Mr. Moore has lately assumed the charge a graduate of the Union Theological Seminary of New York City, and from his reputation as a scholar and a preacher will doubtless be very successful in the ministry. We are glad to learn that our neighboring town is to have the benefit of his labors, and trust that the church under his care may increase rapidly.

ATTACKED ON THE BRIDGE .--- A young man from the Cumberland side of the river, while crossing the old bridge on his return home, between eight and nine o'clock on Sunday night, was attacked by some ruffian. After a brief struggle, the gentleman released himself from the grasp of his assailant ; and fearing that the fellow might have confederates close at hand, commenced running and shouting "murder." He reached the west end of the bridge in safety, making "good time." It is to be feared that night. With no lights to enable the traveler to guard against attacks, the place is admirably calculated for bloody work. A murderer might have done, risking their lives every time they enter its more than Cimmerian darkness? We why this is not done, we cannot conjecture.

PILLS AND DIMPLES. - We notice by our Phila. exchanges that the Female Medical School in that city commenced its eleventh annual session with a largely increased class of pupils. During the eleven years of its existence, the college has had to combat not only the prejudices but the antagonism of the old fogy practitioners. It has thriven in the very teeth of persecution, and has graduated a number of ladies whose abitities in the walks of medical practice are entitled to great respect. There are female somebody will yet be killed on the bridge at physicians in that city, and throughout the country, enjoying a large practice, and rendering entire satisfaction to the patients. "THE QUAREES ARE OUT."-At a Republican meeting in Georgetown, Mass., the following lines by John Greenleaf Whittler, the "Quaker Poet," were read and greeted with great applause by the vast audience :

Not vainly we waited and counted the hours, The buds of our hope have burst out into flowers, No room for misgiving-no loop-hole of doubt-We've heard from the Koystone 1 The Quakers are out 1

The plot has exploded-we've found out the trick ; The bribe goes a bargain; the fusion won't slick When the Wide-Awakes lanters are shining about, The rogues slay at home, and the tras men come of e ont l

The good State has broken the cords for her spun; Her oil springs and water won?t fuse into one; The Dutchman has easoned with Freedom his krout; And slow, late, but certain, the Qaakers are out!

Give the flags to the winds !--set the hills all affame ; Make way for the man with the patriarch's name ! Away with misgiving--away with all doubt, For Lizecoin goes in when the Quakers come out !

The Quakers gave ANDREW G. CURTIN a hand some vote, and we are reliably informed that the Quakers, but the "Dunkards," who rarely swelling Lincoln's majority in the old Keystone
