CONCENTRATED LEAVEN, FOR MAKING

Bread, Tea-Cakes, all kinds of Pastry, &c. MANUFACTURED BY

EDW. CHAMBERLIN & CO., Proprietors of Shawmut Chemical Works.

No. 33 INDIA STREET, Boston.

No. 33 INDIA STREET, Boston.

CONCENTRATED LEAVEN is the result of careful chemical research. All its ingredicular propared in the highest state of purity, and compounded with a view to produce bread of a far better quality, and in much less time, than by any other process; and by the manufacturers submit it, with entire confidence, to the judgment of discriminating house keepers, bakers, &c.

Bread of all kinds made by using Concentrated Leaven is lighter, more digestible and nutiritious; has an agreea.

is lighter, more digestible and nutiritious; has an agreea, ble, natural tasie; is less liable to sour; will retain its moisture longer than by any other process, and the whole preparation for the oven need tot exceed ten

It is valuable because it is not perishable, and may be reindered available in places and at times when yeast is not within reach, as at sea. In all climates and under all circumstances, it may be adopted, thus obviating all cifficulty of precuring yeast or other ferme t, which is frequently of an inferior quality, rei dering the bread more or less unwholesome.

officially of an inferior quality, ret dering the bread more or less unwholesome.

It is also valuable as regards economy, as it has been ascertained that a saving is effected in the flour of not less than 18 per cent. In the common process much of the saccharine of the flour is lost by being converted into carbotic acid gas, or spirit, and the waste is incurred solely for the purpose of genorating gas to raise the dough. By using Concentrated Leaven this waste is avoided, and the gas obtained in a manner equally efflications. Fermentation, as has been stated, destroys a part of the flour or meal, and, in consequence, a barrel of flour weighing 196 ms, which, by the common method, ordinarily makes about 250 ms of bread, gives by this process 290 ms, thus effecting the very important saving of 16 per cent. In the quantity of flour. By conformity to the directions on each package, any person capable of ordinary attention may conduct the process, and the result will invariably be highly satisfactory.

CERTIFICATE FROM DR. HAYES,

Assayer to the Sale of Massachusetts.

"I have analysed the Concentrated Leaven, manufactured by Messra. Edw Chamberlin & Co., with reference to its purity all efficiency of action in producing the effect of yeast in distending dough, and thereby rendering it fit for making bread. This article is skillfully compounded, from perfectly; and the same weight of flour will produce more sweet, paltatable bread than can be obtained through yeast; while for cakes and pastry it is invaluable, as it sayes will risk, and much time of the pastry cook.

pastry cook.

"The experiments made by me confirm the statements made by the manufacturers, and proves this compound worthy of public approval and extended use.

"Respectfully,

DISAASES OF IMPRUDENCE—When the misguided and imprusent votary of pleasure finds he has imbided the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability can atom befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptems of this horrid disease make their appearance, affecting the head, throat, nosa, skia, ec., progressing on with frightful rapidity, till death puts a period to his dreadin sulforings by sendin; him to "that not use from whence no traveler returns." It is a melinichely fact that thousands fall victims to this terrible disease, owing to the unskilfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that deadily poison, mercury, ruin the constitution and make the residue of the miserable.

Jane Radubaug's, of Harrisburg, testifies that having been treated by various physicians for five years in the case of Rheumatism in both legs so that she was unable to lift one leg before the other during all that time; after their abandonment she used Dr. Weichel's medicine only about three months, and was perfectly cured. J. Solienberger testifies that his sister Jane having been confined to her bed for nine years, and all that time speechless, and every day and right spams on the cheet, was then perfectly healed by Dr. Weichel, and has for five years since that time the use of her speech. Marg. Zimmerman testifies that having been totally blind in one eye for ten years, and in the other for one year, has received, full sight of one eye by using Dr. Weichel's direction and medicine. John bleyer, of South Middleton township, Cumberland county, estifies that having totally lost sight of the right eye for more than one year and a half by the gray cataract, and exployed several physicians without success, has received then under the treatment of Dr. Weichel in less than one year his sight so that he can read, and considers his cure to be accomplished.

Like the soft south wind when he woos the flowers,
Like the glad bird's note in his love-wreathed bowers,
Like the thrilling sigh of the wind's harp strings,
Are the rapture tones that the angel sings i

Soft, sweet and low,
Rich breathings flow,
And I dream of love when the angel sings!

Then a lofty strain on a rich harp swells, And the soul of bliss in its music dwells, And the tide of song o'er its glowing strains, Flows fresh and free from Eden Springs!

Soft, sweet and low,
Rich breathings flow,
And I dream of heaven, while the augel sings.

The census of 1860 has been completed by the United States Marshals in this State. We give, in another column, a table showing the population by Counties. But the table was completed from the returns of the Western district, as published in the Pittsburgh papers, and we are sure there are errors in some of the counties, because, in adding the figures together, the totals do not correspond with those published. Still it is probable that the totals are correct, the printers having made some mis-takes in the figures of some of the counties.

There are manifest blunders in this census of 1860. We pointed out the absurdity of the statement that there were only 6,097 deaths in a year in Philadelphia, where it is officially and certainly known that the annual number of deaths exceed ten thousand. It is probable that there are corresponding omissions and mis takes in the other columns of the census re-turn. But there is no way, now, of correcting these blunders, and we must take the report of the Marshals to be correct, whether it is so or not. According to this, the State of Pennsyl-vania has a population of 2,913,041, living in 514,847 dwelling-houses. There are 159,233 farms and 20,715 industrial establishments, of which 4,400 are in Philadelphia, and 1,190 in Pittsburgh.

The decennial increase of the population of Pennsylvania, since the year 1790, is shown by the following statement:

Population Decennial Increase. 1810 810,091 1820 1,049,458 1830 1,248,233 1840 1,724,033 18 0 2,311,786 1860 2,913,041

Probably the Presidential election occupied a good deal of the time of the marshals: FOR THE LADIES, and in their eager desire to make votes for Breckinridge, they had to overlook a good many citizens that would liked to have figured in the census returns. But with all its imperfections, the census table of Pennsylvania still shows her to be a great State. She will retain her position as the second State in the Union in population and wealth. The number of her inhabitants has more than doubled in a period of thirty years. Another period of thirty years nay bring her population up to five or six millions, exceeding the present population of either Bavaria, Belgium, or Holland. Already we have a million inhabitants more than the kingdom of Saxony, and are not very far behind Portu-

The growth of Pennsylvania, rapid as it has been, has been retarded by the neglect of the federal government to afford proper protection to her manufactures. The wealth that she possesses in her mines is incalculable, far ex eceding that of all the other States except the gold-producing States of the Pacific coast.— With a reasonable protective tariff, this wealth would be rapidly developed, and then popula-tion would pour into Pennsylvania from the other States and from Europe, at a rate exceeding anything we have yet witnessed. It will be observed that the heaviest rate of increase during the last fifty years was in the interval between 1840 and 1850, during four years of which the protective tariff of 1842 was in force. There can be no doubt that to this tariff th heavy increase was to be attributed. After the enactment of the tariff of 1846, the rate of increase began to fall off, and during the last ten years it has only been about 26 per cent. it having been in the previous decade over 34 ner cent.

Under the administration of Mr. Lincoln we hope to have a restoration of the policy under which Pennsylvania is sure to prosper. It trea son and madness do not bring us into a civil war—which will, of course, seriously affect all business, and impair public prosperity—we shall expect to see Pennsylvania advancing as she has never before done, and showing a population, in the year 1870, not much less than four millions -Phila. While glancing over the columns of a newspaper, the other day, my eyes fell upon this single sentence: "Shrouds have no pockets."— And truly, thought I, no remark is more re-
