The Cabinet of President Lincoln. There seems to be a hearty concurrence o opinion and action between the constitutional advisers of President Lincoln. They have fully come up alike to the public peril and to the public expectation. Mr. Seward long since appreciated his position, and antic pated the future in which we now live. He admonished future in which we now live. He admonished foreign governments that under no circumstances would the present Administration maintain relations with any nation recognizing the Southern Confederacy, and his published letter to Mr. Dayten, our new Minister to France, is a chart by which none can be led astray. Secretary Chase has brought to the Treasury, that came to him after the spoliation of Cobb dishonored and discredited, a genius astray. Secretary Chase has brought to an Treasury, that came to him after the spoliation of Cobb dishonored and discredited, a genius weight of Field Pieces and Ammunition must and a courage that have elevated it in the confidence of our people and the world. Mr. Cameron has taken the War Department, left to him by Floyd a reeking corpse of corruption, and breathed into it a life and energy that re-call the best recollections of the War Ministers of the great nations of the world. The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Wells, sensible of the great truth expressed by Mr. Everett in his last speech, "that no nation can ever wage war without a navy," is at his post directing the vast preparations for increasing our navy, so as to make it equal to the demands upon it in our own waters and in distant seas. The Postmaster General, Mr. Blair, and the Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Smith, having less to do with the immediate war operations of the administration, vigorously direct the vast internal affairs in their hands, so as to render the policy of the administration efficient to back the friends and damage the foes of the republic. The Attorney General, Mr. Bates, has already shown his zeal in the good cause and his judgment and experience as a thorough constitutional lawyer. Thus, it will be seen, that the President is well and willingly maintained by his Cabinet. The crisis has developed the best qualities of his advisers. It has extinguished all divisions and rivalries, and the cause of the country has clothed them with the panoply of the country's confidence and the elevated hope of inevitable triumph. - Washington City Sunday Morning Chro

To Good to BE TRUE.-Important news reaches us from the Texas frontier and Northwestern Louisiana, indicating that the rebel of that region are experiencing an unexpected 'fire in the rear," which, if true, is likely to prove anything but agreeable. It is stated by the New Orleans papers of Saturday and Sunday last, that Captain Montgomery, so well known in connection with the Kansas troubles. has organized a force of three thousand men in that State, made a descent on the Texas fron tier, and already captured Fort Washita, which had previously fallen into the hands of the reb-Forts Cobb and Arbuckle were also expected to be occupied by Montgomery, in pur-suance of instructions from the War Department, through Major Emory, of the Regular Army. The Texans in that region were thrown into the greatest state of consternation by this sudden and unexpected movement, and were wildly calling for arms and money to organize a defence against expected incursions from Montgomery and his men, in connection with the unfriendly Indians. Expresses were sent off in every direction for aid, and a number of citizens of Shreveport, La., had written to Gov. Moore of that State, asking him to interfere for their protection, and if necessary telegraph for arms to the Montgomery Government.

Washington, May 23. The Virginians are voting on Secession today, and of course there is little or no opposition to it in this neighborhood. The military at Alexandria voted; yesterday The result was 138 for ratifying the ordinance 2 against it, and 4 refused to vote. If this is the whole military vote; the rebol force at Alexandria is not very formidable. The Secretary of War has accepted three regiments from Pennsylvania above her quota They are the 12th, 13th and 16th.

The Government declines to accept a regiment of Indians from Michigan, offered by George Copway.

The President declared, this morning, to a prominent gentleman who had an interview with him, that there would be no invasion of the rebel States before next autumn. By that time the army will be in perfect condition and discipline, and well supplied in every respect.

The New York Thirteenth Regiment now at Annapolis, go to Fortress Monroe to-day. Senator Foote, of Vermont, is pressing the War Department to accept two more regiments there is in full operation. THIRD DISPATCH.

Washington, May 23.

A letter from Virginia states that there are between 50,000 and 60,000 men under arms in that State. They are chiefly posted at Richmond, Norfolk and Harper's Ferry, or within hailing distance of those points.

It is also stated that private advices confirm the report of a large arrival of arms at the South from abroad. These were shipped from Europe early in April, and consist of over 200, 000 muskets and rifles, and ample supplies of powder and percussion caps, and machines for making the latter article.

A private company has been organized at Alexandria, Virginia, to convey letters to the North, as after next week all letters destined for the North will lie over at that city. All mail intercourse with points north of Virginia will cease on the first of June. The Post office Department has as yet taken no action in view of the contemplated southern independent mail arrangements.

The appearances indicate that separate offers for bonds or treasury notes, and alternative He has made a selection of one hundred offers for the former at current rates, and for tall, fleet Indians, whom he proposes to use as the latter ar par, will exceed the nine millions called for. The desirableness and importance Virginia. They are not to be armed, except so of this result creates some solicitude that it far as is necessary for self-defence, but from may not fail of being realized. may not fail of being realized.

Much speculation is indulged in as to the movements of troops for active service; but those who, it is presumed, are best acquainted with such matters, say that no invalion into the heart of any State is now contemplated, and that the operations will be principally confined to the recapture of the public property, in the maintenance of the defensive works still in the mossession of the United States.
