ALARM ON THE PENNSYLVANIA BORDER.

Fears of an Invasion by the Rebels.

Advices received in this city last evening by private telegraphic despatches, represent the public feeling to be greatly ex ind in Western Virginia. The rebels had made their appearance in the neighborhood of Cumberland in a force amounting to about one thousand, which was acting in divisions as scouting and foraging parties, and doing great damage to property as well as menacing life wherever any opposition was offered to their progress.

Along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, in the vicinity of the great bend on that road near Appointment of Consuls. Williamsport, great alarm also prevails among the people, and fears are entertained that, unless a force is sent to meet toese maurauding The threacherous rebels are still active in parties, their incursions will extend into Penn-
