When the Fourth Pennsylvania regiment arrived in Harrisburg, immediately after the battle of Bull Run...

On this subject, we have higher authority than any we could heretofore furnish...

On the eve of the battle the Fourth Pennsylvania regiment of volunteers and the battery of volunteer artillery of the New York Eighth militia...

After such testimony, we submit the case of the cowardice of the men of the Fourth Regiment to the people of Pennsylvania...

As the matter stands now, the officers and men of the Fourth Regiment are bound to explain, or suffer the dreadful suspicion that rests upon their reputation...

We ask the attention of the reader to the report in full of Gen. McDowell. It is an interesting and important document...

THE PATRIOT AND THE PAYMASTER.

The editors of the Patriot this morning indulged in their usual train and tissue of falsehoods, to escape the responsibility of their misrepresentations...

We leave the public to judge the motives of Messrs. Barrett & McDowell in this business, as they have heretofore judged and condemned their course on the subject of our relations to the rebellion in the south.

when public opinion beat down and crushed out that cowardly attempt, they exhibited their envenomed motive, and strike in another direction with the same malice...

THE REPUBLICANS OF NEW YORK. The Republican State Convention of New York, at a recent meeting of that body in Albany, passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to wait upon the Democratic State Committee at their meeting to be held in this city...

At present we can only commend the spirit which dictated this proposition, as being that patriotic character which has distinguished the organization, contests, triumphs and administration of the Republican party...

The above paragraphs were written and intended to have been published yesterday, but they were crowded out by a press of other matter...

FORTRESS MONROE, Aug. 9.

The village of Hampton has been burned by Gen. Magruder in his advance with the rebel forces.

Scouts and fugitives yesterday morning brought word of the approach of a large Confederate force from Yorktown.

Mr. Breckinridge enquired why they were present if they did not desire to hear him. Cheering, followed by hisses, drowned his voice.

Mr. Breckinridge speaking amid the din said, that "those who interrupted him with opprobrious epithets and with hisses were poor fellows who were tightening the degrading fetters which bound them."

Mr. Breckinridge. "You poor fellows may hiss me now, but your children will bless me. A voice—A voice!"

Mr. Breckinridge. "I feel personally responsible for the poor fellows so rudely treated. I grieve to think any one should be hurt on my side."
