From our Evening Edition of Yesterday

JOSIAH C. YOUNG This gentleman, the People's Union candidate for Prothonotary, was nominated by the Convention which assembled in this city on the 27th inst., and which deemed, at the time, that it was convened for the purpose of creating a union sentiment where that sentiment: already largely prevailed, and where the masses of the ny, sharing as we did in the suspicions which agitated the public mind, we are constrained to people did not desire, the introduction of a third ticket, to add acrimony and bitterness to a contest which should be conducted with dignity, calmness and respectability. The motives which induced Mr. Young to decline the nomination of the Convention of the 27th, were in the highest degree manly and honorable. He had already received the nomination of a great party, and in that mark of confidence, was convinced that he would be doing injustice to himself and the cause of law and order, if he permitted the use of his name by those who sought a revenge for personal disappointment. Sumter, came the call of the President of the at the expense of his reputation as a man of sense, honor and gratitude. The public will that each state was to supply its own commistherefore at once perceive that Mr. Young is entirely justified in his declination of a doubtful honor at the hands of men who were them selves competitors in the People's Union Convention for a like recognition and bestowal of confidence—while the personal friends, and the public sentiment of patriotism and devotion to the Union which controlled the People's Union Convention, will respond to the declination on the part of Mr. Young in a manner which will largely increase his vote at the ensuing election Asi le from this act of manly and frank disin terestedness and devotion to principles on the part of Mr. Young, he is a man of strictly personal and social integrity, of the highest reputation in the business and professional circles of the county, and with a knowledge of the

JAMES FREELAND.

The people of the upper end feel the slight which was put upon them by one of the conventions which -placed a ticket in nomination to be supported by the people of the entire county, and they naturally enquire, therefore, ployed in his sermon on the occasion of the na neighbor, James Freeland, the Peoples' Union candidate for the legislature. The upper end of Dauphin county has interests which demand a faithful legislative representative, and the of his sermon which created such intense expeople in that region are controlled by an independence and a pride which will neither brook insult or neglect from any quarter. We admire them for these qualities, and we commend them for thus vigilantly and jealously guarding their own interests, rights and reputation. We applaud them, too, for the unanimity and enthusiam with which they are rallying to the support of James Freeland, simply because he others essentially qualified to guard their welfare and represent their interests. He is also a Union man of early and devoted sincerity, and sympathizing with its enemies, and refusing. DeWitt and his friends accept the proposition? defence. The people of the upper end of the the friends of Dr. DeWitt that they mistake county owe it to themselves to unite to a man in the support of Mr. Freeland, particularly if they desire to be represented in the coming important session of the legislature.

RELIEF FOR THE SOLDIER.

. General McClellan has announced the chee ing determination, that he will immediately establish entirely new accommodations for the care and treatment of the sick and wounded men in Washington. Hospital provision is also war, Dr. DeWitt was guilty of a wrong in com to be made for the Ohio and Mississippi armies. It is suggested that societies shall be formed in every neighborhood where they do not exist already, to collect and work upon materials for hospital use The articles needed are blankets. quilts, knit woolen socks, dressing gowns or wrappers wooden or Canton flannel undershirts and drawers, long loose bedgowns of Canton flannel, quishions for wounded limbs and broken any covenant with slavery, let him desslippers. eAlmost every woman in the country can at least knit or purchase one pair of woollen midst of loyal citizens and Christian gentlemen stockings, and can contribute jellies and other or follow his affections into the rebel army delicacies for the sick.

There is a work in this determination on the part of Gen. McClellan, which should excite the libels against his country.

THE STATE CLOTHING SUPPLIES.

The supplying of clothing to the Pennsylva nia volunteers, to fill the first requisition of the President of the United States, for troops to defend the federal capital from the threatened assault of the rebels, has been one of the prolific sources whence the enemies of Gov. Curtin drew their material for slander and aspersion. The whole subject, in the hands of a band of disappointed partizan speculators, was used as much to gratify their own malicious feelings of envy and hatred, as it was to damcal organization of the people which now sustains both the state and national administrations. But the sequel begins to prove that instead of there being any fact to sustain these charges that raised in the minds of credulous people by the persistent falsehoods of those who were interested in having a charge of fraud substantiated. The Grand Jury of Philadelphia, to whom this business was referred, in an able charge from Judge Ludlow, during the latter part of last week, made the following clear and conclusive reference to the subject, in their report to the court:

say that we have no evidence of any fraud having been perpetrated upon this Common-wealth in the supplies furnished to the troops, nor of any, frauds on the part of those persons afficial or unofficial, engaged in the management of the inferests of the Commonwealth. From a state of long continued profoun peace we found ourselves plunged into a fright-ful rivil, war with those whom this Government had always been taught to look upon as breth-ren. Pennsylvania had made no preparation for such a contingency, and at no period in her history was she so utterly helpless for defence United States for troops, with the intimatio partment were absolutely not to be had at any price, and the authorities of Pennsylvania were compelled to do the best they could in this emergency, where prompt action was of the least importance. That there were mistakes and irregularities is well known; had it been otherwise it would have been a marvel. Mer inexperienced in the duties of providing for the outfit of an army were necessarily employed and in all instances, so far as we have been able to learn, these persons freely proffered their aid without receiving any compensation. That public clamor should be loud against somebody is no new thing. That under the circumstances of this great convulsion many things were inefficiently done is equally true; but that frauds were committed upon the state none of the evidence before us has tended to disclose.

As soon as we can procure a copy of the re port of the commissioners appointed to examine multifarfour and important duties of the posiinto these alleged frauds, we will review the tion for the occupancy of which his friends and whole subject. In the meantime we can assure the people have nominated him, that must make our readers that that report, completely and his election one of the essential necessities of honorably exculpates the administration of Gov. Curtin from complicity with any fraud, or that any fraud of any description was perpetrated in this particular.

-In this connection we must remind some of their man when they attempt to move or in timidate us with annonymous letters of a scur rilous and threatening spirit. If they seek the truth, let them do so openly and decently. If they desire to defend a friend, let them do so frankly and fairly, and not prostitute themselves and damage their friend by making his course their motive for an ebulition of hitter persons splesn and blackguardism. If this is a national mending or defending the cause of the rebels If it is a sectional struggle, his partizan feelings betrayed his discretion when he assailed the valor and the daring, the justification and the merits on which the northern or loyal people of this country enter this contest. We asser that he has no right to do so, and if he believes that the free white men of this land have cend from his pulpit, hold his peace in the and there illustrate his sentiments with common
