The Reasons for Price's Retrograde Movement.

[Correspondence of the St. Louis Republican ] LEXINGTON, Mo., Oct. 10.

The plan of Gen. Price, after he captured Lyington was to remain for a time and operate on the north side of the river, and for this purpose on Saturday, the 28th of September, he rosed the river at Lexington with four thousand mounted men, and this force took up their line of march for the railroad, with the view of its total destruction, and then sad havoc was to be made among all the Government forces in Northwest Missouri. atsenal, where he had taken the oath of allegiance to the United States government, refirmed from St. Louis to Lexington and reported that the whole country below was alive with troops; that Fremont was after Price, and that Price might prepare for a big fight in a few days. This seemed to raise the courage of Price's men, and they said let Fremont come, they were ready for him. When Jones announced that General Fremont had 30,000 men, and his only fear was trat Price would not make a stand, the latter that true would not make a stand, the latter countermanded his order for sending troops to the tailroad, and a messenger was immediately despatched after those who had already started across the river. On that night Price made his preparations for a movement southward, and preparations for a movement southward, and General Rains, it is said, went twenty miles that night on his southern route. It is also believed that Governor Johnson availed himself of this command as an escort to get himself out of

Price and all his forces left on Monday, the about 1,200 in number, did not all get off before Wednesday.

If Price had desired a fight with Fremont he Would have taken the Georgetown road, or possibly the Warrenburg road; but instead of this, he has gone on the road leading down the western boundary of this state and the south-

I have given a plain narrative of facts as they have transpired here, and if Price does make s stand and give battle, all who are cognizant of movements will be disappointed. His most to back down, while the more verdant are acted with the idea that he has gone to meet fulloch, who from the most reliable information, is somewhere in Arkansas.

The forces of Price was very large at Lexingten, but many of the men were only for the oc ation and have gone home. His force was s the fact becomes certain that his destination is Arkansas, it will still further decrease. TAPE GIRARDEAU, Oct. 8.—The military au-

WHY DON'T THEY ENLIST?—An old song used to ask the question, "why don't the men propose?" The question now is asked, "why don't the young men enlist?" This question many are asking, forgetting that four-fifths of all the soldiers in our army are young men. However, there are more around us, and in this city several companies could be raised from the ranks of young men, many of whom are out of employment, and to whom time hangs heavily on their hands. Still patriotism hangs fire in their bosoms, or else, like too many, they are anxiously waiting for an office, forgetting that to be a private in the ranks of an American army is far nobler than to be an officer. Cannot the young men be induced to look at the duty which is theirs, the duty to themselves, to their country and their God, and rally in support of neously. They were each fined. that Union which must and shall be preserved. Street corners are filled with posters calling for volunteers. Able and kind officers have charge of their duty, for which she was arrestbeen selected, and now is the accepted time for our young men to win a name that will be lauded in after generations. When coal was first introduced into Eugland as fuel, the hours. prejudice against it was so strong that the Comto ascertain who burned coal within the city of London and its neighborhood, and to punish them by fine for the first offence, and by demolition of their furnaces if they persisted in transgressing. A law was finally passed making it a capital offence to burn coal in the city, and only permitting it to be used in the forges in the vicinity. It is stated that among the records in the town of London a document was once Caroline Christy. > THE PREACHERS' REGIMENT.—The St. Helena (Ark.) Shield says : "A regiment of troops from the southern part of the State passed up last Sunday, en route for the seat of war, that should properly be called the Preachers' Regiment.-The Colonel, Bradley, from Pine Bluff, is a Methodist minister, and besides him there are no less than eight preachers—one of whom is over seventy years of age." To which the Pocohontas (Ark.) Herald responds : Oh, no, Mr. Shield, Col. Bradley's regiment is not entitled to the name of the "Preachers' Regiment." Col. Mc-Carver's regiment, now organizing at this place, has forty-two preachers in it now, and will have over fifty when organized. Hence we claim the title for Col. McCarver."

THE OFFICIAL RETURNS. The return judges of the several wards and townships of the county convened at the Court House in this city, at ten o'clock yesterday. Daniel Snyder of this city was appointed President, and Chas. A. Snyder, of this city, and David Hoffman, of Millersburg, officiated as clerks. The result of the meeting is given in another part of this evening's TELEGRAPH, including the votes polled by the volunteers, which latter, however, were not counted, as the law requires this to be done on "the second Tuesday of November next after the election," to which time the judges ad journed. For all practical purposes, however, the result as given in the table, is complete, and may be taken as the official vote of the county -the vote polled by the volunteers having been compiled from the official records in the Prothonotaries' office.

Over.-The election is over, and our citizen will once more attend to their usual occupations which had been temporarily laid aside to attend to political matters. So far as we are concerned we are glad that it is past—we always feel a relief when we have got rid of the trouble of still being without a quorum, adjourned until hunting up returns. Some good people have thought that we should have no politics in these troublous times,—but others have thought differently, and the latter having apparently the majority, we think that disposes of the matter. They have shown that they can vote and fight without neglecting either duty. While, however, we congratulate ourselves that the election off in the endeavors to bring our civil war to a o-qvery healthy able-bodied man-go into the army. THE FOUNTAIN HAIR BRUSH .- The fountain in this patent toilet implement consists of a small, circular, silver-plated reservoir, let into the back of the brush, and furnished underneath with a small perforated nozzle, through which by pressing a spring on the top, the fluid in the reservoir, whatever it may be, is lightly syringed into the centre of the brush, which, being made of softer hair, receives it like a sponge, without a particle of waste. The little tank or reservoir is perfectly tight, this result being secured by a contrivance as simple and as perfect as a Croton faucet. There is no difficulty in introducing the fluid into the fountain, and, when once in, it cannot escape; except at the will of the user, and by pressure on the spring, which discharges it into the bristles. Intercourse at the Table.—To meet at the breakfast table father, mother, children, all well, ought to be a happiness to any heart; it should wake up the warmest feelings of our native. Shame upon the contemptible and low bred cur, whether parent or child, that can ever come to the breakfast table, where the family have met in health, only to frown and whine, and growl, and fret. It is prima facie evidence of a mean, and groveling, and selfish, garrulous and noisy, but if within at all reason able or bearable bounds it is better to let them alone, they eat less, because they do not eat so rapidly as if compelled to keep silent, while the very exhil aration of spirits quickens the circu lation of the vital fluids, and energizes digestion lation of the vital fluids, and energizes digestion and assimilation. The extremes of society ounce in this regard. The tables of the rich and the nobles of England are models of mirth, wit and honhommie; it takes hours to get through a repast, and they live long.
