HARRISBURG, PA.

Thursday Afternoon, October 18, 1860.

FOR PRESIDENT:

ABRAHAM LINCOLN OF ILLINOIS.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT:

HANNIBAL HAMLIN OF MAINE.

The Future of the Republican Party

in Pennsylvania. After victory comes congratulation, then follows the usual expectations of those who assisted in achieving the triumph, and then the party in which the people have reposed their confidence is subjected to the predictions of those who have fost place and power by the changes and preferences of the people. Those predictions are already vouchsafed for the benefit of the Republican party-and since the late triumph in Pennsylvania, so nobly wrested from opposition and fusion by the gallant efforts of the Republican party, the defeated leaders of the exploded Democracy are indulging in all sorts of evil predictions in relation to the future Republican State administration. If it were only to relieve the fears of these evil mongers, we would not deem it important to offer a word in explanation of the future policy of our Republican Governor. But in justice to those gallant men, the laboring and mechanical masses of the Commonwealth, who so resolutely sustained our candidate and cause in the late contest, we deem at least a word becoming, by way of defining the position of the party on the great questions affecting the interests and the welfare of Pennsylvania. It is no new matter of discussion to refer to the prosperity of this State, and how such prosperity can be best seoured. That has long been a question of W. Hall, P. momentous importance with the people, and by holding this policy constantly before the eyes of the people, dressed in promises which they have constantly violated, the old Democratic party has succeeded so long in retaining possession of the State government, and deluding the masses into their support, when such support strengthened the hand that was constantly oppressing them. By exciting L. Blood, D. the most ungenerous prejudices between labor and capital, the Democratic party achieved its greatest victories. In this manner the legislation of the country was constantly attracted from providing protection for either labor or capital, until at length the people of Pennsylvania, more than any other State in the Union, became the victims of a false Democracy, and a legislation composed entirely of grants of special privileges or corporate extensions. That same Democratic party which now bellows so loudly against a Tariff, on the plea that a Tariff would beget monopoly, have originated more acts of monopoly than any other party viz:that has ever ruled in the councils of the Commonwealth. For this very reason its candidates were rejected at the last election-and in response to the demand created by such a rejection, the policy of the future Governor of Pennsylvania will be shaped. Against monopoly the very platform of our glorious party organization now rests, and on that basis it will be secured by a firm and impartial distribution of the benefits of government among all classes. On this subject the vote of the people of Pennsylvania was clear and distinct. In every section of the State where any issue was made involving special legislation or grants of corporate privileges, the decision of the people was unoquivocal and unmistakable. It was in prompt in interposing for the public good. We have no apprehension for the success of the future administration of An drew G. Curtin. He has laid down the policy by which he will be guided, by his adherence and devotion to the platform of the Republican party. On the broad basis of the principles laid down in that declaration of principle, the rights of the humblest citizen will be protected, while the interests of all classes will be respected as they deserve to be for their connection with the welfare of the whole Commonwealth. Those who now predict so solemnly in regard to the Republican Governor elect, are as prone to predict evil for the Republican President about opposition to such grants. In opposition to extension or enlargement, except where the act was imperatively called for by the necessities of trade or labor. If such legislation merely had in view the aggrandizement of a few individuals, then it was promptly rejected. If the object was otherwise, and the ends we have alluded

to were to be attained, the legislation was to be elected. In both instances the an-Williams, P., Charles L. Govhring, P., William tigination is an engaged by the projudice Douglas, P., Alexander H. Burns, P. ticipation is encouraged by the prejudice entertained by partizan leaders against P. Andrew G. Curtin and Abraham Lincoln. It is not in trepidation for their country that they predict, but in resentment for their lost position that they thus attempt to cast every impediment in the way of the Republican party. So far as such impediment relates to the State administration, we have every reason to believe Strang, P. that it will be overcome by a wise and liberal policy, in which the rights of all classes will be respected and the interests | Senate of none neglected. We care not how our opponents oppose such an administration when in power. All we ask is for them to give it an opportunity to be put in motion, and we have no fears for its just and successful operation.

Dieo.

At Lewisburg, Union county, at the residence of her uncle, Mr. John Randolph, on Wednesday, October 17th, after a brief illness, Miss ALICE JAME, only daughter of Hon. Joseph Casey, of this city, aged fourteen years three months and twenty-two days. The filends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral to-morrow afternoon at balf-past two o'clock, from Herr's hotel, to proceed to the Cemetery.

In the death of ALICE, the hearts of her bereaved paenis are crushed with sorrow. She was justly their pride heir hope, their peculiar treasure Full of life and buoyan spirits, little did they think their cherished one could thus early die. But thus it is the order of Providence often reversed. Children who are looked upon by their parents as the stay and joy of life—a comfort and support n declining years—and at last to soothe them in their last hours, are often first called, leaving the earth dark and desolate to those who remain.

In the premature death of ALICE, many hopes blighted. She was a child of rare promise, gifted not only with personal graces, but rarest ones of heart and m'nd. Her intelligence, affection and benevolence will ever shine forth with living lustre. She had a wonderful power in winning the love of ail. Her companions. her clausmates, her teachers, (and here the writer of these I nos speaks from years of experience), all felt that this dear child was one of the brightest spirits lent to earth. But an All wise and Holy being in His unerring wisdom has called her to her final home. Yet how much comfort is left to those who mourn, in her last words, nearing as she was, the brink of the dark river : " I am not afraid to die." Blessed Lope ! A light gone out on earth to shine more brightly in Heaven.
