members of Congress, and perform other similar frauds and abominations, as they are instructed from Washington.
This is the position of the Democratic party upon this question of loyalty, in that section of the country, so far as that party is represented by the gentleman from Northumberland. He has no word of cheer for the brave men who have gone out from his home and from their homes to fight the battles of our country. In looking over the columns of his paper, you cannot find one word of encouragement to the brave men who are sacrificing their lives and their families in their defense of the country, but you will find that the Southern oligarchy, this despotic government (if it can be called a government) that exists in the Southern States of this Union, has received his sole and absorbing attention. Why, sir, when he makes any reference at all, even at this day, to the Chief Magistrate of our country—if the name of the President appears at all in his columns, or if the acts of the Government under which we live are at all referred to, it is in language something like this, which is also taken from that paper:

"Lincoln has cost this country three thousand millions of dollars and a million of lives; and the end is not yet. What a scourge to humanity that he was ever born!"

Besides that, Mr. Speaker, we find that he recognizes Jefferson Davis as the President of an established Government. We find him publishing the edicts, the proclamations, or whatever else may issue from that arch traitor, and giving them to the readers of that paper, who, by the way, live in a country which embraces seven school districts, and which have accepted the common school law of this Commonwealth.

Now, Mr. Speaker, this same paper to which I have referred contains an extract from some Democratic paper in some northern county or State—referred to approvingly by the gentleman from Northumberland—in which the writer expresses a regret that John C. Breckinridge, the rebel and the traitor, was not elected President of these United States, instead of Abraham Lincoln.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman complains further, and charges upon the Republican party of this State, and says it is a shame that will forever blazon upon our faces, that we recognize mob law and violence. I say, sir, that the gentleman from Northumberland has himself, in his publication, counselled violence and mob law of the most atrocious character. I say, sir, that he counselled the taking of the life of a member of this House, if he should dare to separate from the party of Jeff Davis, and refuse to obey the behests of his leaders. I refer to the gentleman's paper of December 19, 1862. This gentleman stands up here in his place and arraigns the Republican party of this State and of this nation as the party encouraging mob law and violence. He has told us that the destruction of his paper (and the trifling damage which was done to his establishment at that time) is informed by a credible authority, would have been covered perhaps by thirty-five or forty dollars—he says that the destruction of his office was approved of and applauded by the Republican party in that section of the country. I say, sir, that he misrepresents the feelings and the opinions of the Republican party in his neighborhood when he makes that assertion. Mob law and violence are condemned by all law-abiding citizens, and I do not know of a single instance in which an individual, or any part of the community, approved in the least degree of such conduct, or did any act, or uttered any one word from which such an inference could be drawn. I say, sir, instead of it being the fact that the party which is sustaining the Government in these perilous times—instead of it being the fact, that the party of this country encourages mob law and violence—such proceedings are the necessary result, the legitimate fruit of the teachings and the doctrines of the Democratic party.

I do not desire, Mr. Speaker, at this late hour, unnecessarily to protract my remarks. I have already referred to the position and intelligence of the community which is represented by the gentleman from Northumberland. Now, sir, if gentlemen will turn to their common school reports for this year, they will find by the report of the Superintendent of Northumberland county that there are in this State seven districts which have not yet adopted the common school system; and if they will look at the election returns of last fall they will find that the vote which sent that gentleman to this House comes from those seven districts. They will find that the vote which he received in those districts was larger than the majority which he received in that county.

Now, sir, I have the gratification to know many of the people of that county who are represented here by the gentleman to whom I have referred. I say, sir, that these people disapprove as much, and regret as much, the course that is pursued and the ideas that are expressed, and the policy that is advocated by these gentlemen as any of us can do. The people of that section of the country are, as a general thing, enterprising, law-abiding, Union-loving people. I say, sir, that the great mass of the Democratic party in that section of the country is as intensely loyal as any gentleman on this floor dare express himself to be; and, it is not the truth that the positions and doctrines announced on the other side of this House are common to the Democratic party of this State. I say, sir, that these gentlemen have seized upon this opportunity for the purpose (I do not desire to impugn their motives; I will not say they have wrong motives in the matter)—but for the purpose of repeating old campaign speeches and sending them abroad again through this Commonwealth.

Now, sir, as these things seem to be foreign to the issue—as these matters do not seem to bear directly upon the question before this House, and as it has already been stated by the gentleman from Chester, as well as by the gentleman from Delaware, (Mr. Parox), how this discussion assumed this shape, it is hardly necessary to make any further reference to the subject. It is known that the gentleman on the other side of the House assumed that this resolution was a direct thrust at them. I say it was not intended for any such purpose; it was intended to proclaim to the world that they will be excluded from the benefit of this appropriation, if the test is applied, let the consequences rest with themselves. I hope this House will adopt this resolution, and now and forever declare that no man who, by his conduct, either as the editor of a disloyal paper or as the advocate of the Southern Confederacy in any shape or form, has exhibited his sympathies with the rebellion, shall ever receive one dollar from the honest tax-payers of Pennsylvania for property destroyed or lost in consequence of his own misconduct.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the return of nature's prescribed laws? Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

MEDICAL.

DR. WISHART'S

PINE TREE

TAR CORDIAL

Is the Vital Principle of the Pine Tree, OBTAINED by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained.

It is the medicine that cures when all others have failed.

A GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION.

I am constantly receiving such certificates as the following:—

DR. WISHART, Dear Sir:—I had a very dreadful cough and sore throat for one year, and my whole system was fast giving way, and I was prostrated on my bed with but little hope of recovering. My disease baffled the power of all medicines, and in a short time I must have gone to my grave, but, thank God, my daughter-in-law would not rest until she went to your store, No. 10 N. Second street, and related my case to you, purchased one bottle of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, and commenced to use it, and in one week I was much better, and after using three bottles I am perfectly well, a wonder to all my friends, for they all pronounced me past cure. Publish my case if you think proper.

REBECCA HAMILTON,
No. 1821 Wylie street, Philadelphia.

TAR CORDIAL.

AN INFALLIBLE CURE FOR BRONCHITIS.

MR. WARD SAYS: Dr. Wishart, Sir:—I had the Bronchitis, Inflammation of the Lungs, Shortness of Breath, and Palpitation of the Heart in their worst forms. I had been treated by several eminent physicians in Philadelphia, but they could not stop the rapid course of my disease, and I had despaired of ever being restored to health. I was truly on the verge of the grave. Your Pine Tree Cordial was highly recommended to me by a friend; I tried it, and am thankful to say that, after using four large and one small bottle, I was restored to perfect health. You can give reference to my house, No. 808 N. Second street, or at my office of Receiver of Taxes, from 9 A. M. to 2 P. M., corner of Chestnut and Sixth streets.

JOHN WARD.

BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS.

READ THE FOLLOWING: Mr. Wishart, Sir:—I return you my grateful thanks for the discovery you have made in making a medicine that will cure Inflammation of the Lungs and Liver Complaint. When I commenced to use your Pine Tree Tar Cordial I was, to all appearance, near my grave. I had been for a length of time spitting blood, and would at times vomit it. My physicians (for I employed two) pronounced me past cure; but my sister had used your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which did her so much good, that she prevailed on me, as a last resort, to try it; and, thank God, I commenced to use it. I have taken twelve bottles and am perfectly cured, and am ready and willing that any person that is sick should call on me, and I will tell them what your cordial has done for me. All my friends and neighbors were utterly astonished at my speedy return to health, for they had seen me vomit blood, and I was frequently publishing my case, for I want every person that is suffering to be to know of your invaluable medicine. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, JOHN WARD, 808 N. Second street, six doors above Richmond street, Philadelphia.

The Pine Tree Tar Cordial will cure Coughs, Sore Throat, and Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, and is also an excellent remedy for diseases of the Kidneys, and female complaints.
