

great political question? I want to know why the people of Pennsylvania have not the same right to know the sentiments of the citizens of Wayne county as they have to know the sentiments of Fulton county.

The simple difference between these resolutions and those offered by the gentleman from Wayne (Mr. Auzan) is that the latter were of a dry-mashy character. These resolutions embodied such sentiments as the Democratic party wish to send to the world as the sentiment of the State of Pennsylvania.

But, sir, let us not engage wrongly and unbecomingly in the work of fixing upon innocent parties the guilt of the present juncture. I conceive, sir, that there is an adroit attempt going on—an attempt of the most unjust, the most oppressive character—to fix upon the Republican party the consequences of the present distracted state of the country.

I believe, sir, that this design is in course of progress, with the aid of the Democratic party, in order that the Democratic party shall be relieved of odium. Now, that these resolutions are published, the honest men of the party should be relieved of this odium, I am willing to hope that they will have themselves. But let not the Democratic party, as a body of American citizens, attempt to deny the fact that the doctrines of their party are those which have brought about the present difficulties in this country.

Do not let it be said that they attempt to evade the issue. The consequences of the resolutions are not there touched upon. It appears, however, that my Democratic friends think these resolutions are enough; and I do not know but perhaps it is right that no more should be given at the present time. I do not know but that it is well enough to give them a little time; but we will administer to them a little heavier dose than the next time.

It is not as if they are willing to stand, or perhaps able to bear under the present state of feeling. I admit, sir, that that party is not now in a strong and healthy condition, and therefore may not be able to stand as heavy a dose as it would be advisable to give, if it were in good sound health.

Consequently I am in favor of dividing the portion and giving it to them just as they can stand it, increasing it gradually. In a few days when they shall have become a little stronger they may administer another little dose. Laughter.

Aside from that, Mr. Speaker, I expect to receive, in a few days, some resolutions from my constituents. I anticipate that the sentiments which they will set forth will perhaps be something like the resolutions now before us, and I want the Legislature to take such action on the present question as will not commit them hereafter to deny the sentiments of any branch of the State. I would be willing to give to both Republicans and Democrats a chance of declaring their sentiments to the world in this manner.

I shall vote against the indefinite postponement of these resolutions, because I consider that the motion is intended for the purpose of smothering the sentiments of the citizens of the State of Pennsylvania upon the great political questions of the day. I regard this motion as this, I think that every Republican should be held responsible by his constituents at home for every vote he may cast. I am satisfied that, if I vote against the printing of these resolutions, my constituents in Mercer and Venango counties would hold me responsible for that vote.

And I am satisfied that they could do so with justice. I hope that every Republican and every Democrat who sits upon this floor, in response to this question of indefinite postponement, will do so with the express understanding that he is to be held responsible, and I hope none may cast votes which it will be necessary for me to explain. I hope that every gentleman will vote in such a manner that his naked "yes" or "no" may go to his constituents.

Mr. Auzan. In my opinion, it would not be expedient to vote against the printing of the resolutions which have been offered by the gentleman from Wayne. Resolutions of a somewhat similar meeting, held in the county of Fulton, were presented here a few days ago, were received, and were ordered to be printed in the Legislative Record.

I can conceive no reason why an indefinite postponement should be voted upon this question, unless that vote should be intended as expressing the verdict of this House that these resolutions are not proper in language or in form to be embodied among the transactions of this House. It seems to me that such a vote would necessarily imply that decision. I am not prepared for that decision; I am not prepared to assume such a responsibility to the people of Wayne county. I am willing that they should appear in accordance with the requirements of the resolutions, or to any official record of this body—that there should be responsibility of the publicity thus given to their proceedings. For this reason, I shall vote against the indefinite postponement.

question that has brought about the existing difficulties in the country. I make that prediction; and when this shall have been realized, it will be clear to the reason, to the sense, to the judgement of every man that, to that extent, it is an acknowledgment that they have, by assenting and passing those odious doctrines, brought about the present difficulties which now afflict our country. I wish, sir, that for the present and for the future, whether Democrats or Republicans, we should act like honest men, like patriots—that we should eschew and repudiate every unworthy, every corrupt and corrupting political doctrine.

But, sir, let us not engage wrongly and unbecomingly in the work of fixing upon innocent parties the guilt of the present juncture. I conceive, sir, that there is an adroit attempt going on—an attempt of the most unjust, the most oppressive character—to fix upon the Republican party the consequences of the present distracted state of the country.
