California and the Union.

The causes which disturb the Atlantic and Gulf States, and have produced so much confusion and excitement, have extended to California, where efforts are being made to get up an organization for the purpose of establishing a separate Republic on the Pacific coast.

It appears to be their plan to secure pledges from persons who will consent to join the league, to be prepared for certain contingencies, as though any possible contingency could justify the arming and drilling of men to support the erection of a Government in this or any State so long as there should remain the shadow of a hope that the Federal Government shall be preserved.

This loyalty deserves not only to be "recorded," but may have a beneficial effect by being pondered by some of the lukewarm in this region. The warning against the insidious approaches of the enemies of the Union, who endeavor to delude and deceive the patriotic, by urging that the Union has gone to pieces before redemption, is timely and expressive.

The disease which has been so epidemic at the South, seems to have been wafted to California. They will apply for arms under a false pretence, to be turned against their country—the traitors!

California is most probably the most loyal State in the Union. She is composed of citizens from every portion of the Union; and when they became citizens of California they renounced all other State connections.

This is "sound," and will be most acceptable to those who were apprehensive that the Golden State might be led off by the folly and madness that precipitated the South into a bargain that her people will bitterly rue for many a day.

Should the Union be divided into two great republics, California and the Pacific coast may see fit to unite her destinies with one or the other; but if the Union be split into fragments, the vast, wealthy and growing country lying west of the Rocky mountains may find it expedient to establish a separate government.

On the last day of January, a speech of considerable power was delivered in the Senate by Henry Edgerton, Esq., who, after examining and thoroughly riddling a secession pamphlet that had been extensively circulated in California, while speaking upon the Union resolutions, eloquently said:

From crude and shifting theories, I turn to the pure, simple, original, bright, immortal idea of popular sovereignty, as it was revealed by the Deity to the fathers of the Republic; as it found expression in the Declaration of Independence; as it received its growth and perfect development in that grandest, divinest outgrowth of the American Revolution, the Constitution of the Union; and as we now propose further to embody it in that great instrument, by a declaration of unmistakable import, that the people of a Territory, like those of a State, while acting in obedience to the high behests of the Constitution, and in the prescribed forms of law, may frame and regulate all their domestic institutions in their own way, and that neither President, nor Cabinet, nor Congress, nor any other power under the Union, shall molest them.

The resolutions pledge the people of California steadfastly to the support of the General Government in the exercise of every constitutional power, to enforce the execution of the Federal laws, and to sustain, in all their integrity, the Constitution and the Union.

Photographing the Dead Heads. A western correspondent of the Railway Review says that on the Chicago and Milwaukee railroad a plan has been adopted which enables conductors to ascertain if the holders of "season passes" and "commutation tickets," who are riding on a train, are the persons to whom they were issued. Photograph portraits about the size of a postage stamp, of the real owner, are pasted upon the ticket, and the conductor can then determine at a glance whether the holder is the person named on the ticket.

Troubles in Honduras.—The troubles between the government and clergy in Honduras have been rapidly taking a dangerous form in that country. The Vicar General of the Metropolitan diocese excommunicated the President and members of his government for introducing heresy through the treaty of cession of the Bay Islands, which guarantees liberty of conscience to all non-Catholics.

California is loyal, and will stand steadily by the Union. She will, in the language of her eloquent Senator, "support the General Government in the exercise of every Constitutional power," even though the necessity should devolve upon it to seize "its own citizens, banded together for treasonable purposes," and "hang them as traitors to their country."

Resignation of Gen. Cameron.

We publish below the letter of Hon. SIMON CAMERON to the Governor of this State, resigning the position of United States Senator, which he has held so long and filled so ably. We can say with truth, and the remark will be universally endorsed by the Republican press, that no State has been more faithfully or more ably represented in the United States Senate, than was the old Keystone by SIMON CAMERON.

Every inch a Pennsylvanian, he has persistently and nobly battled for the interests of his native Commonwealth, and the welfare and prosperity of her toiling sons, never losing sight of his favorite project, the enactment of a Tariff Bill which would amply protect American industry, give constant work and good wages to the workmen of his own State, and at the same time develop our great mineral resources.

Victory finally crowned his efforts, as it will the efforts of every man who, like Gen. CAMERON, "knows no such word as fail." While we regret to lose the services of such a man in the Senate—a wise and sagacious statesman and safe legislator—we cannot refrain from congratulating President LINCOLN upon his good fortune in securing the services of a man for Secretary of War who is so admirably fitted for the position—a man who will be a safe counselor and a true friend—a man who is "conservative" in the true sense of the word, and will do all that is proper, in his position, to maintain the Union and the Constitution and enforce the laws, without infringing upon the Constitutional rights of any section.

We feel safe in predicting that the War Department will be administered with a degree of ability which has never characterized it under any former Administration, and that Gen. CAMERON will make as useful and popular a Cabinet officer as he did a Senator. The following is his letter of resignation:

WASHINGTON, March 11, 1861. To his Excellency Andrew G. Curtin, Governor of Pennsylvania: DEAR SIR:—Having accepted the position of Secretary of War, tendered to me by the President, I hereby resign my seat in the Senate of the United States.

I leave that body with feelings of deep regret, as well because it severs my immediate connection with the people of my native State, as because it removes me from the cherished personal associations of that high and dignified body. But I am consoled by the fact that the change in our Tariff Laws, for which I have labored for more than fifteen years, and which I trust will add greatly to the benefit of Pennsylvania, was accomplished at the close of my Senatorial service.

I beg to say to the Legislature, and to the people of Pennsylvania, that in my new position, which a deference to their earnest wishes induced me reluctantly to accept, my best energies shall be exerted for the benefit of the whole country, of which Pennsylvania forms so important a part.

I am, Sir, very respectfully, Your Obedient Servant, SIMON CAMERON.

Speculations in Oil.

Oil speculators in Pennsylvania and elsewhere do not make such sudden fortunes as was anticipated. Many months ago we ventured an opinion that the chances of success were about equal to those of mercantile pursuits. The Erie Gazette of March 7th has the following:

Many—many might say hundreds—of citizens of Erie county have within the last six months engaged in the oil business, some at Tidiotie, some at Titusville, some at Franklin, some at Mecca, some in Canada, and others in Ohio and Virginia. We may safely presume that several hundred thousand dollars have been taken from Erie county and invested in coal sites, derricks, engines, labor, etc. As yet no adequate returns have been realized for the money and labor expended, and we fear that a large number never will be fully compensated. A few, however, have done well, and this has stimulated their less fortunate neighbors to renewed exertions.

BY TELEGRAPH.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Constitution of the Confederate States as adopted by Congress.

MONROEMERY, ALA., March 12.

The permanent Constitution of the Confederate States having been adopted by Congress, the obligation of secrecy removed, your correspondent is enabled to transmit the main features of that document.

No person of a foreign State and not a citizen of the Confederate States, is allowed to vote for any officer, either civil or political, State or federal. Under the first census South Carolina is entitled to ten representatives in Congress; Georgia to ten representatives; Alabama to nine representatives; Florida to two representatives; Mississippi to two representatives; Louisiana to six representatives; and Texas to six representatives; each State to have two Senators. The State Legislatures may impeach a judicial or federal officer, resident and acting in said State, by a two-thirds vote. Both branches of Congress may grant seats on the floor of either House to the principal officer of each executive department, with the privilege of discussing the measures of his department. The Representative of the United States in any foreign country, or agent, after the contract is made of the service rendered. Every law or resolution having the force of the law, shall relate to but one subject and be expressed by its title. The President and Vice President shall serve for six years. The principal officers of the departments and in the diplomatic service shall be removable at the pleasure of the President, and other civil officers, when their services are unnecessary or for other good cause, and the removal shall be made by the President, and the removal shall be made by the President, and the removal shall be made by the President.

Commodore Stewart Resigns the Senior Flag Captaincy of the Navy.

WASHINGTON, March 12.

Commodore Stewart, just before the close of the late administration, returned to Secretary Foster his commission as Senior Flag Captain of the Navy, dated in 1850, a step which he contemplated shortly after the passage of the act which conferred this mark of distinction. While Commodore Stewart highly appreciated the friendly feelings which superinduced this expression of national esteem, he looked upon it as intended to ameliorate the wrong inflicted upon him by the naval board, and that he should prefer the independence of the Congressional resolve, his declining age and services to his country shall be his best defence.

The Presidential Appointments.

WASHINGTON, March 12.

It is known to be the intention of the President to fill all the vacancies which exist, and which must be filled during the present session of the Senate. Excepting in a few instances, the Presidential appointments will be deferred until this day, and the President's applicants are requested to file their papers in the proper departments.

Republican Victory in Bangor.

Official Visit to the President.

WASHINGTON, March 12.

The officers of the army met at the War Department at noon to-day, and in company with Lieutenant General Scott and Secretary Cameron, proceeded to the White House and formally paid their respects to the President.

Wood's Hair Restorative.

Among all preparations for the hair that have been introduced as infallible, none has ever given the satisfaction or gained the popularity that Wood's Hair Restorative enjoys. It has restored the hair to its natural color, and has cured the most inveterate dandruff, itching, and falling out of the hair. It is a simple, pure, and safe preparation, and is sold by all respectable Druggists.

To Consumptives.

The advertiser, having been restored to health in a few weeks by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection, and that he has been enabled to pursue his usual mode of life, he is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription (free of charge), with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they may find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, &c. The only object of the advertiser in sending the Prescription is to benefit his fellow-sufferers, and he trusts that he will find many who will be benefited by his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and they will be enabled to pursue their usual mode of life.
