HARRISBURG, PA.

Thursday Afternoon, November 15, 1860.

Printers Beware of Swindlers. R. B. Locke & Co., of New York, and Dr. F. Humphreys, of the same city, have induced us to publish their advertisements for the past six months under a solemn promise to pay us semi-annually for the same; but having called upon them by letter and through the Bank, and both having refused to accept drafts drawn on them for the amounts due us, we hereby warn our editorial brethren not to trust them. If they desire their pay they had better get it in advance. We have taken the advertisements from our paper and shall not insert the same again unless we receive payment in advance.

The Position of Mr. Lincoln. The Democratic papers seem to think it is the duty of Mr. Lincoln to make a public declaration of his sentiments on the Tennessee, North Carolina, Louisiana, subjects which now agitate the country. Mr. Lincoln cannot well take any such step until it is officially announced that he is elected President. Such a course would be a novelty in our history as a country, and we cannot help fearing that it would be a bad precedent, tending to weaken the binding force of a popular verdict. Assuredly such a declaration would be anything but complimentary to, but would be an implied reflection upon, the people who by their votes have elected Mr. Lincoln to the Presidency; and would it not be unseemly for the President elect to be addressing to the public manifestoes on his proposed policy while yet the President de facto is administering the government? In point of fact, Abraham Lincoln has been chosen for Chief Magistrate because his political sentiments were well known, and because they are just what they are. We can scarcely conceive of an instance wherein such a demand upon a President-elect could be more unwarranted and gratuitous. It has so happened that upon the great questions that have of late years engressed and agitated the public mind, no man, except perhaps Senator Douglas, has so repeatedly, publicly and unequivocally declared his sentiments. The record of the debates between Mr. Lincoln and Senator Douglas during their joint electioneering campaign in Illinois is so full upon these very points that there really remains nothing more for Slifer himself for announcing that he is him to say. Every topic was brought up | not an aspirant for that or any other office, again and again in its every possible phase, and the various reports of the debates between those gentlemen have been so widely published in cheap form, that after the expiration of his present official not the humblest citizen need be ignorant term as State Treasurer. of either Mr. Lincoln's leading views, or of his minutest opinions, on any single point of the slavery question. Men have been elected to the Presidency whose views of public policy were comparatively unknown until they assumed the Presidential office-Pierce, Polk, Taylor, for instance—who were chosen because those who voted for them had confidence in refuses to desert his post. The post of their general character and capacity. No fice is an institution of the people, and such demands were made upon them; and these facts may be accepted as a good sign Mr. Lincoln, who is confessedly the inferior of neither of these in character and capacity, and has moreover published his political opinions throughout the length and breadth of the land, cannot reasonably have such a demand made upon him. Besides, what end will it serve? What can Mr. Lincoln say now, on the points agitated, that he has not already said tens, if not hundreds, of times? What questions would you propose to him? Would you ask him if he desires or intends to meddle with the institution of slavery in and a moving train is constantly and the mater is doubtless the cause. The meddle with the institution of slavery in the States where it exists? He has already answered the question repeatedly. Would you ask him what he intends to do with it for three miles from the road. By this constantly enveloped in its clouds. The Calm After the Storm.

The Union demonstrations now taking place in the South, strengthens us in the belief we have always entertained, that feeling is likely to be localized in South Carolina, with other nuclea of discontent in Georgia and Alabama. But before it can that it will need a revolution to bring them to their senses. It seems likely that in that locality a positive outbreak will occur, of some sort, to be met, in due time, by positive action on the part of the federal government. But, elsewhere, there is no such danger. When Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, and, as we hope, Mississippi and Texas, shall have spoken for the Union, the impossibility of any scheme of general secession will fully exhibit the folly of localized attempts. One cause of reaction in the present excitement has not yet had time to operate. While the South is arming, levying heavy taxes, incurring vast financial burdens without the outside credit to sustain them, the North is quiet. No extra sessions of the Legislatures are called; no minute men are organized; no sudden arousing of military spirit is evident .-Somebody will ask the question, "why?" by-and-bye. And then people will discover that all the danger, the bloodshed, the cost, fall on the seceding parties. The North, the East, the West, the Central States, the Canadas, will go on quietly in their everyday work of life. They have no fears of servile insurrection. No horrors of invasion menace them. And nothing of the kind need menace the South, if it would only awake to a true sense of its position in the Confederacy. Pennsylvania regards herself as a Sovereign State. South Carolina mistakes herself for a subjugated province. She will find out the difference by-and by.

NOT A CANDIDATE. -- We see the announcement in several papers that Col. Kili Siller 18 a candidate Senator. We have the authority of Col. having made arrangements to retire to a farm in Union county and devote his time and attention to agricultural pursuits,

A Good Sign.—A pretty sure sign that the people of South Carolina do not sympathize with the secession temper of her more public men, is found in the fact that only one postmaster has signified his intention to resign office, and not one has resigned. The postmaster at Charleston that the heart of the Palmetto State is not alienated from the Union.

Cattle Dying on the Western Plains.

From the plains we hear of a terrible destruction of cattle belonging to the freight trains en route for this city. Their death is sudden, and the best cattle in the herds are usually the first victims. The disease of which they die has been variously pronounced murrain, distemper, and alkali. From what we learn the latter is doubtless the cause. The season is now very dry the Platte river low. indifinite length of time. Some trains have been obliged to purchase cattle to fill up their ELOPEMENT AND REPENTANCE. -The Richmond correspondent of the Petersburg Express writes: "Quite an excitement has been created in the town of Manchester, just across the river, in consequence of the elopement of one of the prettiest young girls of that town, with a man who had succeeded in gaining her affections.— They came over to Richmond last Friday night during the heavy rain, and secured apartments during the heavy rain, and secured apartments at one of our prominent hotels. The departure of the pair becoming known in Manchester, a party of young men came over in pursuit, and found the young lady, but could not find the wretch who had so grossly betrayed her. The scoundrel had left the girl bright and early the next morning, and made good his excape. The young lady, who is just 16 years of age, and of rare personal beauty, was conducted to the residence of her aunt. residence of her aunt.

Missouri.-It is announced by telegraph that the vote of Missouri is for Bell. The latest returns foot up as follows:

Bell......34,428 Breckenridge...14,976
Douglas.....32,909 Lincoln.....13,455
Bell's plurality in the State will be from 5,000 to 7,000. This leaves Mr. Douglas without a State, unless California or Oregon should go for him, which is doubtful.

HARK FROM THE TOOMBS.—The family o Senator Toombs, of Georgia, have returned to Washington for the winter, and resumed their residence on Fifteenth street, only two doors, by the way, from Gov. Seward. This does'nt look as if the belligerent Senator had much faith in his own fulminattons against the Union.

CONCENTRATED LEAVEN,

FOR MAKING Bread, Tea-Cakes, all kinds of Pastry, &c. MANUFACTURED BY

EDW. CHAMBERLIN & CO., Proprietors of Shawmut Chemical Works.

No. 33 INDIA STREET, Boston. No. 33 INDIA STREET, Boston.

CONCENTRATED LEAVEN is the result of careful chemical research. All its ingredicts are prepared in the highest state of purity, and compounded with a view to produce bread of a far better quality, and in much less time, than by any other process; and by the manufacturers submit it, with entire confidence, to the judgment of discriminating house-keepers, bakers, &c.

Bread of all kinds made by using Concentrated Leaven is lighter, more digestible and nuitritious; has an agreea. ble, natural taste; is less hisble to sour; will retain its moisture longer than by any other process, and the whole preparation for the oven need not exceed ten minutes.

whole preparation for the oven need not exceed ten minutes.

It is valuable because it is not perishable, and may be rendered available in places and at times when year into within reach, as at sea. In all climates and under all circumstances, it may be adopted, thus obvisting all cifficulty of precuring yeast or other ferme t, which is frequently of an inferior quality, rei dering the bread more or less unwholesome.

It is also valuable as regards economy, as it has been ascertained that a saving is effected in the flour of not less than 16 percent. In the common process much of the saccharine of the flour is lost by being converted into carbonic acid gas, or spirit, and the waste is incurred solely for the purpose of genorating gas to raiso the dough. By using Concentrated Leaven this was its is avaided, and the gas obtained in a manner equally efficacious. Fermentation, as has been stated, destroys a part of the flour or meal, and, be consequence, a barrel of ilour weighing 196 hs., which, by the common method, ordinarily makes about 250 hs of bread, gives by this process 290 hs., thus effecting the very important saving of 16 per cent, in the quantity of flour. By conformity to the directions on each package, any person capable of ordinary attention may conduct the process, and the result will hvariably be highly satisfactory.

"I have analysed the Concentrated Leaven, manufactured by Messrs. Edw Chamberlin & Co., with reference to its purity and efficiency of action in producing the effect of yeast in distending dough, and thereby rendering it it for making bread. This stricle is skillfully compounded, from perfectly pure material. It raises the dough without conenming the sugar or any other principle in the flour, perfectly; and the same weight of flour will produce more sweet, palatable bread than can be obtained through yeast; while for cakes and pastry it is invaluable, as it saves all risk, and much time of the pastry cook.

"The experiments made by me confirm the statements made by the manufacturers, and proves this compound worthy of public approval and extended use.

BREAKPAST AND TEA ROLIS.—Two or three teaspoonsful of Leaven. (according to the quality of the flour,) to one quart of flour; mix thoroughly by passing two or three times through a sieve; rub in a piece of butter half the size of an egg, and make the paste with cold milk or water, (milk is preferable,) barely stiff enough to permit rolling out. Much kneading should be avoided. Cut into desired form, and place immediately in a het oven and bake quickly.
