COMMENDABLE LIBERALITY.—The two Ohio regiments who arrived in this city last Sunday morning left at 3 o'clock this morning for Washington. During their stay here they were furnished with provisions and other essentials free of all cost by Jacob S. Haldeman, Esq., whose liberality in this respect is deserving of the very highest praise, and we opine will not soon be forgotten by the recipients of his munificent bounty. Col. Jno. H. Brant, also exhibited his kindness to the "Back-ey boys" by refusing to make any charge for the quarters furnished to a portion in his spacious hall. The gentlemanly deportment of the soldiers composing these regiments elicited great remark, and they bear with them the best wishes of our citizens.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS. At a meeting held by Company I, of the Ohio Regiment, the following resolution was unanimously adopted: Resolved, By Company I, of the city of Mansfield, Ohio, that we return our thanks to the citizens of Harrisburg, and especially to the ladies, and to Captain Brady, and others in charge of the Capital of State, for their gentlemanly deportment towards us, and for the honor conferred in quartering us in the Senate Chamber of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

RETURN OF TROOPS.—The Cameron Guard and State Capital Guard, in company with the other troops which left here last Saturday night for Baltimore via the Northern Central, were to have returned to this city last night or this morning. They will remain here for a couple of days, and then be detailed for active service at Washington or vicinity.

LIBERTY. The Cameron Guard and State Capital Guard, in company with the other troops which left here last Saturday night for Baltimore via the Northern Central, were to have returned to this city last night or this morning. They will remain here for a couple of days, and then be detailed for active service at Washington or vicinity.

COLD SPRINGS, April 20, 1861. Mr. Editor.—Agreeably to notice the people of Cold Spring township, assembled at Rausch Gap this afternoon, and participated in raising the glorious Stars and Stripes of our country. The ceremony was full of interest, and stirred up in the hearts of the people of these mountains an unalterable attachment to our common country. The material for the flag was purchased by general contribution among the workmen employed by the Schuylkill and Susquehanna Railroad Company, and manufactured by the ladies under the leadership of Mrs. U. R. Tracey.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—The great purpose for which we have assembled here to-day, is of no idle significance. It is not to give vent to any Fourth of July bombast, nor to be entertained with any display of oratorical ability; but my countrymen, the events of the past few months, the particulars of which you are all well acquainted with, joins upon all true American citizens the duty of renewing his pledges of devotion, and eternal allegiance to his country. I will not attempt an analysis of the causes that force this duty upon us, as the task would be superfluous. Sufficient, then, for us all to know that treason of the darkest and most unwholy character is among us. Every breeze that blows from our southern borders, brings us a true index to the emotions of our hearts, the north and west, whose preparations of resistance are already beginning to light up the watch fires of liberty, and from the very depths of our hearts catch up their glad echo, that by all the sacred memories of the past, the prosperity of the present, and eternal hopes of the future, this government must and shall be sustained. I need not ask for an answer from you here to-day. No, for the expressions of your faces are a true index to the emotions of your hearts. I am satisfied every pulsation in union with those brave spirits who are already on their march to wipe out the foul stain that has been perpetrated upon the time-honored emblem of nationality—the flag of this once glorious and unbroken Union. Yes, to our shame be it said, that this great emblem of truth and all that is sacred and dear to a free and prosperous people, has been assailed, not by a foreign enemy, but by those who have heretofore claimed its protection, and enjoyed alike with us all the free and independent government it represents. In view of this unhappy state of our affairs, we purpose here to-day to renew our pledge of devotion to our common country, not by any vain civic or military demonstration, nor as politicians, but as American citizens, looking forward to the general happiness of the entire country, to maintain these stars and stripes, dear to every true, honest heart, and which have ever been the ensign of victory in every battle it was ever thrown forth to the breeze; and while these fair hands shall be able to bear it aloft upon the staff erected here among these mountain cliffs, we will express to the country and the world, that as long as the refreshing winds of Heaven continue to keep it aloft, no hand shall ever disturb it while our arms are able to defend and protect it, like Constantine of old, who, beneath its inspiring folds, and swear by the great power he carried to victory in the past, we will conquer or die.

At the close of the address, U. R. Tracey, Esq., proposed three cheers for D. Carpenter Forney, which was heartily responded to. After offering a few encouraging words to the meeting, he requested the ladies to hoist the flag, which was led off by Mrs. U. R. Tracey, Mrs. Henry W. Tracey, Mrs. A. Haak, Mrs. D. C. Forney, Miss Droude, Miss Rooms, Mrs. Henry Smith, Miss Roadman, and others, and while the flag stretched forth its beautiful folds, cheer after cheer went up from the brave hearts as ever beat in the cause of our Union. The meeting then adjourned to Cold Spring, where Mr. Adam Haak had prepared some refreshments in his usual epicurean style, which, after partaking of, the following resolutions were offered by Henry W. Tracey, Esq., and unanimously adopted: WHEREAS, The treasonable position now occupied by a portion of the citizens of this country is contrary, and in direct violation of the General Constitution, and that it has already avowed a revolutionary purpose: Therefore

Resolved, That the time for argument and compromise is now past, and that it is the duty of every good citizen to help sustain the Government in its efforts to vindicate the Law.

Resolved, That if necessary, we stand ready and willing to pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor to help sustain our lawfully elected President in his efforts to carry out the true intent and purpose of his official position.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the Harrisburg Daily Telegraph and the Lebanon Courier.

Signed, U. R. TRACEY, Pres. D. CARPENTER FORNEY, Sec'y.
