The Baltimore "American," a strong Union paper, reviews the action of the Convention, and then declares that the Commissioners thus appointed do not represent the sentiment of the people of Maryland. We copy the closing re-

It would hardly be reasonable to expect the gentlemen who composed this body to do anything more than they did. They sent delegates with ill-defined powers and duties, and then adjourned. The insurmountable obstacle in their vay all the time, was the fact that no measures that they could consistently propose would express the sentiment of the people of Maryland. If they did not sympathize with South Carolina as the representative of distinction, there was no real occasion for their action. They met to confer upon questions affecting the "policy and interests of Maryland," and the policy and interests of Maryland are not on the side of the extremists, and are not benefitted by the action of conventions. Our policy is to remain quiet and attend to our ordinary business, waiting for some developments that have not yet appeared and which may never appear. We want peace and unity; we desire to keep the States that remain in the Union, and to entice back again the wandering stars that have tried to break away from their natural orbits. If our rights are violated, we are men enough to contend for them, and brave enough to die rather than relinquish them, but we mean to contend, and die, if need be, in the Union.

> PENNSYLVANIA ANTHRACITE IN FRANCE.-We have a curious account about a French nobleman who traveled with Lord Lyons when he visited the coal fields of Pennsylvania, on an invitation of Gen. Cameron. It is said that this gentleman, while traveling over the Reading Road, was pondering over the prodigious quantities of Anthracite coal and its surprising condensed power. He subsequently obtained an American who understood locomotive building, and at the workshops of the Paris and Orleans Railway at Ivry, he had some locomotives made to be driven by Pennsylvania Anthracite. The English coal dealers are taken back, as the Anthracite can be obtained at Ivry for $6 75 per ton. This is certainly important if true, and is only another proof of the immense capabilities of Pennsylvania. Coal is King!
