who were relieved from service, because such as these knew that the work was completed which they were engaged to perform. We are also desired to state, that the Africanus who are also charged with usurping the places of the Caucasian friends of the Tory Organ, are a lot of contractors who follow the commissary's business from post to post, and who are kept to do a certain kind of work which they are familiar, and which the aforesaid Caucasian friends of the Tory Organ would regard as beneath their powers and dignity. This whole story was intended to influence votes, and to make capital for the copperhead ticket in the city, but its exposure following thus closely on its invention and circulation, has deprived access in Harrisburg of the use of a petty falsehood at the coming election.

Since the above was written we have received additional information, all going to exonerate Capt. Robinson from any ulterior motive in the discharges complained of—discharges which would have been made weeks ago, but for the fact that the removal of commissary stores and property from the old to the new warehouses, had first to be effected. When that was accomplished, the discharges in question were made, perfectly in accordance with the requirements of the service. We now dismiss this subject, as being entirely one of those "sensations" for which the Tory Organ, in its blind zeal for party is becoming so peculiar.

The Ludicrous Mistakes of the Copperhead Candidate for Senator.

We are willing to accord Mr. Boas a fair possession of good business qualities—he can discriminate between coiling boards and panoply stuff—but he certainly has a poor judgment of men, or he would not fall into the gross error of regarding all Democrats as copperheads. Mr. Boas should remember that there are such men as War Democrats—Democrats who regard the country, the unity of its States and the authority of its Government, as above and beyond all other considerations, as worthy of every sacrifice and their noblest support. When he talks to such as these, Mr. Boas should at least suppress the intensity of his treasonable sympathies, if he desires to retain a portion of the respect of such men, without ever hoping of securing their political support. Whenever Mr. Boas declares to a War Democrat, (whom he supposes to be a copperhead) that he (Boas) is desirous of affording the rebels an opportunity to lay down their arms, that he is willing to enter into any compromise for peace, and that in this war the rights for which the South battle, are as sound as the rights which the North defend—we write, when Mr. Boas indulges in such confidential expressions to War Democrats whom he mistakes for copperheads, the said War Democrats seek our sanction to enlighten us, and we are constrained to refer to the facts as we do now for the benefit of loyal men and the admonition of Mr. Boas, to beware how far he goes in provoking the honest indignation of War Democrats. The opportunity which Mr. Boas would afford the rebels to lay down their arms, they have had every day since they took up arms to destroy the Government. Every traitor in the land has all the inducements now that they ever will get, to return in peace to their allegiance. If they do not accept the terms of the Constitution, they must take the pressure of war for their persuasion, and feel in the heavy blows of our armies, how insane and useless it is to oppose a great Government, or war with a free people for its overthrow. As Mr. Boas is now conducting the canvass, we have a notion that he will get the least vote which ever an opposing candidate for Senatorial honors received in this district. He is therefore welcome to all his confidential conversations with War Democrats.

[From the Daily Commercial.] A Voice from the Army.

MAJOR JOSEPH STEELE, A LIFE-LONG DEMOCRAT, IN FAVOR OF GOV. CURTIN. HEADQUARTERS 2d PA. CAVALRY, GERMANTOWN, Pa., Sept. 14.

Col. J. B. FISLAW, Kilmarnock, Pa.—Colonel: I have the honor to inform you that the members of the James E. Brown Dragoons, (Co. M., this regiment,) my old company, with but few exceptions, are all well. William Starr, of Dayton, is now lying ill with dysentery, but is recovering rapidly.

I have been appointed and mustered into service as Major, dating from May 1st. I have company M in my battalion. The army is now lying quietly in camp and doing little or no duty, except picketing along the river to be remembered Sappington and an occasional dress parade and drill. It is being rapidly increased to its maximum by conscripts who are daily arriving. The people must not expect too much from the army until the raw recruits and conscripts are properly instructed in the various movements necessary to make an experienced soldier; but if called upon at any time this army will fill its place, as heretofore, in the annals of fame.

If the account in the newspapers be true, the political feeling in Pennsylvania, as regards the election of Governor and other State officers, is growing warm. There is very little in the army said about it.

If not asking too great a favor of you, I will request you, in behalf of the James E. Brown Dragoons, to say to their friends, and in fact to the people of Armstrong county, to be exceedingly careful how they vote this fall. We do not pretend to say that the people of Armstrong county do not know how to vote, but we fear that there has been a great change in their minds since we had the opportunity of voting with them. All were then for the Union and Administration, and we do sincerely hope that it is so yet. They should take into consideration that no man can be placed in power who can please all, or that fault cannot be found with the very best men by those desirous of so doing. It is not for us to dictate to them for whom they should vote, as we know them competent to judge for themselves, but we would like to see men elected who are good Union men, and who are unanimously in favor of the preservation of the war. We do not want to have a peace man elected to any office of honor, profit or trust. If there are any peace men in Armstrong county, they should go where they properly belong, south of the Mason-Dixon line. There we could meet them in their true character, and deal with them as they undoubtedly deserve. But we hope there is not a peace man or anti-administration man in Armstrong county. We do to those that would cry peace now, with the reports of the bloody battles fresh upon their memories! with the numerous gory battle fields stained with the blood of their brothers and countrymen—perhaps with the blood of those who entered into the same sport—attended the same school—and were blessed by the same baptismal hand as they themselves. And even Pennsylvania—so lately invaded by the vilest of foes—causing our dear old native State to be crimsoned with the blood of her noble sons—should be enough to stop the mouths of her peace pretenses. The man that would cry peace, at such a time is not deserving the name of man.

Should we let the blood of our patriot soldiers be shed in vain? With the soldier there can be no peace until we conquer or die. Death before such a peace as would snap victory from the hope or the laurel from the brow of him who deserves to wear it. And we will demonstrate to the world that we can conquer our stubborn foe; and that our cause is just. And we hope ere long to see the day when the Star Spangled banner will float proudly over the land now in rebellion.

"For the Star Spangled Banner forever shall wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Every man in Armstrong county can support one of the main stays of that banner by voting for ANDREW G. CURTIN for Governor, who has done more than any other Governor of any loyal State to prosecute the war, and for the support of the Administration.

We know you have done a great deal as an individual in assisting to carry on the war—you have been the means of raising thousands of men. Your time and money have been spent freely for the cause; and your purse has always been at the disposal of the needy soldiers to be recompensed only by a glorious triumph being won, and the Union restored. We would ask you to keep your shoulder to the wheel until the war is over. Your enemies, if any, may talk as they please; we, however, know you will never be forgotten by the soldiers you have befriended.

We know if there is a change in the Administration, it will be the means of prolonging the war and strengthening the enemy. You know that I am a Democrat and before the war broke out I did all I could to have the difficulties settled without coercion, so as to have the Union preserved as it was. But nothing would do. I was among the first to offer my services to my country. Now, I would ask the people of Armstrong county—especially the Democrats—to sacrifice a little of their political pride and look to their own and their country's best interests, as well as the interests of their brothers—their sons and their friends in the field, and support at the ballot-box the present Administration—as a change of Governor of Pennsylvania would be most disastrous to the cause now!

I wish to let you know that I am not indebted to Governor Curtin for any appointment to this or to any of my friends; but I wish to let you know that you know the feelings of the Democrats of the army, and my own in particular. JOSEPH STEELE, Major of 2d Battalion, 2d Reg't Pa. Cavalry.

REMEMBER, Loyal Men, that in two years, nearly TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN, TO ADD TO CRUSHING A WICKED AND CAUSELESS REBELLION, were furnished from Pennsylvania, by ANDREW G. CURTIN!

ROSCRANS' ARMY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. There is no foundation whatever for rumors, said to be in circulation in New York, that there has been an interruption in the line of communication between the army General Roscrans and its base of supplies. The last official information from that quarter indicates that matters are progressing as favorably as can be expected, and no apprehension of disaster of any kind is entertained.

Dr. Vollum, Medical Inspector of the Department of Washington, has been ordered to report to General Roscrans, as Medical Inspector of the Department of the Cumberland.

A supposed blockade runner restored to its owner. Boston, Oct. 2. Judge Sprague has issued a decree restoring the ship Bana to her captain. She was captured off Wilmington, N. C., by the steamer Nippon, and was suspected at the time of attempting to run the blockade off that port.

First National Bank of New York. New York, Oct. 2. The first report of the first National Bank of New York, was published to-day, and is considered highly favorable. The bank has been in operation only sixty days, and will soon increase its capital.

A JOINT RESOLUTION PROPOSING CERTAIN AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION. It is resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, That the following amendments be proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth, in accordance with the provision of the tenth article thereof:

There shall be an additional section to the third article of the Constitution, to be designated as section four, as follows: SECTION 4. Whenever any of the qualified electors of this Commonwealth shall be in any actual military service, under requisition from the President of the United States, or by the authority of this Commonwealth, such electors may exercise the right of suffrage in all elections by the citizens, under such regulations as are, or shall be, prescribed by law, as full as if they were present at their usual place of election.

There shall be two additional sections to the eleventh article of the Constitution, to be designated as sections eight and nine, as follows: SEC. 8. No bill shall be passed by the Legislature, containing more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title, except appropriation bills.

SEC. 9. No bill shall be passed by the Legislature granting any powers, or privileges, in any case, where the authority to grant such powers, or privileges, has been, or may hereafter be, conferred upon the courts of this Commonwealth.
