In connection with the murder case above referred to, we cannot pass by a reference to the commendable zeal which the Coroner—Dr. W. Barr—evinced in the arrest and prosecution of the murderer. In the discharge of his official duties, he was indefatigable, as he always is, and was mainly instrumental in eliciting the testimony which led to the conviction.—Mr. Barr has been, indeed, a faithful and efficient officer, and will retire from his official position with the honorable plaudit of "well done, good and faithful servant!"

APHORISM OF BISHOP HORNE.-In the biography of this excellent prelate, we find the following aphorism ascribed to him :-

"Yany persons spend so much time in criticling and disputing about the Gospel, that they have none left for practising it. As if two sick men should quarrel about the phraseology of their physician's prescription, and forget to take the medicine.'

The application is good, but the sentiment has been previously expressed more forcibly by Bishop Butler:

"The inaulties of religious people would never itse to such a height were it not for their mistake, that God is better served with their opinions than their practices—opinions being very inconsiderable, further than they have influences upon actions."

THE MARKETS.—This morning, as usual, the market was abundantly supplied with meats, vegetables, butter, eggs, &c., at quite moderate prices, unless the meats may be excepted— There is, however, a consolation to poor men, in this, that all have a right to turn vegetarians if they please, and then need buy no meats at all. THE NEW ROUTE TO NEW YORK .- Business required us last week to go to New York, and we proceeded thither by the so called NEW ROUTE. Leaving here at eight o'clock in the morning, we took our seat in a splendid and highly finished passenger car on the Lebanon Valley Railroad. This road passes, without exception, ( through the most charming country on the face of God's earth. In less than two hours travel we arrived in the beautiful city of Reading.-There we found many of our youthful acquaintances, and were often reminded of the days of our youth. After two hours delay at Reading, we left in the cars of the East Pennsylvania Railroad on our journey towards New York .--This road has been opened but a short time. It runs through a rich and fertile agricultural country. The conductor on this train we found to be one of the most agreeable and accommodating officers we have ever met, and feel ourself under many obligations to him for his attention to us, in pointing out various beautiful localities and other attractions on the road.

It was also our good fortune to meet the Superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and the gentlemanly President of the East Pennsylvania Railroad—Col. Clymer. The latter assured us that as soon as the proper arwithin six hours from Harrisburg to New York. We hope this may be so, for we feel assured that it will prove profitable to all the railroads on the route, and beneficial also to Harrisburg, New York and the public generally. After leaving the East Pennsylvania Railroad at Allentown, we took the cars of the Lehigh Valley road, and passed through another equally beautiful region of country to Easton, where we entered the cars of the Jersey Central. The scenery along the route from Allentown to Elizabethport, at which point we took the steamboat, is most magnificent. The Jersey Central read runs for a long distance along the river Lehigh, and the Lehigh canal, on which several large iron establishments are erected, which attract the attention of travelers, and are of great benefit to that region of country. After leaving the Jersey Central road we got on board a steamboat at Elizabeth port, and had a pleasant trip of twelve miles on the beautiful waters, towards New York. The scenery along the whole route is grand beyond description, and we are sure that all travelers will agree with us, that whenever the frequent change of cars is abolished. (which we understand will be in a short time,) and the connections are properly made, without delay at Reading, or other points, that this will be the most popular route to the great Atlantic sea board. We are really at a loss to know why the Reading Railroad company should hesitate to put a fast express line on this route. The route must eventually be a great feeder to the Pennsylvania Central railroad, and will carry many passengers to the great West, who might otherwise take the New York routes. We enjoy already great advantages from it in the freight line. We ourselves had a large Printing Press shipped over this route, weighing some seven thousand pounds. It was shipped from New York on the evening of the 17th of this month, and arrived here at the Lebanon Valley Deyot on the evening of the 18th; the charges of the same being but about 88cts per 100 pounds, much less than we have heretofore been compelled to pay for freights by other routes. If the proper arrangements were made with the great Pennsylvania Railroad, this road might do an immense business the borough of Harrisburg. "So mote it be. A Too COMMON MISTAKE. -- It is a melancholly truth that too much of the corruption and demoralization of the times is caused by the fact of worth and utility finding very poor reward, while bloated wealth is honored and respected. That which is good and which is designed for the benefit of all, is sneered at and despised,

We are fully satisfied that the court was as careful, and exercised the same leniency in the trial of his case, as though the defendant was a man of means, and exercised an influential position in society; his color and his poverty, we are fully convinced, did not prejudice the minds of a just tribunal before which he was convicted. We have no reflections to cast upon the District Attorney—he did nothing more rangements could be made, they would put an express line on the road which would bring us and with entire satisfaction to the defendant We will now withdraw our exceptions to the charge of this Court, bumbly bow in submission to the majesty of the law, and let justice take its course. The Court—You labored zealously for your client, and certainly discharged your duty faithfully and ably. After a short interval, Henry Hulsinger, convicted of the murder of Mary Smith, was brought into Court by the Deputy Sheriff .-Soon he was ordered to stand up, and His Honor, Judge Pearson, asked him the usual question-whether he had anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed upon him? The prisoner replied, "he didn't know." Making no other remark, the Judge proceeded to pass sentence upon him. We append the sentence of the Judge in full, as follows: HENRY HULSINGER :-- After a fair and impartial trial by a jury of your own selection, you have been found guilty of the highest crime known to the laws of the land-murder of the first degree. You have been ably and zealously defended by counsel, who have availed them-selves of every loophole which the evidence on behalf of the Commonwealth presented to ensure your acquital, and were allowed ample for obtaining testimony, if any existed, to make your innocence manifest, or break any one link in the strong chain of evidence adduced against you.
