CONCENTRATED LEAVEN is the result of careful chemical research. All its ingredio is are prepared in the highest state of purity, and comjounded with a view to produce bread of a far better quality, and in much less time, then by any other process; and by the manufacturers submit it, with entire confidence, to the judgment of discriminating housekeepers, bekers, &c.

Bread of all kin s made by using Concentrated Leaven is its hier, more digestible and nuturitious; has an agreeable, natural taste; is less liable to sour; will retain its moisture longer than by any other process, and the whole preparation for the oven need not exceed ten whole preparation for the oven need not exceed ten minutes.

It is valuable because it is not perishable, and may be rendered avalable in places and at times when yeast is not within reach, as at sea. In all climates and under all circumstances, it may be adopted, thus obvisting all infficulty of precuring yeast or other ferme t, which is frequently of an inferior quality, re dering the bread more or loss unwholesome.

It is also valuable as regards economy, as it has been ascentained that a saving is effected in the flour of not less than 16 per cent. In the common process much of the saccharine of the flour is 1 at by b. ing converted into carbo is acid gus, or spirit, and the waste is incorred solely for the purpose of generating gas to raise the dough. By using Concentrated Leaven this waste is avaided, and the gas obtained in a manner equally efficiency. Speech of Senator Seward.

CRICIS.

The Republicans of Auburn recently had a celebration over the result of the election. Public buildings and private residences throughout the town were billiantly illuminated. The Wide Awakes marched in torch-light procession through the streets. Stopping in front of Senator Saward's residence, they called him out for a speech. He responded as follows: GENTLEMEN, WIDE-AWAKES, FELLOW CITIZENS, FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS:—This cot is exactly according to contract. We parted hast at midnight, you remember; it was at the Court House. The day, the 6th of this month.—

Doubtful, perhals, whether it was not the 7th. Wu were receiving the election returns. The First Ward, Republican; Second Ward, Republican; Fourth Ward, astounding, Republican. [Cheers. Hurrah for the Fourth Ward] That is right. The Fourth Ward deserves it. Give the ward three more. Three more were given. Now I think of it, the First Ward deserves as many. [Sx cheers were given for the First Ward.] Well, then came news from the several towns, theering, glorious, magnificent, and the scattering returns from other towns, counties and States.— I tell you that the State was Republican by 50,000; that A raham Lincoln was President; that you would not need me to r joice longer with you. I promised to leave a light burning in my library, and that it you should have bad news, I would come back to you if called, and you promised me not to come unless the news should come in 18ther blue. [We did. That's it.] Well, the news didn't come in blue, but it.] Well, the news didn't come in blue, but all tight and cheering. And yet you are here again. [Lughter, cheers. That's a f ot.]— And what aggravates the case is that the news is too che ring for you to enjoy it alone.—

[Laughter:] W.ll. I suppose the must not insist on strict performance of engagements in these times, especially with Wide Awakes. It is in their nature to be uneasy, and to make other pe. P's so. They would not I t their adversaries sleep before the election. Their trien is must not expert to be allowed to rest undisturbed after the slection. [Cheers and laughter.]

Fellow dizzens, you have a light to r jobs.
remember that I hought it an ecc s on for joicing when the gold cause we now mainrejoing when the good cause we now maintened one ward in the city one or two or, three towns in the country, and the State of Vermont a one in the whole country. But now who will deny our right to rejoice when it carries all the wards in the city; all the towns in the county, all the count is in the State where it argue on is fairly nead an tage actcilly all the States in the Ution which allow, in Gury all ile Stikes in the U. 100 which show, in fact, free ap cob, free debates free mails, and free and universal suffrage. It is the earmst the mails accompand. [Cheers.]

But there is still greater reason to rejoice in the manner in which this success has been won.

It is the verdict of the people for a pri ciple;
the Republican principle; the true Democratio principle of equal and exact justice to all men.
[Oneers ] It is a verdict rendered purely on conviction without rassion or interest; Not a Republican vote in the United States has been procured through terror, not one by brillery or corruption. Nay, every vote has been given in existence of infinidation and corruption.— Cheerer] I do not charge that the Fosion votes or other opposition votes were largely given under such appliances. But the record of the canvasa remains, and bears its testimony that the main argument of those parties was their menace of distribute and the was money at the polls. [Cheers; that is so.] Who will now libel the American people? Who will deny their virtue? But this demonstration of yours has its meaning-its meaning in various relations. It recalls the post, and tells that the erroneous na-tional policy of forly years has been retraced, reconsidered, revised, condenined and renounced. Let, then, the passions and the prejudices be buried with the errors of the past. It bears on the future. It assures us that here for the policy of the country will be the development of its resources, the increase of its strength and its greatness, by the agencies of freedom and humanity. [Cheers.] Dismiss we, then, the tuture until some new election calls you again to your council chambers, to renew your efforts in obedience to the principle that eternal vigimake is the tax we pay for enduring liberty.—

The immediate question is the bearing of the occasion on the present. What is our present dut;? It is simply that of magnanimity. We have learned heretofore, the practice of patience under political defeat. It now remains to show the greater virtue of moderation in triumoh.—
That we may do this let us remember that it is only as figures of speech that the use of martial terms, such as "defeat" and "victory," ob-tain in our system of elections. The parties engaged in an election are not, never can be, must never be, enemies, or even adversaries— We are all fellow citizens, Americans, brethres. It is a trial of issues by the force only of reason; and the contest is carried to its conclusion, with the use only of suffrage.

An appeal lies from the people this year to the people themselves next year—to be argued and determined in the same way, and so on forover. This is, indeed, a long way to the atlainment of rights and the establi-hment of luterests. It is our way, however, now as it has been heretofore. Let it be our way hereafter. [Cheers.] If there be among us or in the country those who think that marshalling armics or 5 pulling down the pillars of the Republic is a better, because a shorter, way, let us not doubt that if we commend our way by our patience, our gentieness, our affection toward them, they too will, before they shall have gone too far, find out that our way, the old way, their old way as well as our old way, is not only the shortest but the best.

Fellow-citizens, I should do injustice to you, and violence to my own feelings, if I did not recognize in this visit a warm and most generout ( a nonstration of your personal kindness to me. You know how deeply I was committed to the triumph of this Presidential ticket more than to any other in times that are past; and to its triumph more distinct and emphatic, if possible, here than anywhere else. How the eyes of friends in every part of the country were anxiously fixed on this State, on this county, nay, even on this town, to learn whether we were true in this crisis to our cause, our country, and to ourselves. This lent a new and intense earnestness to your efforts, and our success, therefore, has exceeded all that we dired to promise, though not what we dared to hope. The year 1860 how many acts of home
