Mr. TELLER. This seems to me a strange proceeding. If the Auditor General neglected to give the proper notification, by which neglect these sureties suffered, that would be a the Commonwealth of several thousand dollars from the Courts is that no laches operates to defeat the claim of the Commonwealth. Notwithstanding the lapse of time, the Common-wealth can sue and recover. Mr. Strunk canwealth can sue and recover. Mr. Strunk cannot have any remedy in a Court of law. But the circumstances of the case are such as to raise a strong equity in his favor—an equity which should induce the House to pass this bill. Had the officer of the State given that notice which the law required, Mr. Strunk could have saved the difference of the state given that notice which the law required, Mr. Strunk could have saved the difference of the state given that notice which the principle of law is well sattled that where a strength because it that the principle of law is well sattled that where a himself to a great extent, because at that time Mr. Zeigler and the co-sureties had property which could have been made liable. I think the circumstances are such as to commend this bill to our sense of justice and right.

Mr. WILSON. I would like to enquire whether some other of the sureties besides George Strunk had not at the time real estate upon which the bonds, when filled up, became liens and are still liens.

Mr. GIBBONEY. This case has been fully

In reply to the gentleman from Beaver (Mr. Wison) I would say that two of the sureties in this case received some intimation that there was a deficiency in the account of Mr. Ziegler—a belance of a large amount due the Commonwelth. wealth; and in consequence, they assigned their property, so that they would not become responsible for this defalcation.

bonds were entered up, upon which real estate those bonds became liens.

Mr. GIBBONEY. I do not know as to that fact; but the whole responsibility for the claim fell upon Mr. Strunk, the other two sureties being found to be worth nothing. The claim was entered against the sureties of Daniel Ziegler; bus Mr. Strunk was the only solvent party. As has been stated, if the Auditor General had promptly entered up the bond, it would have become a lien upon the property of the Treasurer, Daniel Ziegler; and it was in evidence before the committee that Daniel Ziegler put his property out of his hands between the time the settlement was made with him and the time when the notice was given to the sureties. It was in evidence that the property, thus assigned by Mr. Ziegler, would have been sufficient to cover the whole claim of the Commonwealth against him. Thus, if the Auditor General had not failed to do his duty that these sureties should be released from the payment of this money.

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. In answer to the gentleman from Beaver, (Mr. Wilson, I would state the Auditor General did not have the transcript entered until 1856, when the other sureties were insolvent.

Mr. WILSON. I understand that; but what I agked was, whether Mr. Ziegler, Mr. Rittenhouse and Mr. Belford, had not real estate at the time these bonds were elled, upon which the bonds became liens, and yet remain liens.

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. No, sir; two of them had become insolvent; only one of them had become insolvent

Mr. WILSON. I wish to know when they became insolvent.

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. It was prior to the entry of these liens; I can not state the precise time.

Mr. WILSON. I would like to have some arddeness of that fact.

Mr. WILSON. I would like to have some arddeness of that fact.

The motion was agreed to. evidence of that fact.
Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. The evidence was

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. The evidence was adduced before the Committee.

Mr. COLLINS. I would like to ask the gentleman from Mifflin (Mr. Grissour) whether I understand him to say that two of the sureties ascertained that the principal was indebted to the Commonwealth in a certain amount, while the other, whom you now seek to relieve had not that information.

Mr. SMITH, (Philadelphia,) on leave given, read in place a bill entitled "an Act to divide the 10th division of the 20th ward city of Philadelphia, into two election precincts.

Referred to the Committee on Election Districts.

Mr. DUFFIELD, on leave given, an Act for the relief of George Rikin, late treasurer of the committee of Snilivan.

Mr. GIBBONEY. It is presumed from the fact that they did make over their property that they had such information.

Mr. COLLINS. It is only presumed, then.!

Mr. GIBBONEY. From the circumstances of Adjourned.

Mr. COLLINS. I thought that the gentle man threw out the insinuation (I drew that in-ference) that the Auditor General gave the in-formation to two of the sureties, who were politi-cal friends, but failed to give notice to the other, who was not a political friend. Am I right in the inference?

Mr. GIBBONEY. I did not exactly say that the Auditor General acted in that manner; but by some means, I believe two of the sureties ascertained that Ziegler was in arrears and made themselves safe; while the other had no natice of the defalcation for several years.

Mr. WILSON. If those sureties had real estate at the time these bonds were filed, are not those bonds still a lien upon that real estate? oept subject to the Hen of these bonds. The person who is now in possession of that real estate extate holds title subject to this lien. Therefore this bill would be for the relief of those persons who have purchased that real estate which was owned by the sureties at the time those bonds were filed. It is stated that two of the suireties assigned their property. I would like to know, how they could make an assignment so as to divest the lien of the Commonwealth against them. It could not be done. That lien still english against the property, in whosever hands it may be.

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. Does the gentleman mean to say that the mere ball-bond would be a lien upon real estate?

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. The state of the estate examples and modeal virtues. We speak in the most example.

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. Does the gentleman mean to say that the mere ball-bond would be a lien upon real estate?

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. The state of the state of the most examples and modeal virtues after the syrup is administered.

This valuable proparation is the prescripton of one and the say that the mere ball-bond should be a lien upon real estate?

e lien upon real estate?
Mr. WILSON. Are not those bonds filed?
Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. They are not liens until after judgment.
Mr. WILSON. Are they not liens when en-tared up?

Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. No, sir.

Mr. WILSON. I think this is a matter that ought to be further inquired into. I move that the bill be postponed for the present. The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILDEY and Mr. WALKER and were as fol-

The question recurring on the bill,
Mr. ARMSTRONG. I am not entire by familiar with this case in all its details; built would like to state to the House the ylews which infinenced the Committee in reporting this bill affirmatively.

In the account of Mr. Ziegler, as published glect these sureties suttered, that would be a proper case for the consideration of the Courts. It does not, as I think, constitute a good reason for special relief, as contemplated by this bill. To exhonorate the surety in this case would, I consider, be a bad precedent. Mr. BARTHOLOMEW. In answer to the gentleman from Eric (Mr. Teller) I would state that the reason the surety cannot obtain relief from the Courts is that no luckes operates to defeat the claim of the Commonwealth. Nota lien upon the property of the Treasurer and not secured against the property of the Treasur-er, and the other sureties. So far as regards it the principle of law is well settled that where a creditor has ample security for the payment of debt, and by his own laches allows that security to be lost, the sureties are relieved. This is a principle in equity which I presume no lawyer will dispute. In this case the sureties cannot have the benefit of that principle because no laches will operate against the Commonwealth. In equity I see, no reason whatever why the Commonwealth and an individual creditor should not be placed upon precisely the same footing. Had the creditor been an individual the sureties would, under similar circumstances, have been released. The principle of equity camined by the Committee on the Judiciary, (general,) and they have reported it unanimously with an affirmative recommendation. As the questions involved are purely of a legal nature, this affirmative recommendation would, I should suppose, be almost sufficient to induce the immediate passage of the bill.

In reply to the gentleman from Beaver (Mr. Wirson) I would say that two of the sureties in this case received some intimation that there in reporting this bill affirmatively.

Mr. TRACY. It seems to me, sir, that if the rea soning of the gentleman from Lycoming (Mr. Armstrong) becorrect, we should make a change property, so that they would not become responsible for this defalcation.

Mr. WILSON. What I wish to inquire is whether Zacharlah Rittenhouse and Samuel Belford had not real estate at the time the wealth are too well protected—if she has an unbonds were entered up, upon which real estate due advantage over individuals in regard to the recovery of her claims—we should change the
