A GOVERNOR PACKER ON THE RAMPAGE-HE BE COMES INDIGNANT AT THE INDEPENDENCE OF A LOYAL TENANT-HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN AND HOW ARE YOU, COPPERHEADS?

WILLIAMSPORT, Oct. 20, 1863. orrespondence of the Telegraph.]

Since election, the traitor sympathizers in our borough have become perfectly rampant. Our Ex Governor, Wm. F. Packer, has become morbidly sensitive on the subject. Since he voted a ticket which he proclaimed to be "all copper," he has labored under such a weight of conviction for his sin that he cannot bear the east allusion to the decline in copper. We had a grand torch-light procession on Saturday night. It was a brilliant success, and many of our loyal citizens illuminated their dwellings and places of business. Among this latter class was Mr. E. P. Barrett, an extensive dealer in stoves, tinware, &c. He occupies a störe and dwelling owned by Ex-Govarnor W. F. Packer. On Monday Packer entered the store and told Mr. Barrett that he (Packer) had store and told Mr. Barrett that be (Packer) had heard that his (Barrett's) house was illuminated on Saturday evening, and demanded to know if it was true. Mr. Barrett replied that it was. "Then," said the angry ex. Governor, "you must leave my premises immudiately. I will not be insulted in my own buildings." Mr. Barrett, being a quiet man, did not kick the fellow out of doors, as he would have been justificed in doing, but al-lowed bin to denart. The conner of the dis. lowed him to depart. The course of the dis-tinguished Ex is severely commented upon, and it will show you the spirit that animates trai-tors in this quarter. WEST BRANCH. From the Sunday School Times.

"Only a Dead Soldier,"

A few evenings since, I stood in the depot waiting for the train. Near by was a rude box, containing the all that was mortal of one for mortal of the train of the store offered a specific to the whose life had been offered a sacrifice to right. Two ladies, were they ladies-were passing, and I head the remark attered carelessly and heart-lessly, "It is only a dead soldier." And I thought, only a dead soldier ! --yet he may have been the all of some fond heart now crushed and well nigh broken, the light of some home now darkened. Ah me! how different this si lent coming home from the joyful one they had anticipated. They sent him out in the pride of his manhood, with a strong arm and a bray heart-and he is returning pale faced and still, his white lips mute and closed, never again to upen in home greetings of home farewells. He is going home,

With the flying fly and stirring band, With the flying fly and stirring band, With the tender word, and message sent, From the distant, warring hand."

Only a dead soldier ! and I thought of c dead soldier; his grave—the Kanawha; and his requiem the ebb and flow of its ever restless water; and the hot tear would come. de spite of place, and time, and surrounding cir umstances.

Only a dead soldier ! With what crushing weight do these words come to those who mourn a brave heart stilled and pulseless -a loving voice silent.

May a good Father pity those whose loved ones are only dead soldiers. MAUDE MULLER.
