HARRISBURG, PA.

Monday Evening, October 19, 1868.

Now for Peace.

We are not of the sanguine ones who believe that the great rebellion of the Democratic slave holders, can be disposed of by a stroke of diplomacy. The treasen of the slaveholders partakes of that practical character which deals only in blows, and which will yield only to blows -Notwithstanding, however, we still believe that the result of the elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa and Indiana, will go as far in the restoration of peace, as the result of a well fought battle, with victory "on our side," could possibly go. One of the delusions of the Southern as well as the Northern traitor has been, that the people of the free Seates would not support the policy adopted to crush rebeliion. Northern traitors constantly, insisted tha the rebellion must be overcome without fighting it—that the Government could be vindica ted without invading or conquering the rebel States. From all this, the rebels have constantly taken courage. Believing that the people of the free States would not sustain the policy of the Government to crush rebellion, the rebels themselves imagined that it would be an easy matter to destroy that Government. It was this faith that inspired the rebel leaders to persist in their efforts to overthrow the Government. It was the confidence based on such intelligence which induced foreign capitalists to subscribe to the rabel loan. But at last the real condition of the public sentiment of the free States bursts alike upon rebel and rebel sympathizer at home and abroad and the fact that the free States are united, that the people thereof are at least in a majority and will speedily be a unit on the subject of crushing the rebellion, will hurry forward the days of prace with an alacrity that will soon restore the tranquility of the whole country.

The Southern people never calculated to fight a united North. Up to this hour, the rebellion has not been opposed by the united people of the free States. The Democratic loaders have managed to create division among the people on the policy of conquering a peace. A peace conquered was denounced as the first step towards the degradation of the people of the South. To such a result Democracy, as the Which gives the Union men a clear Union ancient ally of the slave drivers, would never working majority of 4 in the House, and a ma submit. The South must be woord by compromise, and not won back by hard fighting. To this the Democratic leaders swore they would adhere, and for a time, while they did maintain such a position, the people of the North were divided, and the Government was not certain where to look for its bitterest opponents, in the free or the slave States. But that time is all past. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, and Indiana, have spoken for the Government. Other States in the North, East and West will soon follow, recording their support in the same direction, and then will come speedy peace, because then only will the conspirators realize the utterfolly of attempting to overthrow and destroy this great, glorious and free Government.

-All this clearly proves that, if the Government had been supported by the united voice of the people of the free States, the rebellion would not have lasted long enough to fight two battles. Had the Democratic leaders supported by the distribution of the people of the free States, the rebellion would not have lasted long enough to fight two battles. Had the Democratic leaders supported by the friendly belligerent Huston, C., 2,315; Stephens, U., 2,303; Huston and the democratic leaders supported by the friendly belligerent Huston, C., 2,315; Stephens, U., 2,303; Huston and the democratic leaders supported by the friendly belligerent Huston, C., 2,315; Stephens, U., 2,303; Huston and the democratic leaders supported by the friendly belligerent Huston, C., 2,316; Stephens, U., 2,303; Huston and the democratic leaders supported by the friendly belligerent Huston, C., 2,316; Stephens, U., 2,303; Huston and the democratic leaders supported by the friendly belligerent Huston, C., 2,316; Stephens, U., 2,303; Huston and the democratic leaders supported by the friendly belligerent Huston, C., 2,316; Stephens, U., 2,303; Huston and C., 2,316; Stephens, U., 2,308; Huston and C., 2,316; Stephens, U., 2,316; the Government instead of sympathized with States would not to-day be fatherless, and thouthe ballot box. Our next and greatest conquest will be that of rebellion on the battle field. And thus we are permitted to exclaim-

DEMOCRACY A FALSE TITLE FOR DISLOYALTY. A correspondent in San Francisco, who subscribed himself "Three-Score-and-Ten," makes the following excellent suggestions:

"As fampson's great strength lay wholly in his beard, so does the whole strength of the Copperhead—the pretended Democratic—party lie in the name it so wrongfully assumes, and which name, unhappile, appears to be generally conceded to it by the Union press.

To take from them the name they so tena. ciously keep, and which gives them all their strength, would rapidly withdraw from their support a large body of voters, especially those of foreign birth, who, though ignorant of its

Our Russian Alliance.

It is of little consequence whether or not ormal treaty of alliance is entered into between Bossia and the United States; the two countries ooth young and vigorous -are natural allies in interest, and will, we believe, be active allies in any great struggle in which either may be engaged with the Western Powers; at least if there be a single handed contest, its friend will not omit to play the part of a neutral after the most approved British fashion; will send to the Emapproved British fashion; will send to the Em the Union candidate, died on the 7th inst., and peror of China as many Alabamas and Floridas we had to substitute Sutch. Sixteen Gantt as that distinguished personage may desire. Of course, it will be nobody's business, if, after they have put to sea, they should turn privateer, and sweep British commerce from the ocean. as soon as they are found a marine league from the portrin which they were constructed. It has been conquered at graph to New York or Cronstadt, ordering their detention, just one day after they have sailed. Such, at least, would be the policy which the conduc of the British Cabinet has invited; and it will be for Russia and the United States to determine whether it is expedient to adopt it .-That there will be a European war within This once powerful organization is rapidly a year there exist numerous reasons to believe: and it certainly will come unless the rebellion on this continent is so far suppressed as to en able us to threaten the bogus empire of Maximilian. The reply of Russia to the Western Powers relative to Poland, in which they are politely informed that it is a point in etiquette inquest over the defunct institution, will bring for every one to mind his own business; has in in a verdict of saidle-wanton, unprovoked, ritated France and England beyond measure melancholy suicide. Russia evidently does not dread Gortschakoff. Russia evidently does not dread a war; there are memories clustering around the late Crimean campaign which are not gratifying to that nation. The present Emperor, by his liberal policy, has won the hearts of his subjects; and by freeing the slaves has added 20,000,000 to the freemen of his empire, upon which in draw for soldiers, and he knows and prisoners, besides the wounded. Tan Pitteburg Gazette winds up an article on F B O M W A S HINGTON The Election and its Results," as follows:

But what of Woodward? One Chief Justice Destruction of a Covernment Feed House. has gone down in the person of the lamented Lowrie, who is now past troubling us at any Lowrie, who is now past troubling us at any time hereafter. There is no resurrection for him, and so let him rest. But Woodward—promised successor of the defunct Chief—does he purpose to hold the judicial sceptre for three years longer, after such a verdict as this? We trust not. Still greater shame on him—if he does. The voice of the loyal people of Penns ylvania demands that he should resign. In the vote just given they have declared that they have no further confidence in him. What right has a convicted and rejected copperhead to sit in judgment over honest people? The time has passed for tolerating men of that stamp in the high places of the loyal State of Pennsylvania. Will he resign?

S. W. WILLIAMS, A. A. Q.

THE STATE NOMINATIONS of New York, lately made, insure to the Union ticket great personal popularity. In the county conventions, it is gratifying that political antecedents are ignored. The number of loyal Democrats in nomination is large. To show the high character of the ticket, we cite the nomination of Hon. Henry burned to death. J. Raymond, for Assembly, in the Seventh district. Such men in effice will revolutionize the TRE WAR IN VIRGINIA State long before Governor Seymour's term ex pires, and inevitably use its influence in sustaining the Government.

ILLUSTRATION is frequently more effective than argument, and an old Pennsylvania Demo crat, who voted for Governor Curtin, understood its force when he employed the following simile: "To send my son to the war to kill rebels, and to stay at home myself to vote against the Government, is like hitching a team of exen to one end of a wagon and a team of vented any field operations. Our cavalry scout horses to the other, when the only result will failed to find any considerable body of the be of pulling the wagon to pieces."

THE TORIES who have so long used the Tory community, die hard-die like hound dogs, finding our lines impregnable, retired rear-snarling and biting and howling as the political ward, and fearing a rise in the Rappabannock snarling and biting and howling as the political life passes from their bodies. Never can the miserable faction which attempted by the use last, wield any influence at a coming election. They have been unmasked and stand before the people as convicted traitors. Such is the fate of all villains !

From Gen. Rosecrans' Army REPORT OF GENERAL CROOK.

THE LATEREBEL RAID

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.

The following was received to day at the head quarters of the army:

Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck, General-in Chief: The following dispatch has just been received from Brig, Gen. George Crook, commanding Second Cavalry Division, dated Ragersville, Ala., Oct. 10, 1868:

I have the honor to inform you that I have prisoners, besides the wounded. As I pursued on after the enemy immediately. I have not been wounded, but it was very heavy. They were scattered over a distance of fifteen miles from this, and their retreat was a perfect rout, their men deserting and straggling over the country.

I pursued them with great vigor, but their horses being better than mine, I was only able to come up with a couple of regiments at Sugar Creek, left to detain me. I made a charge or them, capturing some fifty of them, and scat tering the remainder in the mountain. When within eight miles of the river, I struck the some three miles above Samp's Ferry, where they could cross 12 abreast. I never saw

Washington, Oct. 18 — The information from the Army of the Potomac received to night is that reports came in from our cavalry yesterday evening that the enemy had massed a force at Manassas. There were also vague rumors that the enemy straitened for supplies, and having signally failed to procure them from General Meade's trains, has again turned his attention and course toward the Lower Shenandoah Val ley, and to our posts on the Baltimore and Ohio

Rebel infantry pickets made their appearance last night in the vicinity of Chantilly, indicating the presence of a heavy rebel force in that vicinity; but General Sedgwick drove them back to Frying Pan from his front. Gen. Cor-coran visited the camp yesterday. Later information up to noon to day says that our cavalry reconnoissance went out as far as one mile from Bristow Station, and found nothing but a few rebel cavalry scouts. Rumors continue to multiply, to the effect that a rebel column is moving towards Point of
