

Daily Telegraph

HARRISBURG, PA.

Tuesday Afternoon, August 27, 1861.

THE CITY SURVEY.—At Court yesterday, in the matter of the report of the Commissioners appointed to survey and lay out streets, &c., in the city of Harrisburg, on motion of Jno. C. Kunkel, Esq., the time for filing exceptions to said report was extended to the 3d day of September next.

THE SENSATIONISTS, Carson, Kelly and Peggrem, who were arrested in this city last Wednesday, had a further hearing before United States Commissioner Haefel in Philadelphia last Saturday, and will, it is said, on taking the oath of allegiance, be discharged. Carson owns and occupies the old residence of President Madison in Virginia. Kelly is Carson's traveling agent, and the letters in his possession detailed private bank business.

THE MAYOR is almost daily in the receipt of anonymous communications referring to certain violations of the law, the existence of nuisances, or some other evils which the writers desire to have remedied by magisterial interferences. Of course the Mayor can pay no attention whatever to these appeals, however defensible of attention some of them may be. His duties as a magistrate is plainly marked out by the law, and he can only act in the premises when the proper information is made to him under the oath or affirmation of the party aggrieved.

LIGHTS OF BIRDS.—We refer sportsmen to the following provisions of an Act passed for the protection of the birds, on the 14th of April, 1859: Any person destroying or entrapping any blue bird, swallow, martin, or insectivorous bird, at any season of the year, is liable to a fine of two dollars in each case. Pheasants are protected from the 1st of January to the 1st of September. Woodcock from the date first mentioned to the 4th of July, and partridges and rabbits from the same date until the 1st of October; the penalty in the above cases being five dollars. Rail and Reed birds have been an annual sum of five dollars, and those guilty of destroying the nests or eggs of the birds mentioned, will upon conviction be fined two dollars in each case.

A NEW VEGETABLE.—There has lately been exhibited at several meetings of the Royal Horticultural Society, a new vegetable, which promises to become a permanent institution among kitchen garden crops. It is a cabbage in the form of the Brussels sprouts. The stem is about a foot high, bearing on its summit a good sized hearted cabbage of the ordinary character; but the stem is covered with small cabbages about the size of a small dessert apple, and these when cooked form an excellent dish, partake of the flavor of a nice summer cabbage, and without the strong Savoy flavor which distinguishes the Brussels sprouts. The merit of producing this variety is due to Mr. Wm. Melville, Dalmeiny Park Gardens, near Edinburgh, and a very good name to distinguish it would be to call it the Dalmeiny sprout.

POLICE—Before the Mayor.—John Dugle—a rough-hewed vagrant, whose dilapidated garments looked for all the world as if they had previously done duty as a "scare-crow" in a corn field—was arraigned for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. John had evidently been imbibing fighting whisky, and felt numerous enough to lick all creation. He was sent across the way for 48 hours.

James Shouder—another hard looking "drunk"—answered the roll call. James was more reserved in his manners, and being on his "first appearance," the Mayor discharged him with an injunction to leave the city forthwith.

John Cole and Ben Smith were arrested on a telegraphic dispatch from the authorities at Carlisle. The charge against them was of no serious nature, and upon a conference with the plaintiff they were discharged.

There is something devilish in the curiosity man has to gaze on accident and death. Let it be known that somebody has been drowned, and crowds will rush to the spot, breathless, lest they should arrive too late to see the appalling spectacle of death. They do not come there for the sake of rendering assistance; it is but for the curiosity of seeing a drowned human being, and that they may gossip about it to all their friends. The declining or decaying politician understands this principle, or weakness. He does not stand up in his place and abuse and traduce honest men because he believes he can or may injure them. Nor does he conceal his own short-comings, by pointing to one of his fellows, and insinuating that if one of his world only knew what some people had done, how indignant he is in his last gasps. He finds the current is too strong for him; he must go down, and he dreads to sink unless somebody is aware of his fate, fearful that he may not be gazed upon after the final throes. Whatever may be the morbid appetite of folks to look upon death, there are no well authenticated instances of political tricksters causing such a sensation. They wallow, and grovel, and mire, and lie, and around a defunct hog only birds of foul appetites assemble. So, impudent, brazen place-man, seek no longer to create the curiosity which a drowned body excites. The crowds who saw your name on the dead walls long ago, remember you by your shuffling. The unscrupulous who aid gave you notoriety and position, have had the film removed from their eyes, and care not now to have it gazing over your forehead. The fact that they were the subject of deceit is painful enough, without the additional disgust of witnessing the close of a miserable and hypocritical career. Wherefore specious declamation. Every effort must fail. Like every other time-server, you must, in the course of things, become of no consequence whatever. No crown would hold his quest on a mass of refuse!

DISCIPLINE IN THE ARMY.—He who is intrusted with the reins of the first element of the true soldier's character. He is worthless, and worse than worthless in an army, because he cannot be made a consistent and organic part of the army. He may be brave—he may be a perfect fury in a fight; but it will only be by accident if his valor so conspires with that of his comrades as to help them. The army is better without him. For the integrity and reliability of the army, the sooner every such man in it is discharged, or is killed, the better.

One of the worst dangers in our grand volunteer army is, that the soldiers will not soon enough be conscious of the value and necessity of thorough discipline, and that the officers will not have the nerve to enforce it. Courage, enthusiasm, determination, every element of energy, they have in abundance. But such energy undisciplined is like that of an accidentally exploding magazine, as likely, at least, to do harm as to do good. Only by discipline can it be like the powder beneath the bullet, in a well aimed gun, sure to its appointed work irresistibly.

Soldiers, be patient. Restrain your zeal.—Hold yourselves obedient to the government you mean to save. Trust the great commander to whom you and your officers are subject.—Improve all your time and all your opportunities in acquiring the most perfect discipline. Doubt not that you will thus, and thus only, become the irresistible army that your country needs, to overpower this gigantic rebellion.

Officers, while you set the example of prompt obedience and complete submission to your superiors, be fearless and strict in enforcing good discipline upon all under your authority. The soldiers themselves will, in the long run, be pleased with this. Whatever may appear to be their preference in their hours of temporary restlessness, they will move to the battle most fearlessly under the lead of officers whom they know to be kind and fraternal in their feelings, yet consciously rigid in discipline. School boys, best love those teachers, and soldiers best love those commanders, whom they would not dare disobey. Wo to the enemy against whom such officers lead such soldiers as their kind, firm discipline forms. Happy the country whom such an army defends.

WHEN you see a young man not ashamed to carry a parcel along the streets, you can make up your mind that, with half a chance, he will come to something.

MILITARY RELIEF FUND.—A meeting of the Committee will be held this evening at half past six o'clock. By order of the President. O. EDWARDS, Sec'y.

MILLS STARTING UP.—The Narragansett Valley has heard of preparations making to start up several of the cotton mills in that vicinity which have been standing still for a time past. The manufacture of cloth for the army is to be the immediate business.

The Lehigh Valley Times says that a wild animal—a panther, wild cat or something of the kind, has been seen on Lehigh Mountain. It has scared the people of the neighborhood considerably, and expeditions of hunters have been fitted out to capture it, but unsuccessful thus far.

WE CALL attention to the request of the President of the Dauphin County Bible Society, auxiliary to the State Society, to be found in our issue of to-day, and trust his efforts to make Dauphin the banner county may be realized. We understand the next annual meeting will be held at Halifax in the month of November.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—A regular stated meeting of Washington Lodge No. 1, I. O. of Good Templars, will be held at the Lodge, Sons of Temperance Hall, at 7 1/2 o'clock this evening. Every member of the order is requested to be present, as business of importance will be transacted. The first number of the Lodge newspaper will be published this evening.

CAPT. WATERBURY'S COMPANY.—The roll of Capt. Isaac S. Waterbury's company now contains 85 names, fifty-five of whom answered to their names at roll-call this morning. The company are pleasantly quartered at Camp Cameron, and seem to take on to camp life like old "campaigners." The Captain desires all his men to be at the camp at 8 o'clock precisely to-morrow morning.

SKARONABLE RECIPE.—Fricasseed corn is an excellent dish, and just now in season. To make it, cut green corn off the cob; put it in a pot, and just cover it with water; let it boil one-half hour; mix a spoonful of flour with one-half pint of rich milk, pepper, salt, parsley, thyme, and a piece of butter; let it boil a few minutes, and take it up in a deep dish. Corn will do to cook in this way when too old to boil on the cob.

HARRISBURG FEMALE SEMINARY.—The fall term of this popular institution will commence on Wednesday September 4. Under the able administration of Miss S. E. Dixon, the Seminary has attained the reputation of being among the very best institutions in the State for the education of young ladies. For the coming fall term the services of the most talented and capable teachers have been secured who will spare no pains in promoting the welfare of the pupils in their charge. The Seminary deserves an extended patronage.

RAILROAD COLLISION.—The other day two freight trains, drawn by engines No. 1 and 82, came in collision near Emigsville, four miles north of York. Both engines were considerably injured, besides a number of cars. The wreck completely blocked up the road, and passengers were obliged to change cars at York in order to proceed on their journey. The road was not cleared until the following day. We understand that the smash up was the result of carelessness on the part of one of the conductors, who was running his train out of time when the collision occurred.

"THE OLD WOMAN."—We heard a young man who has turned his second corner in life—he was smoking a cheap cigar on the street the other night, speaking to some noisy comrades to the effect that he did not "care anything about the old woman."

Occasionally we have heard such remarks, and without professing more than ordinary veneration for sacred things, we protest in the name of manhood or boyhood against the intolerable nuisance.

Young man, it might have seemed a brave assertion to you, and the phrase might have sounded "smart" to those who heard it; but do you not know that, in a point of worldly wisdom, even, you are still a child, beside the sacred character you so flippantly denigrate "The old woman?"

When life is shorn of the cares and crush that rests lightly, perhaps, around your pathway now, and you are called to half realize the tone of such a thought, you will shrink from it, and sorrow over it. Don't do that again.

PROSPERITY IS COMING.—We are going to be prosperous yet, in spite of the war. The present stagnation of trade and enterprise is owing to a panic among business men; and that panic arises from an exaggerated apprehension of the disastrous effects of a national conflict upon the money market. But, as the enormous sums of money expended in the war are distributed among our own citizens; as the gold and silver still remain in the country; as millions of dollars in United States treasury notes are about to find their way into the channels of trade—infusing the currency, and stirring up the dormant spirit of enterprise into activity—this panic will soon cease. There will be no excuse for it. Money will be too abundant to permit us to feel an unusual alarm. Business will gradually awake from its lethargy. A national bankrupt law, to be passed next winter, will let loose thousands of stirring and original minds into the walks of life, which, hitherto, have been manacled to indolence by ancient misfortunes. Who can over-estimate the wonderful effect upon a "nation of shopkeepers" of three such inspiring events, viz: a restoration of confidence, a judicious inflation of the monetary field, and a discreet removal of the bonds that now tie up the energies of the unfortunate?

Mrs. CHESTER will serve up at the Buehler House Restaurant this evening the following bill of fare: Deviled Crabs, Boiled Crabs, Turtle Soup, Barbecued Chicken, Oysters in every style, together with all the delicacies of the season.

DAUPHIN COUNTY BIBLE SOCIETY.

The secretaries of the several town and township societies, auxiliary to the county society, are respectfully reminded that the period has arrived when it was recommended, at the last annual meeting, collections in aid of its funds should be made.

It is earnestly desired that Dauphin should be the banner county of the State in this good cause—a result nearly attained last year without extraordinary effort. The great demand on the part of the army for Bibles to supply the soldiers of the army since our last meeting, calls for more than ordinary effort on the part of auxiliaries at this time. It has been found that the appointment of a committee of ladies in each district to call upon every citizen to contribute their mite, has in the past proved very successful, and that course is now recommended.

A. O. HINSTER, Pres't Dauphin Co. Bible Society, Estherton, Aug. 27, 1861.

DRAFTING SOLDIERS.—It is rumored this morning that the government has commenced drafting. This will be of great advantage to that portion of our community who have not been able to make up their minds to go to war, while we feel convinced that our friends may be persuaded to let us go. We fear that some might suffer in our absence; to all those we say that if once to the cheap dry goods store of Ulrich & Bowman, corner of Front and Market streets.

HAVING returned from the city I now have on hand a full assortment of all kinds of Dry Goods: 200 pieces of new Calicoes; 200 dozen of Stockings; a splendid lot of Black Alpaca; a large lot of Hoop Skirts; 1,000 yards of Grass for Twining. All kinds of Summer Dress Goods at great reduction. S. LEWIS, Rhoads' Old Corner.

JNO. G. DALK, Agent, 310 Broadway, New York. Wm. H. KENEDY, Agent, 41 Wall Street, New York, Dec. 20th, 1858. GEORGE W. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE, has been received, stating that you had been benefited by the use of Wood's Hair Restorative, and requesting my certificate of the fact if I had no objection to give it.

I send it to you cheerfully, because I think it due my age is about 50 years; the color of my hair, abundant, and inclined to curl. Some five or six years since it began to turn gray, and the curl on the crown of my head to lose its elasticity and droop to the front. Each of these disagreeable conditions increased with time, and about four months since a fourth was added to them, by balding of the top of my head and threatening to make me bald.

In this unpleasant predicament, I was induced to try Wood's Hair Restorative, mainly to prevent the falling out of my hair, for I had really no objection to the gray hair ever be restored to its original color except from decay. I was, however, greatly surprised to find that the use of two bottles had not only restored the falling out arrested, but the color was restored to the gray hairs and sensibility to the scalp, and dandruff ceased to form on my head, very much to the gratification of my wife, at whose solicitation I was induced to try it.

For this, among many other obligations I owe to her, I strongly recommend all husbands who value the admiration of their wives to try Wood's Hair Restorative, and use it if springing gray or getting bald.

Very respectfully, Wm. H. KENEDY. To O. J. WOOD & Co., 444 Broadway, New York. My family are absent from the city, and I am so long at No. 11 Carroll place.

Stamam, Ala., July 20th, 1859. To Prof. O. J. Wood: Dear Sir: Having had the advantage to lose the best portion of my hair from the effects of the yellow fever, in New Orleans in 1851, I was induced to make a trial of your preparation, and found it to answer as the very thing I had been seeking for, and which I had given up as hopeless. It has restored to me my hair, and I am now as well as ever; at least in this respect. I believe it all! Yours truly, Wm. H. KENEDY.

P. S.—You can publish the above if you like. By publishing in your Southern papers you will get more patronage. I enclose several of your certificates in the Medical Mercury, a strong Southern paper. W. H. Kenedy. WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.
