The Southern Reign of Terror.

The Southern fire-eaters have gone from bad to worse, till at last there is hardly a locality in that section where Northern men are safe, either on their travels or in notice, tarring and feathering, lynching and assassination, constitute the programme for the benefit of Northerners. without distinction. The fact that a person is from the North, is prima facia evidence that he has "no rights which Southerners are bound to respect," and all good citizens are expected to assist in the administration of slaveocracy penalties. But this course of proceeding is not confined to persons from the North alone, for Southerners who dare to express the sentiments of Washington, Jefferson and CLAY are treated with similar attention The latest example is found in the case of John M. Botts, who, although a slaveholder, is not regarded as sound on the "divine right" of the slaveholders to rule the country and make the United States a slave empire; and who has also expressed in terms of honest boldness his opposition to the disruption of the Union on account of the denial of that monstrous pretence of the slaveholders. Papers are in circulation at Richmond, and elsewhere in Virginia, for signatures, and are already numerously signed, requesting Mr. Botts to leave the State as soon as he can pack his duds. In view of such a spirit, and such a condition of society, the free people of the North are asked to surrender the Territories of the United States to the exclusive occupation of slaveholders.

A Sensible Proceeding.

The State of North Carolina, while neglecting nothing which it may deem essential to the protection of Southern rights, is resolved not to enter upon the grave business of dissolving the Union with indecent haste, nor to permit a hotheaded minority to plunge the State into secession. A joint committee of the secession. A joint committee of the der our glorious Constitution, against all in-Legislature has recommended that a State vaders, whether foreign foes, or INTESTINE TRAIT-Convention be held on the 18th of Feb. ruary—and a bill has also been introduced providing that-

"No ordinance of sand Convention, dissolving the connection of the State of North Carolina with the Federal Government, or connecting it with any other, shall have any force or validity UNTIL IT SHALL HAVE BEEN SUBMINTED TO, AND RATIFIED BY, A MAJORITY OF THE QUALIFED VOTERS OF THE STATE for members of the General Assembly, to whom it shall be submitted for their approval or rejection.'

This is eminently sensible and dignified. Secession is the most important act which any State can attempt, and it should never be undertaken except upon the clear and unmistakeable requirement of a decided majority of her people. South Carolina has shown no clearer proof of the conscious their starving whites, as well as blacks, weakness of her cause than in the hasty for corn, before many days. and inconsiderate action by which she has endeavored to precipitate the disunion

A PRESIDENT FOR 1865 .- To any political party, says the New York World, on the look out for a candidate for the Presidency of the United States in 1865, we suggest Major Anderson, of Kentucky. From a slave State, yet unswerving in his responsibility.

What President Fillmore Did.

Fillmore occupied the White House, South Carolina got up her secession movement because California was admitted into the Union, without being cut in two, making one a slave and the other a free State. Now, though Mr. Fillmore was regarded as an amiable man, chockfull of peace principles, what did he do? Why he quietly put into Fort Moultrie a strong body of troops, without asking their leave. The gay and gallant Palmettos awoke one fine morning and found this awkward fact suddenly staring them in the face whereupon their chivalric Governor waxed wroth and applied to President Fillmore for an explanation. "Sir," was the answer, "the President of the United States is not responsible for his official conduct to the Governor of South Carolina." The amiable President then in office did not particularly affect leonine or heroic qualities; but he understood his duty to the Constitution he was sworn to support, and his vigorous mode of confronting rebellion nipped it in the bud to the great satisfaction of everybody except the combustible and explosive Palmettos. If the pusillanimous "old public functionary" now at the head of the government had had the forecast, discretion and spirit, two months ago, to do his plain duty, he would not now be the object of universal contempt and derision.

Wide-Awake Demonstration.

The Republicans of Centre countythe home of Governor Curtin-intend holding a Union Mass Meeting at Bellefonte on the evening of the 30th of this month, and the Democrat calls upon the Wide-Awakes of the county to make a full turn out, with equipments and torches, their homes. Orders to leave on short on the occasiom. We quote from the appeal as follows: Call meetings at once; organize yourselves into military companies, and declare with one voice that you will stand by the Constitution and the Union to the last of your breath and your blood. Let all the Wide-Awake Clubs in the county elect delegates immediately to meet in Convention at the January Court, and take in consideration what is best to be done. These are dark hours and we must prepare for the worst. Is there a coward among us? If there is, let him refuse to obey this call. Play up Dixey again, re-trim your lamps, and if the worst comes to the worst, throw them away and take muskets in your hands, and from Maine to Oregon let the earth shake to the tread of three millions of armed Wide-Awakes, sworn to protect the Constitution and the Union. Do your duty and the Union is safe—fail to do it and all the noble blood spilt in the Revolution will have been poured out in vain. Wide-Awakes of Centre county, in the name of your country, in the name of your glorious principles, in the name of liberty, we call upon you to organize at once.

General Jackson's Will.

In June. 1843, Gen. JACKSON, in his retirement at the Hermitage, wrote his will with his own hand. In it, among other bequests, are two, which ought, at this time, to be published for present reading. These sentiments therein expressed, in this solemn document, evince Heaven for vengeance. "Eighth. To my grand-nephew, Andrew Jack-

RHODE ISLAND.—PERSONAL LIBERTY BILLS TO BE REPEALED .- Gov. Sprague, of Rhode Island, having been interrogated by a citizen of Maryland as to what his State would do in regard to personal liberty, responded as follows :---

The Governor of Rhode Island goes heart and hand for the repeal of the so-called personal liberty bills of his State, though they are uncon-stitutional only in spirit. The Legislature— From a slave State, yet unswerving in his which meets in January—will, without hesitation, repeal them; not from fear or cowardice, his duty, a man who can keep his own but from a brave determination, in face of threats and sneers, to live up to the Constitucounsel and act with decision at the right tion and all its guarantees, the better to testify moment, and who is not afraid to take the their love for the Union, and the firmer to exact allegiance to it from all others. too and he seems prover a sec

FROM THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

Correspondence of the Telegraph.]

WASHINGTON, January 1, 1861. The complications of our internal difficulties are leaving their impress deeply moulded on every branch of politics and business with which they come in contact. The morning of one day engenders a hope for the Union which is dashed to the ground as the evening shades gather their robes around the earth, while dismay and consternation mark the actions and alarm the hearts of the bravest and most patriotic men in the land. What are we to do? was a question propounded by the President, a few days since, to Gen. Scott, who had been summoned to the "Star Chamber" of the White House, for consultation. "What are we to do?" answered the war-woru veteran, gazing scornfully at the almost imbecile Executive. "Mr. President," continued the Hero, "a few days since I wrote you an official letter, giving you my opinion relative to the great difficulties which now threaten the peace and perpetuity of this nation. Now, I have no advice to give you; you have taken the responsibility in this fearful crisis—you have given your sympathy to one section, and by your indiscretion aroused the animosity of another, thus placing in jeopardy the sanctity of our laws and the majesty of justice. To all this, I have nothing to advise, to approve or condemn. We are both old men, Mr. President. We are both on the verge of the grave, and when the summons comes for our appearance before the court of Heaven, then will the Searcher of all hearts inquire of us both how we discharged our duties, how we wielded the power He conferred on on us both, and how we discharged our duty. If you, Mr. President, suffer this, the last abiding place of freedom, and almost the only home of religious liberty, to be destroyed, the condemnation which will be visited on you in this world will be as a zephyr to a whirl-wind in comparison to that awful reproof which will be reserved for you in Heaven. See to it and havers how you further. be visited on you in this world will be as a Heaven. See to it, and beware how you further proceed in tampering with traitors and treating with rebels. See to it that on your head the blood of freedom and religion—of domestic joy and manly hope-is not poured, to cry unto Here is the literal language of the illusthat Mr. Buchanan fairly crouched beneath the Chief of the Army and Navy. It is reported scorn and anathemas of Gen. Scott, while those in attendance shrank from the poor old man, with more disgust than pity for his weakness and fears. Gen. Scott now openly declares that he will be at the side of Abraham Lincoln from the moment he arrives in this city until he is inand takes no pains to conceal his anger. In his position and declarations, he is sustained and applauded by the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, Roger B. Taney. Judge Taney declares that he will travel to either the shores of the Atlantic or Pacific, to administer the oath of office to Abraham Lincoln, provided an attempt should succeed to prevent the inauguration in Washington.

It was very generally understood here yesterday that Hon. Simon Cameron, of Pennsylvania, had been offered a position in the Cabinet to be formed by Abraham Lincoln, and that Senator Cameron had accepted. He is to go into the Treasury Department, for which position he is undoubtedly qualified in every try the coming year. I can assure you, from my own observation, that in less than two months from this time eight families out of ten has no superior and few equals in the country, and a happy state of affairs will certainly originate from his administration in that Department, and more particularly after the bungling and dishonesty of the late Secretary Cobb .-Aside from this fact, and aside from the large claims and undisputed qualifications of Senator Cameron, the fact of his going into the Treasury should afford cause for congratulation among all who readily value the immense resources and collossal enterprises of the old Keystone State. He is undoubtedly at this moment, the only man from Pennsylvania in Congress, who understands her wants, and who is wholly and honestly desirous of supplying those wants in the shape of fair and impartial legislation. In this respect he differs from most other men by divesting political economy of its abstract questions and presumptuous theories—and most fortunate would it be for Pennsylvania and the country, if every American statesman would devote himself with a like zeal to the accomplishment of similar practical results and purposes. Such statesmanship would steer clear of agitatation to gratify ambitious motives, and by its operations give peace to society, security to buiness, and prosperity to whole communities. And to such an order of statesmanship the coun-

Personal Liberty Bills Denounced and Crittenden's Resolutions Endorsed.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5. An adjourned meeting of citizens to consider the state of the Union, met at the Board of Frade rooms at noon. The committee to whom he resolutions were referred made no report, and there being an evident determination on the part of many present, who did not partici-pate at the last meeting, to force the passage of pate at the last meeting, to force the passage of Judge Lewis' non-coercive resolutions, which was resisted by prominent Republicans, an exciting scene of disorder occurred, during which District Attorney Mann showed a wil-Republican meeting adjourned, but another was immediately called at the same place and Judge Lewis placed in the Chair. Resolutions denouncing Personal Liberty Bills, etc., and approving of Crittenden's resolutions, were adop ed unanimously. The Republicans refused to participate in the second meeting, and mani-fested much ill feeling at the conduct of their political opponents in overriding them

The Forts and Arsenal at Mobile in Possession of the Alabama Troops.

Mobile, Jan. 4. The United States Arsenal and forts at this place were taken this morning at daylight by the Alabama troops. The forts contained 78,-000 stand of arms, 1,500 boxes of powder, 300,-000 rounds of musket cartridges, and other munitions of war. No resistance was made by those in charge of the forts and Arsenal. It is rumored that Fort Morgan was taken last night.

Meeting of Workingmen in Favor of the Constitution and the Union.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 5. The workingmen's meeting, last night, was largely attended. Speeches were made and re-solutions passed declaring that the Union must be preserved in its integrity, by the enforce-ment of the laws in every part of the Union, by whatever means are necessary. That a re-medy for all grievances can be had under the Constitution, and the only way to ensure safety and peace is in maintaining it.
