

Daily Telegraph

HARRISBURG

Thursday Afternoon, October 18, 1860.

GRAND TRIUMPHAL DEMONSTRATION IN THE CAPITAL CITY.

Wide-Awake Torch-Light Procession.

ILLUMINATION AND FIREWORKS.

Mounted Lincoln Rangers Coming.

ON SATURDAY EVENING NEXT

THE "KEYSTONE WIDE-AWAKE CLUB"

The "KEYSTONE WIDE-AWAKE CLUB" of this city will celebrate the victory achieved on Tuesday the 9th inst., in the election of Col. Andrew G. Currier, by a grand torch light parade, which will be participated in by the PARSONS LINCOLN RANGERS, and Wide-Awake Clubs from several of the adjoining towns. It is expected that the parade will be the LARGEST AND MOST ATTRACTIVE that has taken place here this season. Many of the Republicans of the city have made arrangements to illuminate their dwellings and places of business. We hope to see an immense crowd of jubilant Republicans assembled on the occasion to witness the novel and magnificent display, and participate in the triumphal demonstration. Come one, come all!

Wide-Awakes! with torches bright, Wide-Awakes! with shouts and light, Rouse the land from Wacker's night, Wide-Awake to liberty!

The best assortment of oval and square gilt frames to be found at W. Knoche's, 92 Market Street.

NEW EQUIPMENTS.—The Wide Awakes of this city have adopted the name of the "Keystone Wide-Awake Club," and ordered a lot of beautiful red leather caps, which they expect to receive in time for the triumphal parade next Saturday evening.

ATTENTION! KEYSTONE WIDE AWAKES!—A special meeting of the club will be held at Exchange Hall this evening, and every member is urged to be in attendance. Those having arches in their possession will return them to Mr. Janitor to night, so that they may be put in order for the coming parade.

A LINCOLN MASS MEETING will be held at old Spring to-morrow. Several Wide-Awake clubs from Lebanon county are expected to be in attendance. Wein Forney, Esq., Hon. John P. Killinger, Amos R. Boughter, Esq., Col. J. Herr, H. C. Alleman, Esq., and others, are announced to address the meeting.

CORN CUTTING.—Our farmers are now engaged in corn cutting, and before another week rolls round most of them will have finished. The crop in this section of the country is much below an average, and but for the abundant supply in the west, the price would run up much above the usual quotations. But the great surplus from that quarter will have a tendency to keep down prices here to a much lower figure.

THE SIXTH WARD REPUBLICANS have organized a band of martial music for the Presidential Campaign. A beautiful tenor drum, manufactured in Philadelphia, was received yesterday. A gallant sixth ward boys, encouraged by the result of the late election, are determined to do their full share towards redeeming the city on the 6th of November. We confidently look for an increased Republican majority in the latter ward.

PREACHING AT THE ALMSHOUSE.—Why is it that our clergy do not take some interest in the poor at the almshouse? We feel confident that they would be well received. Could not our young friends of the Young Men's Christian Association, who have so praiseworthy kept up their services at the prison regularly every Sabbath, make some arrangement whereby the course could be pursued at our county almshouses? We pause for a reply.

BARRELS FOR FRUIT.—Everything in contact with fruit should be clean and sweet, and the metal in which it is placed should be dry and tight. Old flour barrels should not be used, unless well washed and dried, as the particles of flour left in the barrel will mould, and impart to the fruit an unpleasant odor and flavor. For this purpose—the lime absorbing the vapor and gases. If this is so, a little fresh slaked lime scattered on the bottom, sides and top of the barrel, would be beneficial.

RAILROAD CONDUCTOR ARRESTED.—A few weeks ago a passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad ran into a crowd of people at Huntingdon, killing three men and wounding a number of others. Upon an investigation of the affair, the coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the accident was the result of carelessness on the part of the employees of the Company in charge of the train, and warrants were issued by a Huntingdon Magistrate for the arrest of Andrew Roloff, conductor, and Wm. Armstrong the engineer. Roloff subsequently resigned or was discharged, and managed to keep out of the way of the officers until last evening, when constable Beck of this city discovered him at the depot and promptly secured him. He was committed to prison by the Mayor until one o'clock this afternoon, and then taken to Huntingdon and delivered up to the authorities of that county. Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

AMONG the latest literary curiosities, are "lines on the death of an unborn infant."

DISTICHO.—An old proverb says: "A little in the morning is enough; enough at dinner is but little; but a little at night may be too much." Remember this, and save indigestion and sleepless nights.

THE LATEST FASHION.—The "jupon multiple," is the name of the latest invented Paris petticoat. It does away with hoops and crinoline, "supporting itself by the harmonious and intelligent disposition of the waves of muslin of which it is composed." It can be modified or increased at pleasure.

CHURCH DEDICATION AT LEBANON.—The new church of St. Paul's (German Reformed) was to have been dedicated this morning at 10 o'clock. Quite a number of members of that denomination in our city accepted the cordial invitation of their Lebanon brethren to be present, and left yesterday and this morning.

CELEBRATION AT MOUNT JOY.—A grand torch light parade comes off this evening in Mount Joy. Hundreds of equipped Wide-Awakes will be on parade, and most of the Republican members will be illuminated, with an extensive display of fire-works will add to the magnificence of the display. Some of our Wide-Awakes left for Mount Joy this afternoon to witness the demonstration.

A SCAMP ON HIS TRAVELS.—On Tuesday Chief Morgan received a warrant from Lancaster for the arrest of Henry Bush, a fast young man of this city, charged with the commission of some offence, recently, in the former city. Some of Bush's "chums" gave him information of the fact, and he either fled or concealed himself. The Chief is on his track, however, and may yet succeed in capturing him.

MILITARY.—We learn that a first-class military company, embracing many of our active and public-spirited young men, is likely to grow out of the present Wide-Awake organization, after the November election. We hope the movement may be successful, as it is a disgrace to the Capital City of the old Keystone State to be without a handsome and efficient military organization.

A NEW FURNACE.—We learn with pleasure that several gentlemen from a distance have been in our city looking out for a site for a new blast furnace. They say too high a price was asked for the land they desired to purchase, and were afraid they would be obliged to go elsewhere. We feel confident, however, that they will remain notwithstanding, for surely there is no better locality in the Union for just such works, and although land rates at a high figure, yet it is worth it in most instances.

THE HAPPY LAND.—Some "feller," with a hankering after an elysium, "sings his soul away" in the following poetic effusion:—

"O, is there not a happy land— A land beyond the seas— Where people smoke in boundless pipes, And dangle down a knee? Where gin and rum is found in plenty, And 'embrace' is used by the ton, And when you do a job of work You get the 'ready John'?"

Where Nature's lessons may be read, In every babbling brook, Where bumble bees don't sting a chap, And muly cows don't book?"

STRANGE MORTALITY.—We have already noticed the fatality attending the disease known as diphtheria or putrid sore throat, in various sections of the country. In a number of families two, three and five children have died in quick succession. One family in Delaware county lost eight children within a period of four weeks! The disease prevails to some extent in this city, several cases having occurred recently, some of which proved fatal. This alarming malady, which makes such terrible havoc amongst the young, seems to be to a great extent unmanageable, baffling the skill of the best physicians.

ELECTION DAY INCIDENT.—An incident occurred at the polls on election day, in an adjoining township, which is worth chronicling, as a lesson to politicians. A zealous Democrat who supposed that he was obtaining naturalization papers for one of his own political complexion, furnished him with funds to pay his expenses to and from this city, and provided him with a gallon of whiskey in the bargain. On election day he was much mortified to find the subject of his recent sympathies voting the whole Republican ticket! Our liberal Democratic friend will doubtless be more careful hereafter, and put his money and whiskey to better use.

MR. EDITOR:—It is rumored that the County Commissioners have determined to place on the spine of the new Court House the old dilapidated and broken figure of the Indian which was removed from off the old building. Now this is simply ridiculous, and we hope the enterprising builders will protest against caricaturing their work. What resemblance is there between a savage with tomahawk, scalping knife, &c., and Justice, that the former should be "stuck up" on the Court House? Keep it off! We would not be surprised to hear, next, that brought into use in the new building, the little old bell is to be put up! It looks very much as if the Commissioners are fixing up the Court House to suit themselves, instead of the community at large. Ur Town.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS.—At the meeting of the Keystone Wide-Awake Club, last evening, the following resolutions were offered by JOSEPH M. WINTERLING, Esq., and unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Lieut. ALEXANDER KOSER for the beautiful and sumptuous supper given on Saturday evening last; and that we will ever hold in pleasant recollection his disinterested devotion to the Republican cause, its principles and candidates.

Resolved, That to his amiable wife and daughter we return our sincere thanks for their kind and courteous treatment on the above occasion, as well as for the aid and encouragement extended to the club on frequent occasions since its organization.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.

Resolved, That the thanks of the club are due to Mr. Armstrong, the engineer, has not yet been captured. The charge laid against them in the warrant is that of manslaughter. These men attribute the accident to the giving way of the iron patent track, which rendered impossible the stopping of the train until it run some distance beyond the regular station. A Wide-Awake parade was in progress at the time, and a large concourse of people had collected in the vicinity of the depot to witness the arrival of the train.