NINETY-SIX thousand nine hundred and nine ty-eight barrels of coal oil have been transportel over the Penusylvania Railroad to an eastern market during the nine months of the year ending September 30.

DEATH OF A HARRISBURG VOLUNTERR.—Edward Miller a private in the Kepner Fencibles, at-America Paris Pennsylvania Reserves, died in one of the hospitals at Washington last anday The deceased was about twenty years of age, and his friends reside in Paxton street, the day when it was interesting and ladylike to be always ailing has gone by. Good health, fortunately, is the fashion A rosy cheek is no longer considered "vulgar," and a fair, shapely allowance of flesh on the bones is considered good looks cannot exist without good health, may have had something to do with the care may haken to obtain it; whether this be so or not future generations be the gainers all the sine. A languid eye, and a waxy, bloodless emplexion, may go begging now for admiration. The "elegant stoop" in the shoulders, tormerly considered so aristocratic, has also miraculously disappeared.

Woman walk more and ride less; they have rainy day suits of apparel, too, which superthaity never was known to exist aforetime. sunshine being the only atmosphere in which the human butterfly was known to float. In short, "the fargile women of America" will soon exist only in the acid journal of some English traveler, who will of course stick to the bygone fact as a still present reality, with a dogged per tinacity known only to that smiable nation.

POLICE .- Before the Mayor .- Andrew Veiger and Andrew Graft, both soldiers, were arraigned for obscene conduct in Market street. Sent to prison for ten days.

George Dehaven, also a soldier, was up for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Recommitted to the lock-up.

Ellen Miller, a mulatto, and Jane Clark, black as the ace of spades, were up for vagrancy, and both sent to prison for thirty days.

Pat. Hibble, an old "revolver" from Reading, was arraigned for vagrancy, and put unde marching orders for "Alt Berks."

Morris Johnson, a felonious looking negro was up charged with stealing pudding from Carey's butcher shop, in State street. Went to prison.

James Davis, an elderly gentleman, was an raigned for giving illustrated lectures in natural history to the soldiers in Camp Curtin. Sent to prison to answer.

William Smull—the "gay and incomparable" William-was informed against this morning for violating one of the city ordinances, prohibiting the purchase of produce at the market betore five o'clock a. m. William's purchases consisted of pheasants, etc., very good eating to be sure, but in this case very expensive. The defendent will be heard before the Mayor this Frieze have also been informed against for violating city ordinances, all of whom will be heard before the Mayor this evening.

THE RECENT AFFAIR AT THE BALTIMORE CALVERT STREET DEPOT .- We were called upon yesterday by Mr. Wm. H. Sinclair, the gentleman who received the severe beating last Sunday morning at the Calvert street station of the Northern Central Railroad in Baltimore, by the conductor of one of the trains. Mr. Vandanicker an account of which appeared in Monday evening's TRLEGRAPH. Mr. Sinclair informs us that the particulars of the affair, as given in the Baltimore press, and in our paper were incorrect. In the first place he has no connection with the London Times; and the next, there was no such language used as is attributed to him. He adds in relation to the affair that "observing a person (whom I had previously seen conversing with a lady in the same car with me,) walking along the platform with a lamp in his hand, I asked him if he was the conductor. He gave a very sulky affirmative and walked on. Anxious to know whether it would be better for me to re engage my room at the hotel, I followed and asked whether he knew if we would start that morning. Turning sharply round, he threatened to knock me down if annoyed again. Doubtless he had been asked the same question by many others, but under the circumstances should have shown more forbearance. Accord ingly I told him that if he was conductor, he ought to answer a civil question and wear some badge to denote his position, upon which he called me a fool. I then called him a great fool, when he struck me with the lamp in his hand, and before there was time for me to lay down the baggage carried in my hands, struck again with his fist. Although there was a revol er in my pocket I refrained from firing because by this time quite a number were on the platform, and possibly some innocent passenger might have suffered. Bleeding freely, I reached the street, but found it as difficult to recognize a policeman as a railroad conductor. Several gentlemen, who kindly gave me their cards, are willing to testify to the correctness of this state-

Mr. Sinclair is a young Englishman of polishel manners, and appears to possess all the at-American correspondent of the London News a journal whose sympathies are decidedly imlisted on the side of our government in its efforts to put down the rebellion.

OUR FARMERS should give attention to the production of flax and wool, both of which will be in great requisition; and those who first go into producing them will make the most money. Wool is now in great demand; and farmers will find sheep the most profitable stock they can keep Agricultural pursuits are destined to command more attention in this country for the next several years than they have ever done. Almost all other kinds of business have suffered so that men naturally turn to the more safe and less annoying occupation of farming. If the thousands of young men who go to war, will settle down on Western lands, when the war is over, it will be an offset to evils which war begets. The tillers of soil, if they cultivate intelligence, patriotism and public spirit along with their soil, occupy the position of real independence, and are a nation's bulwark and glory. It would be well for farmers not to sell sheep or lambs for slaughter, but to raise them for the wool crop. There is no doubt that a good market can be had for all the wool that can be raised for years hence. MORE EXTENSIVE FLOODS.—The heavy rain foundry or manufactury is the sudden cessation of work in the evening, when steam whistle sounds or the bell rings.
