Ohio and Pennsylvania! The voices of these two great States go forth together in thunder tones, proclaiming the the utter abhorrence with which they regard traitors and their sympathizers. Pennsylvania re-elects Andrew G. Curtin by at least twenty and falling to the ground and even when thousand majority. Before these brilliant results the slaveholders' rebellion will topple te generosity? Pennsylvania, yesterday, sealed her lng soldiers, treated his best friend, the man devotion to the Union. From her hills and who is to-day among the most popular of Ameher vallies, from her cities and her hamlets, she Andrew G. Curtin was grappling with the enesends greeting to her sons in arms for the de- mies of the country-while he was meeting the fence of the Government, with the assurance people of Pennsylvania, frankly discussing the that her sons at home are true to the old cause. the old flag and the old Government. It is a blow at treason, which seals its doom forever. It is a knell to the sympathizers of treason, which consigns them to eternal and irretrievable oblquity. Nor is this all. The attitude which Pennsylvania assumed in the election yesterday, enables her people to wield an influence which will extend beyond the mere crushing out of domestic treason - and which must be after the election. This, however, he did not felt in every court in Europe, where conclaves do. The election officers in the First and Second wards have earned for themselves an eternal friends increased his vote in Bellefonte about a load of obliquity. Hereafter they will be hundred. It was an increase springing from the pointed at with scorn and contempt by honest men, while the friends of the soldiers must look upon these officials as the brazen faced, tory sympathizers, who left no pretext unused or effort untried, to disfranchise the brave defenders of the Union. If the half is true that we hear in regard to the conduct of the officers of the election in the First and Second wards, we have no doubt but that they could be convicted of perjury and sent to the penitentiary for having conspired to defraud enfranchised men of their just right to vote. With the facts before the District Attorney, we call upon him in the name of justice and the rights of man, at once to institute suits against the is glorious. great issues involved in the political contest for Governor-while this glorious man was being assailed with slander, traduced and maligned, George B. M'Clellan stood sloof, never deigning to come to the rescue of his faithful friend, either with a voice to cheer or a word to defend. But we could have overlooked this silent indifference, and attribute it to the lack of feeling which is peculiar to cold hearted and over ambitious men, had M'Clellan maintained his reticence throughout the campaign and until men as Reverdy Johnson, of Maryland, a bitter sympathizer with treason, and Fitz John Porter, a convicted traitor, George deceive the honest men of Pennsylvania, and thus defeat and disgrace Andrew G. Cortin .-That letter was held back until the eve of the election. Then it was sprung upon the people as the rebellion was precipitated, when the ing thus guided a free people into the path of treacherous men engaged in the plot imagined it could not be counteracted, and when it would accomplish the most mischief. This is the ingratitude of George B. M'Clellan. This is the style in which he repays those who defend ubiquitous and valiant General Miller, of the bim. Before M'Clellan gave himself up to the uses of a band of New York politicans, he had some manhood in him. Yet under the manipulations of the bad men of the Democratic party, the quality of manhood has been entirely worked out of M'Clellan. But, we are
