Death has evidently conquered the vital in Italy; the blood may for a time circulate through the extremities, from the Carpathians to the Andes; but the day is not far distant when the pulse asking the question, "Shall I go on?" will be answered "No!"

The Administration's Organ.

The Washington Constitution of Wednesday, after announcing that it has reached the lamentable conclusion that Abraham Lincoln has been elected President of the United States from the fourth of next March, indulges in some characteristic oburgations about sectionalism, and concludes:—

What the effect of that verdict, immediate or ultimate, will be, we do not intend to prophesy. We see in the immediate future gloom and storm, and much to chill the heart of every patriot in the land. We can understand the effect that will be produced in every Southern mind when he reads the news this morning—that he is now called on to decide for himself, his children, and his children's children, whether he will submit tamely to the rule of one elected on account of his hostility to him and his, or whether he will make a struggle to defend his rights, his inheritance, and his honor.

The Administration and its organ have indulged in a great deal of foolish talk during the pendency of the election, but the above is simply and ludicrously malicious. Had those who control the Washington Constitution possessed common sense, or common patriotism, they would have bowed to the popular will thus constitutionally expressed, and by making the best of their misfortune, permitted the country to fall back into peace and quietness. Fortunately the influence of the organ is not equal to its malice. Its power to do evil is gone. The Administration and the party that have supported it have been repudiated by the people, at the South as well as at the North, and it may be regarded as practically defunct.

Delaware and New Jersey.

The same set of dispatches which announced the defeat of William Pennington in New Jersey, brought the gratifying intelligence that a Republican (Mr. Fisher) had been elected to Congress from the State of Delaware. A majority of the citizens, in counties bordering on the Hudson, were frightened into the belief that the South would purchase no more of their manufactures; and they turned their backs upon that principle which has contributed so greatly to their present prosperity and future prospects. Delaware tells them that their fears were groundless, and sends a Republican Representative to Washington for that purpose. Newark and Jersey City refuse to impose a limit to slavery extension in the territories; but Wilmington and St. Louis, representing the old and new slave States, insist upon such a restriction. Which is the free State, New Jersey or Delaware? A few months, however, will witness a powerful reaction in that part of New Jersey. The tumult will soon "dwindle to a calm." There will not even be a dollar's worth less of trade for the free States, but rather an increase, caused by the subsidence of agitation in both North and South. It will then be seen how groundless was the alarm, and how base were the means resorted to for running down the Republican candidates.

A MATTER OF REJOICING.—Not the least ground for rejoicing, furnished by the recent Republican triumphs in Pennsylvania and Indiana, is that the Senate of the United States will be now relieved of those two vampire bats, Bigler and Fitch, and men truly representing the people of Pennsylvania and Indiana elected in their places. They both have been unscrupulous defenders of Mr. Buchanan, companions of Slidell & Co., coadjutors with the disunionists of the South, misrepresenting the people whom they were sent to represent. They are men, too, of but little influence, for Bigler, wielding all the influence he could command, was unable to induce his fellow-Democrats to act upon the tariff. We can therefore rejoice that, in the future, Pennsylvania will exercise a more potent influence in the councils of the nation.

THE REACTION.—The conservative journals of the South begin to speak out very plainly against the traitors who talk and plot disunion. It is very evident that a reaction has already begun, and that sooner or later it will whelm in political destruction the whole fire-eating tribe. There will be no disunion. There will be no secession—not even of a single State. South Carolina, herself, will stop before reaching the point from which retreat is impossible. A few impotent howls, and the disunion farce will be permanently withdrawn from Southern boards.

Good for Old Dauphin! We subjoin the official vote of this county, by which it will be seen that the majority for LINCOLN IS TWO THOUSAND ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-NINE, the largest ever given to any candidate. This speaks well for the home of Gen. SIMON CAMERON, and shows that old Dauphin is sound to the core on the great questions of Protection to American Industry, the rights of Free Labor, and resistance to the aggressions of Slavery. All honor to the active and enthusiastic Republican young men of this city and county, who were mainly instrumental in the achievement of so glorious a result. Few counties in the State have done better than our own, in the way of increasing their majorities since the October election:—

First Congressional District.

It will be seen by reference to the advertising columns of this paper that Governor Packer has issued his proclamation announcing the names of the persons elected in the several districts to represent the people thereof in the next Congress, and that he has named Mr. William E. Lehman as having been chosen for the First District. By what right the Governor assumes to thus declare, we are not advised, but it is presumed that in committing what is unquestionably a wrong, he will at least offer some excuse for so doing. The Philadelphia Daily News, commenting upon this matter, severely and justly censures the action of the Governor, and no doubt expresses the opinion of honest men of all parties in that city:—

That a fraud was committed by Byerly has been proven before a Court of Justice, but that Court has not undertaken to interfere with the return of the Return Judges, for the very plain reason that it has no right to do so. Every good citizen will not only denounce the fraud committed by Byerly, who is now suffering the punishment due to his crime, but will commend both Judges and District Attorney for the promptitude which governed their conduct. But all this does not justify a second wrong on the part of the Governor, who has no more right to go behind the return made to the State Department than he has to do any other illegal or outrageous act.

If Lehman was elected to Congress, and did not get returned by the only power which had a right to make one, he has his remedy. The law provides who shall determine that question, and Governor Packer has no more to do with its determination than we have. Two wrongs have never yet made a right, and whilst Byerly is convicted for having committed a forgery, Gov. Packer commits what is, to say the very least of it, a gross outrage, by usurping a power which does not belong to him.

DAVID MUMMA, JR., the Elector for this district, runs a little ahead of the rest of the Lincoln electors. He gains in the following election districts:— Harrisburg, 1st ward. 2 4th " 4 Middletown, S ward. 3 " M " 7 " N " 3 East Hanover. 14 Lower Swatara. 3 Gains. 35

REPUBLICANS IN THE SOUTH.—

The Republicans had a plurality of over 800 in St. Louis, and 200 in Wilmington, Delaware. They polled over a thousand votes in Baltimore, and 800 in Wheeling and Ohio county, Virginia. Who will say that light is not breaking on the South?

New Trouble in Kansas.

A new sort of trouble has arisen in Kansas, not of a political character. When that territory was opened to settlers a certain tract of it belonged to the Cherokee Indians. Disregarding the rights of the red men, many white men settled upon this tract, and though remonstrated with repeatedly by the Indian Agent, refused to vacate it. The example of the few, and their success in retaining the lands, led others to do likewise, the distance of the territory from the seat of the Federal Executive tempting to that lawlessness and wrong to which the Indian is too often subjected. Some time ago the Secretary of the Interior, after consultation with the President, determined that the Cherokees should be protected in their rights, and formal notification was made to the settlers that if they did not voluntarily remove from the Indian tract, they would be forcibly removed by the United States troops. The settlers seem to have defied or at least disregarded the notification, and the government has had to eject them by force. Their cabins have been demolished, the United States dragoons having acted as a posse comitatus to the Indian Agent in the enforcement of the laws. It is represented that the Agent and the troops acted in the matter with undue severity, and that the former selected an unseasonable time, the approach of winter, to dispossess the settlers. It certainly is not true that the Agent, or the government, acted precipitately, and without giving the settlers due warning. The notice was formal, explicit, and given a long time ago, and the probability is that the ejection would have been effected ere this, but for the unwillingness of the Agent to resort to harsh means until he had tried others without effect, and could no longer tolerate the usurpation without bringing the authority of the Federal government into contempt. The reported harshness and cruelty of the conduct of the Agent and the troops is not worthy of credit, seeing that the allegation is made only by a partisan and probably interested writer. We could wish that every act of the Administration in Kansas had been as commendable as this interference on behalf of the rights of the oppressed Indians. In maintaining them the government has done its duty, and deserves commendation, and not censure.

"AFTER A STORM," &c.—On Tuesday last bravado and honest purpose met face to face, and waged an earnest conflict. The latter triumphed, as among Americans it ever will. Before the final day of conflict, a foreigner, visiting any of our principal cities, would have concluded that Tuesday would be a day of riot and bloodshed, which happened, by revolution, anarchy and war. But what was the sequel? Within twenty-four hours of the conflict all was calm, serene and still. Even at mid-day on Tuesday good order and quiet were universal, all the excitement to the contrary notwithstanding. And now, on the third day after the contest, men are quietly pursuing their avocations, and the conflict is as though it had never been. Well may Americans be proud of their institutions and of each other.

$5000 in Counterfeit Money on the Western Bank Recovered.

Last evening about nine o'clock, Chief Detective Wood, and a squad of men, made a descent on the tavern of Minnie Price, at Nineteenth and Poplar streets. The officers ransacked the house, and found concealed, in different parts, $5000 counterfeit notes on the Western Bank of this city, to the value of about $5000. The notes have been lately engraved, and were exceedingly well executed. They all have the letter C. The signatures are rather good, and they are all dated March 1, 1859. Minnie Price, as soon as the officers made their appearance, jumped from the second story window and made his escape. Two other counterfeiters were secured. One of them hails New York, where the money is supposed to have been engraved. A number of persons were in the place at the time, but owing to the disadvantages under which the officers labored, the rest of the scoundrels effected their escape. From all appearances it is quite probable that the city would have been flooded this morning with these bogus notes. A large amount of the notes were tied up in a handkerchief, which was picked up in a burning vault, the counterfeiters, no doubt, having set fire to it to destroy what they could when surprised by the officers. Philadelphia Inquirer, 5th.

THE GRAVE OF LAFAYETTE.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Times furnishes a very interesting account of a recent visit to the tomb of the Lafayette family in the rear of the chapel at No. 35 Rue de Picpus, in Paris. He says: "We asked the guardian why there was no monument over the grave of Lafayette, and he replied that Louis Philippe, (who almost owed his position to Lafayette,) had always opposed any national movement in that way, and that the other families who owned vaults there now object to any invasion upon the affected simplicity of the place. It is, nevertheless, a disgrace that there is not a single monument in France, not even over this grave, in honor of the great and pure patriot. In France there are so many parties and so many political opinions, that it is not strange, perhaps, that no one is found to take the initiative in such a measure, for here the memory of Lafayette has still enemies as well as friends; but the Americans, who only know Lafayette as the generous friend and accomplished soldier, could, with propriety, take the initiative. At their request it is improbable that either the Government, or the relatives, or the other owners of vaults in the Cemetery of Picpus would offer any serious objection."
