GHOST STORIES. There is a foolish and per nicious practice with some people, of relating stories to young children to excite alarm and terror. If it is only foolish, or unreasonable, it might not justly call forth strong expressions of censure. Yet, even in such case, the practice had better be discontinued, and condemned as quite improper. Stories to arouse curiosity and excite inquiry, if the subjects tend to utility are certainly proper and commendable. But the common tales of Blue Beard, and Giants, of spectres and ghosts, are extremely injurious in their influence and effects. Unfounded and absurd notions are received, that serve only to terrify, and which even by correct knowledge afterwards received, cannot be entirely subdued or eradicated It is in vain to reason against them, or oppose to them the knowledge derived from natural PIC-NIC OF THE PAXTON TRIBE.—The "Paxton philosophy and sciences. EMPLOYMENT FOR WOMEN.—The question of employment for women elicited some interesting statements of facts at the Dublin meeting of the Social Science Association. The heads of the large establishments in London, called "monster houses" or "marts," of which there are six or seven—each being a congeries of shops for the sale of almost every variety of article—have constant applications from ladies in reduced circumstances, some of them in a state of orphanage and destitution. They are willing to do "anything," but are really capable of do indight the sale of the time devoted to education, and any sort of industrial training was regarded as a thing beneath their position, not to be pursued, indeed, without losing caste.
