This article is aktilifully compounded, from perfectly pure material. It runses the dough without consuming the sugar or any other private ple in the four, perfectly, and the same weight of flour will produce more sweet; palatable bread than can be obtained through yeast; while for cakes and pastry it is invaluable, as it saves all risk, and much time of the pastry cook.

SABBATH IN THE COUNTRY.

The creaking wagen's in the shed, The busy fail is heard no more; The horse is littered down and fed, The harness hangs above his head, The whip behind the door.

His leathern gloves and hooked bill To-day the woodman throws aside; The blacksuith's flory torge is still. The wooden wheel of the old mill Sleeps in the mill-dam wide.

The miller's boat is anchored where
Far out, the water lilies sleep;
You see their shadows mirrored there,
The broad wide flowers reflected,
Within the mill-pond deep.

The harrow's in the garden shed, Hoe, rake and spade are put away; Unwooded stands the onice bed, The gardener from his work bath fied; 'Tis hely Sabbath Cay.

Upon the wall the white cat alcops,
By which the churn and milt-pans lie;
A drowsy watch the house dog keeps,
and scarcely from his dull eye peeps. Upon the passer by.

And sweetly over hill and dale
The silvery sounding church bells ring;
Across the moor and down the valu
They come and go, and on the gala
Their Sabbath tidings fling.

From where the white washed Sunday School Peeps out between the poplars dim, Which ever throw their shadows cool Far out upon the rushy pool, You hear the sabbath hymn.

From farm and field, and grange grown gray, From woodland walks and winding way, The oli and young, the grave and gay, Unto the old church come to pray, And sing God's holy praise.

JOHN.

A Sermon from the Leaves.

Next to the Bible there is nothing that speaks more powerful and beautiful, than the seasons. Spring breaks out with the laughing mirth and freshness of the young child. Nature assumes a reseate hue, and joy is written on all God's works. How cheerfully we watch the budding leaves and the unfolding flowers. This is like the dawn of life. The young mind lives in the present glory, and sees not the coming future. Summer comes. Nature is developed. Earth's carpet is spread; the trees wave oped. Earth's earper is spreau; the trees wave with their green foliage, and the flowers are in gorgeous blossom. Heaven has impressed upon creation the highest perfection. One can hardly realize the idea that these are perishable.—So it is with the early noon of life. We see a man in the pride of his strength and greatness, and account is marginal to the perfect of the learness. and woman in surpassing glory of her beauty— but see not the invisible mortality growing beneath. But Autumn is here. And now the flowers droop, and the sear and yellow leaf has fallen from the chilled tree. The cold blast has driven away the warm atmosphere redolent with perfume Death is written upon nature, and winter's while shroud will soon be thrown over her corpse. So it is with life. The changing seasons teach us a mournful lesson; and yet to him whose heart is right it is not only mourn. for him whose treatiful. But the deam of na-ful but very beautiful, But the deam of na-ture is not an everlasting sleep. Ere many months it shall east off its mucral gear and spring up from the grave with new life, and bud and blossom as before. Nature never dies Prices to suit the times.
