Remarkable Scene in a Pulpit.

We learn that on thanksgiving day, the several churches at Waukegan united in religious services in the Presbyterian church. The sermon was preached by Pev. Mr. Ferree, the Methodist clergyman who her there a position that the who has taken an active part of late years in the anti-slavery cause, and in the course of his remarks, made some pointed strice tures on the current politics, denomoing slavery and the party of slavery in severe terms. At the conclusion of his sermon, he invited the Rev. Mr. Little, pastor of the Presbyterian church, in which the ser-vices were being held, to close with a prayer: Mr. Little arose, and in a few remarks, declined to pray, giving as a rea-son, that his pulpit had been descrifted, and that after such a "political harangue" as his brother had just delivered, the thought a prayer utterly out of place, and he then requested the congregation to join him in signing the doxology: The doxology was accordingly sung and the congre-gation dismissed. Mr. Ferree took the re-markable conduct of his indignant brother with philosophical good nature, saying nothing ; and at the close of the services, about one half of the congregation ap-proached him, shaking him heartily by the hand, and approving the sentiments of his sermon. It was then, we presume, that the idea first flashed upon Mr. Little's mind that the people of Waukegan are not in favor of slavery, and that he had in a moment of passion, committed a breach of good manners, to call it by no harder name.—Chicago Journal:

OUR BECKY DORS. - An English paper says that a young damsel who is engaged, and will shortly be united, to a gallant hou of Neptune, lately visited the Mariner's Church. During the sermon the parson Church. During the sermon the parson discoursed eloquently and with muchtan nestnoss of the dangers and temptations of the sailor. He concluded by asking: "Is there one who thinks anything of him who wears a tarpaulin hat and blue jacket, or a pair of trousers made of duck? In short, is there one who cares aught for the poor sailor?" A little girl, a sister of the dam-sel, jumped up, and looking archivat her sister, said, in a tone loud enough for every one to hear, "Yes, sir, our Becky 'does."

A PRACTICAL IDEA.—The "Scientific Ameri-can" suggests that paper manufacturiers should furnish letter, and note paper in thalf sheets, since the outside leaf of most letters, and notes is wasted beautifie of the almost universal use of n envelopes. she ople generally nee a whole sheet to avoid the appearance of meanness, when a half one would answer every purpose.
