Wednesday Morning, May 1, 1861.

PENNSYLVANIA has spoken, and her potential voice will be heard in every quarter of the distracted Union. Through her Executive she has declared that her path to the beleaguered capital is through Maryland, through Baltimore, and if necessary over the dead bodies of every traitor who attempts to prevent the march of her troops. Such a determination was not dictated by any desire to intimidate or to overawe the people of Maryland. It is not an attempt at coercion or invasion. It is not the assertion of a theory, or the idle boast of a demagogue. It is the voice of the people of a sovereign State, aroused to indignation by treason, rapine and murder, speaking through a fearless Executive. It is the voice of those who are determined to maintain the Union and support the Government. The declaration of the message, that the path to the capital is by the shortest route, and that Pennsylvania will follow that path, peaceably if she can, and forcibly if she must, will be inscribed on the banners of those who are sent through the mobs of Baltimore, that they may know there is a State and a people in this Union called Pennsylvania!

ANOTHER PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATION.—At the shortest notice, a number of the inhabitants of West Hanover assembled recently at Manada Hill for the purpose of erecting a glorious flag of our Union. That being accomplished, the meeting was called to order by appointing Dr. J. Andrews and Wm. Hellman, Esq., as Chairmen, and D. H. Eckert and C. B. Landis Vice Presidents, and J. H. Backerstown and Dr. A. M. Vandervalle as Secretaries. Jacob Corpman, Esq., was called upon to address the meeting, which he did in an eloquent manner, and was loudly cheered. Sergeant James Corbett was then called upon, who responded to the call with his usual eloquence. He stated that he would first offer some resolutions for their consideration, which he read as follows:

Resolved, That we recommend to the General Government that any persons having resigned their commissions in the army or navy of the United States since the so-called secession of several States of the Union, or that any person who may hereafter resign during our difficulties with the South, shall be immediately taken into custody and kept in such manner by the President of the United States as to prevent them from assisting the rebel army. And further, let it be recommended to Congress, meeting on the fourth of July next, to pass a law providing that any person resigning their commission shall be totally disqualified from holding any commission or appointment under the government of the United States during their lifetime.

And be it further recommended, That the Legislature which is about to meet at Harrisburg shall pass a law that if any person now in commission as a militia officer, or who may hereafter be elected to such office, shall neglect or refuse to act in such office, or resign such office while our difficulties with the South shall continue, every such person shall be incapable of holding any office of honor, profit or trust in the State of Pennsylvania forever thereafter.

Provided, however, That if any person so elected should consider himself incapable of serving in such office, and it should be found so by a Board of Military Officers appointed for that purpose by the Governor of Pennsylvania, then such person may be excused from serving in such office without incurring the above penalty.

The above resolutions and recommendations were passed unanimously, amid loud cheering. Dr. J. Andrews was next called upon to address the meeting, which he did in that eloquent and masterly style for which he is so conspicuous. In the short address by Sergeant J. Corbett, he stated that the flag-raising and cheering was now past; that action was required, and that all persons present willing to serve their country, should form themselves in line. At this call forty-five responded by declaring themselves willing to defend their country's rights. It was then suggested to Sergeant Corbett that the effigy of the traitors Arnold, Davis and Twiggs, should be burned, which was immediately done by our patriotic friend A. N. Boyer, amid tremendous cheers. It was then resolved that the proceedings should be published in all the newspapers of Harrisburg, and that all others friendly to the cause should pass them along. Finally the meeting adjourned by giving three cheers for the patriotic entertainment given by A. L. Rhoads, Esq.

SERIOUS AFFAIR.—Last evening a corporal's guard armed with muskets and bayonets, sent from "Camp Curtin" to the city on some duty, became intoxicated, and while in this state entered the Fifth Ward Hotel, kept by Mr. John Raymond, where they got into a dispute with the proprietor and some of our citizens, which terminated in the guard making use of their bayonets, and seriously wounding Mr. Isaac Maguire and some other men. Mr. Raymond defended himself with a chair, and with it severely injured one of his assailants. The noise of the affray soon brought to the scene a number of citizens, who succeeded in disarming the guard and marching them off to the camp, where they were put under close arrest.

Subsequently officer Fleck repaired to the camp, and in company with a file of men, brought three of the rioters, identified as the principal assailants, to the city, and lodged them in prison, to await the action of the civil authorities.

CAMP SCOTT CORRESPONDENCE.

CAMP SCOTT, NEAR YORK, PA., April 30, 1861.

Messrs. Editors:—I would have written to you before this, but the camp duties devolving upon me took so much of my time that I had to postpone it until now. The two companies from Harrisburg have been getting along as well as could be expected, and but little or no sickness has occurred among any of the men. The company to which I am attached, (State Capital Guards, company I, Second Regiment,) has had a few on the sick list, but none of them were so bad as to be compelled to go to the hospital. The quarters which we are now in are quite comfortable, and the only inconvenience we experience is in the blankets that have been furnished us; they are a poor, miserable thing that a man can see through, and in the morning when the men get up they look as if they had just come from a bag of hair. We hope the Government will furnish us with a decent article.

Since our arrival here we have been the recipients of many little kindnesses from the citizens of Harrisburg, and our members request me to return thanks through you. The most precious gift we have received was a splendid flag, presented by Mrs. Marion Verbeke. At the presentation the following note was read, coming from the donor:

Soldiers of the State Capital Guard:
I present to you the Flag of our country, to be borne by you through fire and blood, and death, in defence of that Constitution and Union under which we have lived so long in peace, prosperity and happiness, and which, by the blessing of our Heavenly Father, shall be transmitted unimpaired and unshaken to our children and our children's children. May the God of our fathers, who led them, be with you to bless you to the noble cause which you so nobly espouse; and when peace again smiles upon our beloved country, and this flag, which shall receive your kindly protection, shall be brought back by you, may not one stripe be torn from its sacred folds, or one star be blotted out.

Three times three were given for the donor, and the men gathered around their standard, and expressed their determination that so long as they had arms to strike its folds should not be dishonored.

MARIAN VERBEKE.
To Mr. John Kepple and to Mr. Wm. Duncan, each for a box of cigars, our men wish to return thanks, and to the noble ladies of Harrisburg for the little sewing bags, each man in particular, wishes to return his thanks.

Camp Scott, at present, contains about five thousand soldiers, the whole under the command of Gen. George C. Wynkoop. I hear this morning that the First Regiment has been ordered off some say to Philadelphia, but as all our movements are so uncertain, it is hard to tell where they are going to. The First Regiment are all uniformed and equipped, with the exception of knapsacks. The "Cameron Guard" are in the first.

Among the seventy-four men who left Harrisburg with our company, four proved their cowardice by desertion. Their names are William Henderson, of Middletown, William Robinson, John Mullin and Thomas Curran, the latter from Pottsville. Orders have been sent to Harrisburg for their arrest, and should they be apprehended they will undoubtedly have their heads shaved and drummed out of the army.

CAMP SLIVER.—There are now two regiments of Pennsylvania Volunteers in "Camp Sliver," at Chambersburg, under the command of Brig. Gen. E. C. Williams, of this city. We learn that the men generally are in excellent health and spirits, and under the strict military discipline enforced by the General commanding, are rapidly acquiring the instruction necessary to fit them for service in the field.

The following General Order was issued by Gen. Williams, last Friday:

GENERAL ORDER NO. 2.

HEAD QUARTERS, CAMP SLIVER, }
Near Chambersburg, April 26, 1861.

The General commanding desires to impress upon the Officers and men the great responsibility now resting upon them and the stern duty before them.

You now compose the Second Brigade of the gallant Pennsylvania Volunteers who have left their homes, families, friends and freely offer their lives upon the altar of our country. The Constitution and Union of these States must be sustained, or our liberty will be lost and we become slaves to anarchy and despotism. No holier purpose ever marshaled men on the field. The names of martyrs in such a cause will live forever green in the memory of future generations. No more inviting field was ever offered for distinction to the patriotic and ambitious officer and soldier. You may be called upon to face the enemy and meet death, you will be called upon to endure hardship and trials; but the heroic deeds of your forefathers should encourage you to emulate their example. Obedience is the first duty of a soldier. Discipline is essential to the efficiency and strength of an army, and it is therefore imperative upon officers and men to obey all orders promptly and cheerfully, and, by constant practice, secure the proficiency requisite for perfect operations in the field. It should be the pride of every officer and man in the Brigade to become perfect, and thus reflect credit upon yourselves as soldiers and citizens of the great State whose honor you represent; you are therefore urged to diligence and energy in attending to your duties, and thus prepare yourselves for the responsibilities imposed by the contest in which you are engaged. Your duties at present will be more arduous until you attain the desired proficiency, when they will become a pleasure. It is the desire of the General commanding to point to the officers and men of his command as an evidence of what can be accomplished by strict obedience, constant practice, and cheerful devotion to duty. He will take pleasure in referring to you as the most efficient, and best disciplined of the Brigades of Pennsylvania Volunteers now organized.

E. C. WILLIAMS,
Brig. Gen. Com.

J. J. PATTERSON, Aid de Camp.

The sinking of the steam frigate Merrimack at Annapolis is accounted for by the statement that, in consequence of insubordination on board, it was impossible to get her to sea, and that she was consequently burned at Norfolk with other vessels.

The Norfolk Day Book says that Gov. Letcher, of Virginia, has found it necessary to issue a proclamation, requesting the "Southern" troops not to rush so impetuously to arms, but to remain at home until called out by authority.

ACKNOWLEDGED.—The "Verbeke" and "Lochiel Greys," of this city, yesterday received notice that their services would be accepted for part of the additional requisition from this State. The news gratified the "boys" exceedingly, and caused an increased activity about their "head-quarters." The "Rifles" will perhaps be sworn into the service of the United States this morning, by Capt. Simmons, and will then be directed to join "Camp Curtin."

The "Greys" are to be sworn into the United States service some time to-day, and we presume will also be attached to "Camp Curtin." The following are the names of the officers of this fine company, elected yesterday morning: Captain, Henry McCormick; First Lieutenant, Wm. F. Jennings; Second Lieutenant, George Fisher.

HON. EMERSON ESTERHILD, of Tennessee, appears to be still a sound and brave outspoken Union man—at least the Memphis papers denote him "bitterly," and declare that he should be arrested.

THE STEAMERS AND STRIPES.—Young America's enthusiasm was well displayed yesterday afternoon at the raising of a beautiful flag on the Mulberry Street School House, by the scholars of the different schools in the South Ward District. It was an incident which will long be remembered.

At 2½ o'clock the Directors, parents and pupils assembled in one of the rooms of the building, where the following exercises took place:

1. "Yankee Doodle," by the schools.
2. Address by Master John Wallover.
3. "Hail Columbia," by the schools.
4. Address by Master Robert Cunningham.
5. "Star Spangled Banner," by the schools.
6. Address by Master John Patterson.
7. "E. Pluribus Unum," by the schools.
8. Address by Master John Pugh.

At the close, Hon. Val. Hummel, one of the members of the Board of School Directors, made a few brief remarks, giving the origin of the "Stars and Stripes," and showing how great the privileges the rising generation enjoy. He alluded to the enthusiasm manifested at the present time, when traitors dared insult that glorious flag, and knew that soon it would be unfurled in those sections of our unhappy country where it had been trailed in the dust. He closed by proposing three cheers for our National Ensign and three for our country, which were given with a hearty good will.

The scholars then dispersed to the outside of the building, and while the song "Red, White and Blue," was being sung by the schools the Stars and Stripes were hoisted to their place on the cupola. Nine cheers were then given by the vast assemblage.

The young ladies of Miss Woodward's school, in State street, have also evidenced their patriotism in the manufacture of a beautiful flag, which was raised over that school-house last evening in the presence of seven or eight hundred spectators. The pupils sang "Hail Columbia" and other patriotic odes, and Rev. Mr. Hay and T. C. McDowell delivered appropriate addresses on the occasion.

MEETING OF THE HOME GUARD OF THE FOURTH WARD.—A large and respectable meeting of the citizens of the Fourth ward met at the Baptist Church, Second and Pine streets, last evening. Major John McLaughlin was called to the chair, and Thomas H. Wilson was appointed secretary of the meeting. After the calling of the roll, and a large number not heretofore enrolled signing their names, a committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws for the permanent organization of the company, after which the meeting adjourned to meet at the hotel of James Morgan, Second and Pine streets, Wednesday evening, the first of May, at 7½ o'clock. At that time, officers for the permanent organization will be elected.

BALTIMORE CITY.—We are permitted to publish the following extract from a private letter written by a gentleman of Baltimore to a friend in this city:

"We hope Pennsylvania will not think because an infernal, cowardly secession mob and crowd of rascals outraged humanity, Christianity and patriotism, as was the case here on last Friday week, that there are no Union men here, as such is not the case, as the ballot-box will tell if we ever get a vote on the question. As it seems by Wednesday's vote for secession Democratic delegates, without any opposition at all, there were only 19,200 votes polled out of 81,000 last fall, only a majority of 21,800 against them—you'll hear a different report from Baltimore soon."

THE EXTENT OF THE CITY.—By the report of Hoather Hage, Esq., Chief Engineer of the Commissioners to survey and prepare a map of the city, we learn that there is an available area for building purposes within the city limits east of the Susquehanna river of one thousand two hundred and fifty-seven and four-tenths acres, exclusive of the island of Gen. John Froster, which is also suitable for building purposes, and which contains fourteen and six-tenths acres.

The "El Pegaso,"—Not the least of the objects of interest at "Camp Curtin" is the brass six pound cannon—the El Pegaso—captured at the battle of Cerra Gordo, April 19th 1847 by the American army under the command of Gen. Scott, and presented to the State by Maj. Gen. Patterson. It is a beautiful piece; and if an occasion presents itself will do good service against Southern rebels.

DELIQUENT.—Geo. S. McCall, elected Colonel of the Tenth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, declined that position yesterday. A new election was held, when S. A. Meredith, the former Major of the regiment, was elected Colonel, and Capt. Richard White elected Quartermaster of the regiment.

SLIDING SCALE.—BALTIMORE BAKING DOWN.—Baltimore flour was sold largely in Philadelphia on Friday last at 16 cent discount; on Saturday at 10, 8 and 7, and yesterday down to 3! This movement in the financial termometer indicates a bracing change in the temperature of the Monumental City.

VERY CARELESS.—The men stationed by the city as sentinels at the reservoir are very careless in handling their muskets. The grounds around are thoroughfares to Camp Curtin, and the neglect to keep the muzzles of their guns elevated, may result in an accidental discharge and the probable injuring of some passer-by.

UNION BREVETTES, Note Paper and Badges can be had at Bergner's Book Store.

PRESENTATION.—Hon. E. W. Davis, Speaker of the House of Representatives, was this morning made the recipient of a handsome and costly ivory gavel, the gift of E. H. Rauch, Esq., Chief Clerk of the House. The presentation was made with due formality, speeches being made by both parties. It was altogether quite an interesting incident.

THE FOLLOWING NOTICE was discovered this morning pasted on the door of the coal office of Mr. John W. Hall, in Market street:

"SPECIAL NOTICE!
Mr. Jno. W. Hall: Sir, This will give you notice to unfurl from your office with twenty-four hours the American flag with thirteen stripes and thirty-four stars, or bear the consequences. VIOLATION."
The following letter was handed us this morning for publication, in reply to the above notice:

Editor of Harrisburg Telegraph:
Sir: On visiting my office this morning, I was surprised to find the enclosed notice affixed to the door, (placed there by some irresponsible person I have no doubt.) If any member of the Vigilance Committee or the Committee of Public Safety doubt my loyalty to the FLAG OF MY COUNTRY, and wishes to find out my sentiments, he can do so by calling on me personally, and while I am perfectly willing to display the flag from my place of business, as it now is from my dwelling, I have only to say that the notice alluded to will not receive the slightest attention from me.

Yours, respectfully,
JOHN W. HALL.

OVER THE PRISON.—The Star Spangled Banner has been raised over the turret of the county prison, giving that usually sombre-looking structure quite a cheerful appearance.

A large and handsome flag has also been raised over the belfry of the German Reformed church.

A TRUE AMERICAN.—Go where we may, at home or abroad,—on the sea or on the land,—wherever the broad folds of our national flag, standing beneath his sky kindle and beam above him, as he gazes on the proud emblem floating above him, and if at such a moment violence be offered, either rightfully or wrongfully, to him or to it, his arm is nerved for the defence with tenfold vigor and strength. The moralist who can sit calmly down to analyze the sentiment which is thus manifested, may discover something of error mixed up with what is commendable, but so long as it forms the same part of our nature with patriotism and love of country, it can not well be separated. If it be dangerous to arouse it, it is far more so to trifle with or insult it with impunity. This sentiment, or emotion, if, as become a fixed and abiding principle in the hearts of our fellow citizens, and has been fully exhibited for the last two or three weeks, in the crowds flocking to URTON & BOWMAN'S cheap store, to purchase red, white and blue Ribbon and other material for emblems of liberty.
