PRINTING MATERIAL FOR SALE Two Power Presses, old Adams' Patent.

Two Iron Hand Presses, one nearly new and a large amount of second hand Printing material, will be sold at exceedingly low prices, for cash or approved paper. All these materials are in a good condition, and would answer for a country office. They must be sold to make room for new and more extensive machinery. Apply at this office immediately.

EXTRAORDINARY exertions will be made in the Western States this fall to manufacture sugar from sorghum-partially with the object of evading the prospective heavy duties on imported sugar, and to supply the deficiency caused by the loss of the crop in Louisiana.

DEDICATION OF AN ODD FELLOWS' HALL .- A hand-ome Odd Fellows' hall was dedicated at Lykenstown, this county, last Saturday. The fraternity was largely represented. A brass band was present, and the ceremonies altogether are described as being of a very interesting nature. Col. A. J. Herr, of this city, delivered an address on the occasion.

SERGEANT LOCKARD, of the first Penna. artillery (Campbell's) regiment, who was arrested in this city some time ago, charged with disobedience of orders, and taken to Washington, was tried by a court martial, found guilty, and reduced to the ranks, in which capacity he has been performing double guard duty for the last two weeks.

MORE EVIDENCE. - Since the arrest and confinement of the soldier Risue last Saturday, charged with having purloined a box of coins from Mr. Ettla's store in Second street, his boarding house has been searched and a number of articles found on the premises, which Mr. Ettla has identified as his property. We understand that he has confessed to the robbery of the coins, and the person to whom they were sold to, but it is hardly possible that they can all be recovered.

MOVEMENTS OF COTTON.—It is well known that a large quantity of cotton has arrived in New York from the Eastern States recently, for shipment to Europe. It now appears that the brokers have been engaged in sending our fine staples abroad, receiving in return, for manufacture into heavy goods, the India cotton from England. The steamship Persia, on her recent trip brought two hundred and forty bales of this cotton. The sample is much shorter than American cotton, but the fibres are said to be quite as fine as ours.

TRIAL OF THE FRIENDSHIP STEAMER. -- An interesting trial of the Friendship company's last Saturday afternoon, which was witnessed by a large concourse of our citizens. The steamer, on this occasion threw a one and oneeighth stream of water a distance of two hundred and nineteen feet, which is considerably less than its previous performance at the canal. This it is said is owing to the fact that the fire plugs are inadequate to supply a sufficient volume of water to meet the suction powers of the steamer. The trial, however, gave general satvorably with the superiority of steam over

DEATH OF ROBERT J. Ross, Esq.—We deeply regret to announce the death of R. J. Ross, Esq., ch took place at his residence in this cit yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ross was well known in financial circles throughout the State as the cashier of the Dauphin Deposit Bank, and for a Philadelphia. His demise was the result of a bank. Since then he has been confined to his without assistance. Several times, indeed, he seemed to be regaining in strength, and strong hopes were entertained of his ultimate recovery, at least so far as to enable him to move about and attend to his official labors; but these proved delusive, and the spark which at these brighter glow, has now, alas! been quenched forever. In the death of Mr. Ross, we have lost one of our most valued citizens—the needy and destitute a generous friend; and his family a devoted husband and fond and indulgent

THE REPORTED SHOOTING OF COL. KNIPE.—Hou the Story Originated. - The friends of Col. Joseph F. Knipe will be glad to learn that the telegraphic dispatch from Washington published in last Saturday's TELEGRAPH, relative to the murderous attempt upon his life, turns out to be false. His wife received a letter and a telegraph disprevailing even in the camp at Darnslast Friday, of a girl in male attire, who reprebrother of Lanaham, who shot Major Lewis. town, her story seems to have impressed the upon the affections of those remaining behind. police authorities with its plausibility, and they were gulled into its belief. Of course, these ubiquitous gentlemen of the press, yclept reporters, were on hand and made an item of the particulars of the examination, which, in due course of time, found its way to Washington, and from there, curtailed in dimensions, was transmitted over the telegraphic wires to the associated press. In the mean time, the girl above correction. who told the story in Baltimore was remanded to prison for a further hearing, where her real discovered to be a rebel spy, which of course The meetings will continue every evening this proved the falsity of her statements.

Suicide -A middle aged man named D. Watson, formerly a broker of New Castle, Lawrence county, committed suicide at the Jones' House burg M. E. church, at 7½ o'clock. in this city, about half past 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Watson, as evidenced by the hotel for the purpose, it is said, of obtaining some pohe unfortunately permitted a natural failing to ough Rem. get the better of his good judgment, and sought to forget his disappointment in the temporary pleasures of the glass, This course of dissipa tion resulted last Saturday night in an attack of deliriem tremens, which, however, does not appear to have been very violent, as we did not learn that any physician was summone I, and he retired to bed as upon ordinary occasions Yesterday morning he rose at the usual hour and excepting a visible tremor in his nervous system, arrising from his previous excesses, there was nothing in his general appearance to indicate that his mental faculties were in the least disturbed. To a remark made by him "that he would like to have a drink of brandy" an acquaintance replied that he "had better get a prescription from a Doctor."

He shortly afterwards went to Williams' barber shop, under the hotel, and got shaved, after which he proceeded to Wyeth's drug store, and what followed is fully detailed in the subjoined testimony of Mr. Lewis Wyeth, before the coroners inquest, which we publish in full in order to correct some misstatements which inadvertantly crept into the account of the affair, published in this morning's TELEGRAPH.

Lewis Wyerh, sworn. I keep a drug store on the corner of Market square; a boy named Jeffries attends the store; between 11 and 12 o'clock to-day (Sunday) I was out of the store, and he called to me, and told me a gentleman was in who wanted some strychnine; I asked him whether he had an order from a physician; he said that he himself was a physician, and that he wanted a drachm of strych-nine; I told him that I had not that quantity in the store; I told him this because I did not wish to give it to a stranger even if he was a physician. To show him that I did not have that quantity, I took down a bottle containing probably the twelfth part of a drachm and showed it to him; while I was getting this bottle he stepped behind the counter and picked up another bottle containing some strychnine and stood it on the counter. He said, "I'll take what is here but have no change with me, but will pay you to morrow," and then grabbed both of the bottles containing about 16 grains, and started out; I thought his conduct very singular, and called to him; when I got to the door he was going into the Jones House; I ran across the street, and met Coverly in the hotel, and stated the circumstances to him, describing the man, and told him that he (Watson) had told me that he was a physician; Coverly replied that he was not a physician; while I was talking to Coverly, Watson came down stairs and started down Second street; I followed him and caught up to him at Kelker's corner; I told him that Coverly said that "you are not a physician, and I must have the strychnine back; he said it was up in his room, No. 33, in the Jones' House; I told him he must go along with me and get it; and I caught him by the arm; he threw my arm off and drew back to strike me; I jumped aside and went down to the hotel for help, when I met Mr. M'Calla and Mr. Duncan, and steam fire engine took place in Market Square told them to take care of the man while I went and searched his room: I then went and made a thorough search of his room, but could find neither strychnine or bottles; Watson escaped out of sight of those gentlemen, and we all started in search of him: Duncan and I started in search of him down Mulberry street and up Chestnut and Second, and found him lying on the corner of the Square with a crowd around

COL. HAMBRIGHT'S REGIMENT.—Two companies of Col. Hambright's regiment, Capt. Kendrick's patch from him yesterday, in both of and Capt. Foot-walks were directed to be laid at Third and North and at High and State streets; also. a pavement in front of the Good Will engine house.

The council then adjourned.

THE FASHIONS .-- A fashion writer for a Nev York paper says that this fall the "Garibaldi Jacket" will assert itself a favorite with all economical ladies, as it has the advantage of the corner of the Square with a crowd around him; this was probably as much as twenty minutes after I left him; he was lying on the pavement and was still living when I came up; I sent for Dr. Reily; he was removed to the hotel at the request of Dr. Reily; he died in a few minutes after his body was removed to the hotel.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts, and the remains of the deceased were put in a coffin, and this morning forwarded to his family at New Castle.

> Decrease in Crime.—In conversation the other day with our worthy chief of police, Mr. Radabaugh, we asked the condition of business in his department. Dull, very dull, no burglaries or thefts, he remarked. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE, Harrisburg, Sept. 27, 1861.

My opinion is requested by the Governor on the following questions, viz: I. What volunteers will be entitled to vote at the approaching general election in their camps?
II. Whether the volunteers so entitled to vote, can vote for County officers? I. I am clearly of the opinion that no vol unteers will be entitled to vote in their camps, except such as are in actual military service conformity with law, viz: Such as are in service under the authority of the Governor on the requisition of the President of the United States. All the field officers of such regiments cers will be a fair test of the right of the regiment to vote.

II. The Act of Assembly provides that the volunteers may exercise the right of suffrage; of course they have as much right to vote for County officers as for any other.

W. M. MEREDITH,

Attorney General. "Since writing the above an additional question has been propounded to me, viz: Where men from several counties are in the same company, what course should be pursued? I am of opinion that in such cases there should be separate ballot-boxes, tally lists &c., for each county, and the votes should be returned, to each county, of the voters entitled to vote in such county. W. M. MEREDITH, Attorney General. Sept. 28, 1861.
