HARRISBURG, PA.

Wednesday Atternoon, March 20, 1861.

HON. DAVID WILMOT.

We have already noticed the complimentary serenade with which Hon. Da-VID WILMOT was honored during his late visit to Philadelphia. We allude to the demonstration now for the purpose of introducing the brief and patriotic address delivered by Mr. WILMOT on the occasion. Aware of the responsible duties devolving upon him, he goes to Washing- county assembled, and in Convention reton fully prepared to meet them, and sumed their sovereignty which had been tain the Administration in any peaceful resolved to petition Alabama and Tennesthat he will act in such a way as to susmeans to restore quiet to the country, and at the same time advocate and defend the rights and interests of the North, and of Pennsylvania, no one familiar with his political career can doubt. Mr. Wilmot is one of the representative men of the age, unsurpassed in point of ability, and bama and Tennessee, as provided in said will at once take a leading position in resolution, which we again earnestly rethe Senate, where he will do honor to the State he represents, and add new laurels to those which already encircle his brow. When we say that no State in the Union will be more ably represented in the Senate of the United States, than the old Keystone, we believe we speak the sentiments of every man in the Republican ranks. But we simply desired to introduce Mr. Wilmot's speech, on the occasiion above referred to, which was as fol-

Fellow-citizens—I learned from these friends who are near about me, that this salutation is preferred to me as a mark of public respect.—Permit me, therefore, to express my acknowledgments and most grateful thanks. You will not expect of me any protracted remarks upon this occasion. I am on my way to the Federal Capital for the purpose of entering upon the responsible duties which have been imposed upon me by the partiality of my native State. I shall endeavor to discharge my duty so as to meet with your approbation. [Cheers.]

Fellow-citizens-I have been misunderstood I will not say misrepresented, before the people, touching one subject of deep and vital interest to Pennsylvania. I trust, before the brief period in the Senate which has been allotted to me shall have expired, I shall have vindicated myself in your estimation, and proved myself a true friend to the interests of my native State. [Renewed applause.] I shall endeavor to take in view all the great and endeavor to take in view air the great and manifold interests of this country, and Tshall settern it my especial duty, so far as in me lies, to maintain the interests of this great State. I am, by education and by party association, a Republican, and I point you with pride to the fact that the Republican party in Congress have testified their fidelity to their Congress have testified their fidelity to their principles and their country by the passage of the Morrill Tariff Bill. [Thunders of applause.]

the Mortil Tariff Edil. [Thunders of applause.]
Thus early the party have redeemed their pledges upon this subject. [More applause.]
I go to Washington for the purpose of extending, so far as in me lies, a hearty, consistent, and steadfast support to the Administration in the trying exingencies in which it is placed. [Cheers.] I believe it to be my highest duty, [Cheers.] I believe it to be my nigness and, as I believe it to be the higest duty of every man in the country, to stand by the Government of the country of affairs. [Cries of man in the country, to stand by the corvent ment in this great crisis of affairs. [Cries of "good," "that's so," and cheers.] I don't propose to enter into any discussion upon the four years. [Great cheers.] We are met by an armed rebellion in a portion of the Republic. I believe that the policy of the Administration will be peaceful; that it will exhaust every peaceful means to restore quiet to the country without the employment of force. I believe that to be its true policy. It behoves us, however, to be prepared to meet any emergency that may arise. [Applause.] No man can tell what a day will bring forth, and it is a matter of the highest importance that we give all the aid we can to the Government, thatour social, political and moral institutions—that all the institutions that we value—may be preserved. They can only be preserved by our united and earnest support. I don't intend to enter upon a protracted discussion of public affairs. I intend, so far as in my power, to legislate for the whole country, and not for one portion at the expense of the other. Permit me again to thank you for this compliment, and to bid you a good night.

Mr. Wilmot now retired amid great applause and after the Band had performed several patriotic airs, the crowd dispersed, being well gratified with the remarks and principle, exessed by the eloquent speaker.

SOUTHERN AND NORTHERN OFFICERS -It is complained, and with some justice their due share of public applause. The heroic achievments of an Anderson in ed to their respective States of Kentucky and South Carolina. But we hear nothing of the equally heroic acts of Northern men. For example, Lieutenant A. J. They want their "rights." They are not taxed enough to make them contented. So a few days ago, the citizens of Franklin invested in the State of Tennessee. They see to change the boundary lines between the States, so as to cut Franklin county off from Tennessee and make it hereafter part of Alabama, and resolved: That we declare ourselves out of the Union, subject to be ratified by the States of Alaquest may be early attended to.

THE BENEFITS OF SECESSION .- The people of the seceded States, under the oppressive government of the United States, got their letters by mail for a postage of three cents. The new government dated yesterday, represent that matters there charges them within the Confederacy five cents. All letters going out of the Confederacy, to points within the United States, are thus made to pay eight cents, five to the Confederacy and three to the United States. This is postage reform Hurrah for Secession! The United States charges no duties on exports, and cotton from the Southern States has always been exported free. We have called to the Presidency, by the peaceful operation of our institutions, by a constitutional majority of the people, a President to administer the affairs of this country for the ensuing four years. [Great cheers.] We are met by give them up to any faction, North or South. Looking around upon the large audience at the St. Charles, we recognized the absence of mere poriticians, and the presence of the people in whose hearts live the liveliest recollections o the grand memories of the country of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Jackson. Hence the enthusiasm when the orches tra sounded the notes of the patriotic songs of our patriot song writers.

SECESSION IN ARKANSAS.—The Memphis Bulletin, says a dispatch from Little Rock states that the minority of the Arkansas Convention are determined to have a part of the State out of the Union without delay. The majority of the Convention are for remaining in the Union, and the seceders, baffled and beaten, would tear the State in pieces. It is held by the seceders that they have a majority in western Tennessee, and eastern and southern Arkansas. They propose, therefore, to organize a new State out of the fragments of Tennessee and Arkansas, that northern military officers are denied drag it out of the Union, and make Memphis the Capital. Thus, the "right of secession" runs its course. It would not the army, and of an Ingraham in the only dissever the Union, but the States navy, are duly blazoned forth and credit- themselves, and bring about sectional and civil war. Secession is anarchy.

AFRAID OF THE BALLOT BOX .- The Louisiana Convention has decided that it would be too dangerous an experiment to submit the Constitution of the Confederate States, for their acceptance or rejection, and have accordingly refused to do gent army before it under Chase has melted away. Slemmer has only two officers to share with him the fatigue of watching a large fort. His merits are not by any means less than those of Major Anderson, but Slemmer is a northern man, and that is reason enough in the mind of an old northern soldier to account for the almost entire indifference with which he is treated.

MILTON, Pa., Feb. 1, 1860.

Messrs. G. & C. Merriam—Gentlemen:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt from you, through the Hon. H. C. Hickok, Superintendent of Common Schools in this Commonwealth, of a copy of the Pictorial Edition of Webster's Unabridged Bictionary. For this highly esteemed favor I thank you.

This Edition of Webster's Dictionary is of unsurpassed excellence, and deserves the patronage of every friend of American literature. It should be in every library and school throughout our land. The improvements in this upon the fermer edition, add greatly to its value, and place it first among the Dictionaries of the English language. The noble efforts of the publishers to give to the world such a work, deserve, and should receive, every possible commendation and encouragement.

I am very truly,

Messis. G. & C. Mertham—Gentlemen:—The Pictorial Illustrations with the Table of Synonyms, and namerous other minor, but highly valuable improvements, make this compendious volume the most comprehensive and complete that has yet made its appearance, and leaves nothing more to be desired or hoped for in such a publication. It will of course command universal approval and patronage. Very respectfully, H. C. HICKOK.

FROM THE PERNSTLVANIA SCHOOL JOURNAL, edited by Hon. Thos. H. BUREOWS, State Sup't Public Instruction. These additions form a decided improvement of this standard work. The Pictorial Hillustrations (over 1,500 in number and occupying 82 pages,) are beautifully executed; and illustrate those words which most require representation to the eye. They are chiefly arranged in classes or groups—as the terms of Architecture, Botany, Heraldry, &c.; and these little accurate pictures will be invaluable to the teacher, as models from which he may draw and enlarge on the blackboard. The table of Synonyms (over 60 pages and 2,000 words.) keeps it up with the present date, by incorporating sil those words which have latterly come into the language, either from foreign tongues or the advancement of science, art, and social life amengst ourselves.

The table giving the Promunication of the Names o Bistragaished Persons, and the other adolitons enumerated in the title, are also what they purport to be, and will be found of great utility and interest. Each is conveniently placed in the werk, methodically stranged in itself, and easy of access. They do not mar the original plan—an objection to the very many new editions—but bring it fally up to the wants of the day, and the present state of the language.
