PROVOST MARSHAL

The officer recently appointed, under the authority of the General government, to head the police force of the city of Baltimore, is termed a Provost Marshal, and both the title and the appointment are daily discussed by our monumental cotemporaries. One of them brings forward a list of lexicographers, to assist in defining the title, and says that a Provost Marshal, as Worcester informs us by copying from a glossary of military terms, is "an officer of the English army, whose duties are to take steps for the prosecution of crime and of- and courtesy by every one. fences against military discipline; to seize and secure deserters, to punish marauders, &c; to take charge of prisoners and superintend the execution of punishments." It is said, also, that he is an officer of the English navy, who has charge of prisoners at a court martial, and to hold them in custody afterwards till the sentence of the court martial is executed.

The definition of Webster is more general in its application than that of Worcester, and extends the use of the term to civil life. A Provost Marshal, says Webster, "in a general sense, is a person who is appointed to superintend or preside over comething; the chief magistrate of a city or town, as the Provost of Edinburg or Glasgow, answering to the Mayor of other cities; the Provost of a college, answering to President. In France, formerly, a the Vice President at 12 o'clock. Provost was an inferior judge who had cognizance of civil causes. The Grand Provost of Anthony, Bayard, Bingham, Breckinridge, France, or of the household, had jurisdiction Bright, Chandler, Clark, Collamer, Cowan, in the King's house and over its officers. He also regulates weights and meas- and Wilson. ures. He has under him a lieutenant, a clerk, executioner." &c.

The term Provost, prapositus, is an officer placed before or over certain relations for their control and managment. It applies to all the tials of S. C. Col. This regiment will contain twelve batteries, and be otherwise equipped and armed in the most efficient and effective manner for attack and defence. We can also bear testimony to the personal and chivalric character of Col. Sherman, who is known in the army not only as a brave and gallant officer, but as a gentleman, whose care for his men is as vigilant as his desire to have proper time present a question of privilege in them comport themselves in all respects as good soldiers.

The organization of the regiment will be in the following order:

JEFF. DAVIS WILLING TO COMPROMISE.

ETHERIDGE ELECTED CLERK.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, July 4. The assembling of the War Congress has attracted an immense number of strangers here from all the States still in the Union. Early in the foremon, as soon as the grand military display, mentioned in another despatch, was over, members of Congress and others began to throng towards the Capitol.

The few members understood to approve of secession, walked thither unaccompanied by Union men. They were the observed of all the observers, but were treated with respect

Mr. Vallandigham, the Breckinridge Demo cratic member from Ohio, declares that there are twenty five members of the House who will vote against all appropriations for the army He himself will vote for money and means for the defense of the Capital, but not to carry on war against the Southern States, as he knows that Jeff. Davis is willing to make a compromise and remain in the Union.

The scene in the Capitol during the forenoon was most animated. All the galleries, halls and corridors were crowded to excess, there being a large proportion of the fair sex in the multitude.

Mr. Vallandigham thought an appeal from the clerk would have the proper effect.

Mr. Stevens, in nominating Hon. G. A. Grow, of Pa., for Speaker, said he would not follow the bad taste of his colleague, Mr. Hickagainst his opponent. [Laughter.]

Mr. Curris, in alluding to Mr. Vallandigham's question of privilege, said he was elected by the people of Iowa as member of Congress; he was also elected a colonel of a volunteer regiment of that State, and for these marks of confidence his constituents were responsible.

The House then proceeded to vote for speaker There being no choice, Mr. Blair said it was unnecessary to have another vote as this would cause delay in the organization, he begging leave to decline being a candidate and requested his friends to change their votes on this ballot in order to an election at once. Votes were then changed from Blair to Grow and the following was announced as the result:

Before the result was announced, he said he had a remark to make similar to Mr. Blair. He would not be a candidate any longer. [Excessive laughter.] This was owing to his having received one vote from the partiality of a Clerk.

On motion, it was resolved that all whose names have been objected to be passed over until the residue of the members have been sworn, and also those whose seats are contested.

The members were then sworn in, as their names were called, by delegations. Mr. Burnert, (Kentucky) offered a resolution that the question of right to seats by the five gentlemen from Virginia, Messrs. Upton, Pendleton, Brown, Carlisle and Whaley, be referred to the Committee on Elections, after the latter shall be appointed. He said it was not his purpose to offer any factious opposition, but he deemed it a duty to offer such a reference. It involved a question of the gravest of five be ordered thereon. character.

Mr. Morril (Vt.) rose to a point of order that the House, being in an execution of an to act jointly with one from the Senate to wait ment, and one is represented as having drawn overruled.

Mr. STEVENS (Pa.) rose to a point of order, viz: te pleased to make. that the gentleman from Kentucky should first call for a certificate and then proceed in the which was adopted to inform the Senate that proper order.

Virginia, Mr. Upron, confessed that he was inelligible to a seat in the House. Mr. Carlile, (Va.) said he did not wish any portion of his State to fail of representation from any objection urged against any other portion. He was regularly elected on the 4th Thursday of May, by a large majority, and the only question in his case was whether the convention of Virginia had any right to annul a solemn law of the State. The law authorizing a convention expressly declared that acts of convention have no authority unless ratified by the people. In the course of his remarks he said he believed no party in any State, either by convention or otherwise, could absolve the allegiance they owe to their government formed for them by their fathers.

His remarks were hailed with deafening ap plause by the galleries.

Mr. VALLANDIGHAM, (Ohio,) said on the next demonstration such disorder he should insist on the order of House being executed.

Mr. CARLILE resuming, characterized the ac tion of the eastern portion of Virginia as gross tyranny and declared that those of western Virginia were determined to uphold the Union under which we have grown and prospered beyond all other precedents; therefore they desire in the Nation's capital that their voices should be heard on everything pertaining to the organization of the House.

Mr. Lovejoy, (III.) moved the previous ques tion on the resolution. Mr. Burnerr, (Ky.,) demanded the yeas an nays, but they were not ordered. On motion of Mr. McCLERNAND, (Ill.) the reso lution was tabled.

The Virginia delegation was then sworn in as vere also the delegations from the other States.
