Peace or War ? The delay in the aggression of the se cessionists and the pause in the action of the Federal administration, have left all sections of the country in a state of per plexity, in which they cannot exist much longer and preserve their equanimity. With all due respect to the administration we now think, with thousands of earnest if properly conducted, in its objects of Republicans, that it is time some definite policy was proclaimed, so that the country may prepare itself for any emergency | High School, will not merely be confined which might grow out of such declaration to the lessons which it is designed to inof design or action. Its design is dom. and purposes, the Union is dissolved, The theory of dissolution was fully established by John C. Calhoun before he died. Its practical realization began six years ago-and now that it has burst upon the country and the world with all its force and fury, it behooves us not to shrink from any of the terrors which i presents, but to meet it boldly, and, if possible, cope with and conquer all the difficulties which it has cast in our way.

For many years, there has been a bitter antipathy growing up between the South and the North. This feeling was produced entirely by jealousy, because under the influence of free labor, one section excelled the other, so immensely in augmented interest and growth, that political, financial and business inferiority stared them in the face as their inevitable doom. The admission of new States with free institutions as the basis of their government, did not assist in allaying this feeling, while the result of the late census has unmistakably fixed the political inferiority and subordination of the slave States. in any union of commonwealths imbued with freedom and free labor. Southern states men understand and appreciate this condition of affairs, and have long since be held their doom in the mighty progress of free labor, and consequent destruction him to them while living. of slavery in North America.

Why is peaceable secession not practilion first showed itself in South Carolina, it was within the power of the federal authorities to have reduced the rebels to subjection—but as the federal govern-ment was then in the hands of those who sympathised with secession, the movement was permitted to go on until it has become was permitted to go on until it has become ed the money for a noble purpose in time cotton States be allowed to remain where over to feel kind and grateful. they are, adrift among the nations of the world, until they discover their own folly, and of their own volition seek again an association in a union with their old friends and neighbors? Such a recognition of peaceable secession would not increase the danger and difficulties by which we are already surrounded, nor would it affect any more than they have been affected, the destiny and development of the free States. In the present juncture, a resort to arms seems utterly impracticable. And yet the complication of affairs seems so completely to perplex those who are without official information on the subject, that we most patiently wait until the wisdom of the administration has devised some plan to rescue the country from its impending ruin.

Dispatches from Major Anderson!

WASHINGTON, April 5. The Gulf Squadron's to be commanded by Captain Stringham. The reasons for the in-crease of the naval forces in that quarter are only conjectural. The extreme caution which characterizes the Administration on this, as well as military subjects, occasions many war like rumors. The Government seems to have come to the determination, in the language of Cabinet officer, to be known only by its acts. Extreme solicitude is everywhere manifested relative to the movements concerning Fort Pickens and Fort Sumter, and the fear is expressed, founded on private despatches from Charleston, indicating the near approach of hostilities, unless the immediate evacuation of Fort Sumter takes place. Information has been received that Lieut. Talbot has left Charleston with important de

THE PEOPLE OF VIRGINIA are daily yielding to the secession feeling. They are as completely impregnated with treason as are the people of South Carolina. They have determined to secess, and for this purpose they have been preparing all their energies. The idea of delay, and the constant appeals of Virginia against co ercion, were only so many stratagems to give the secessors opportunity for consultation and time for united action.
