HARRISBURG, PA.

Tuesday Afternoon, November 12, 1861.

TAKEN POSSESSION.—The company recruited by Capt. G. W. P. Davis, to guard the public property in and about the city, went on duty at the State arsenal yesterday morning.

MILITARY RELIEF FUND.—The committee will meet this evening at 6 o'clock, at the office of A. J. Herr, Esq. Members will please be punctual. By order of the President, O. EDWARDS, Sec'y.

HEAVY COAL BUSINESS.—Over one hundred car loads of coal per day are now taken into Pittsburgh over the Pennsylvania Central road. This immense amount of coal is all collected from mines lying between that city and Pennsylvania, and retail'd by some half dozen dealers in each city.

ACCIDENT TO CAPT. C. C. DAVIS.—We regret to learn that Capt. C. C. Davis, of Col. Wynnkoop's cavalry regiment, stationed at Camp Cameron, was violently thrown from a horse at Locust Grove yesterday, and dislocated his collar bone, besides breaking one of his thumbs. Locust Grove is a station for government horses, many of which are unbroken, and it was while endeavoring to tame one of these that Capt. Davis, although an excellent rider, met with the accident. The Captain is now lying at his residence in this city, receiving medical attention, and we are gratified to learn that there is every prospect of his speedy recovery.

THE NEW LOCK-UP.—Margaret O'Bryan—a rough-looking little mulatto woman of twenty years of age—was arrested last night by Officer Campbell for drunkenness and disorderly conduct generally at the Methodist Church, in Tanner's alley. Margaret, when arrested, refused to accompany the police officer, and struck out from her right shoulder in the most approved style of pugilism to the great prejudice of the officers frontpiece. Reinforcements, however, were promptly on hand, and the refractory Margaret was conveyed almost in a state of en loco naturae to one of the cells of the new lock-up under the Court House, that place being selected for her confinement as best adapted to resist her disposition to "break things." Margaret is the same girl who a few years ago startled our community with a development respecting a murder alleged to have been committed in this city several years ago by a resident of Philadelphia, which led to the arrest of the party implicated, who was tried and acquitted, there not being the least evidence to criminate him. Margaret had a hearing before Justice Beader and was committed to prison.

THE SOLDIER OF 1812.—Capt. John Wise, of the Litch Cavalry regiment, stationed at Camp Cameron, near this city, was recently presented by Dr. Chas. Herbst, of Lancaster, with a sword that done service in the war of 1812. The following is the correspondence which accompanied the presentation:

LANCASTER, Nov. 8, 1861. CAPT. JOHN WISE—Sir: I take pleasure in presenting you this sword. It is a relic of, and has done service in, the war of 1812. You have with my sincere wishes for your welfare, and a conscientious faith that you will carry it through the campaign with honor and bravery.

DOCTOR CHAS. HERBST—ESTIMATED FRIEND AND FELLOW CITIZEN: I receive the sword with a soldier's gratitude for its time honored service and glorious memories. It shall ever be my pride to emulate the valor of the heroic men of the war of 1812, whose service it represents. I perceive that 60 years of peace has caused it to grow somewhat rusty. The exigency is at hand to rub it off. Should it be my destiny—my fortune, as it is my duty, to use it faithfully in the cause of the Union, my Country, and my God.

JOHN WISE, Captain of Company F, Litchiel Cavalry, LANCASTER, Nov. 8, 1861.

SABBATH SCHOOLS.—We agree with our cotemporary of the Lancaster Express that many parents think their duty discharged towards the Sunday School, when the child has been clothed and bonneted, and furnished with a penny. That it is their province, nay, their bounden duty to encourage the entire school, both teachers and pupils, by their frequent presence and wise councils, seems never to have entered the minds of a large majority of those, whose children are the recipients of Sabbath school instruction. A new interest would be infused into the school, should the ten parents be weekly in attendance. Your children would be happier in their efforts, and their teachers would be encouraged to renewed zeal. Have the parents ever thought how their children are being trained in the morals of the Sabbath School, and instructed in the scriptures by persons who have no immediate interest in the welfare of their pupils? By philanthropic young ladies and gentlemen, who receive neither your thanks, your smiles of approval, or even recognition of services rendered. If it costs too much effort on the part of parents, to assist in teaching their own, or their neighbors' children, they can at least hold up the hands of those, who so generously have volunteered to instruct and amuse their little ones.

There are also many small children in Sunday Schools, who have larger brothers and sisters, who never visit the schools. This is wrong; it is a reflection on the training both at home and at school; when boys become young men, they are rarely too wise to attend the Sunday school; it is selfish vanity, and not positive knowledge, that renders them too wise in their own conceit, to be laborers in the Sabbath school. And when little girls become young ladies, they should keep in mind that utility, as well as beauty, is a subject for admiration; and that the former increases in value and becomes more worthy of praise, rapidly as the latter fades and is forgotten. There are in our city scores of well-educated young ladies and gentlemen, all of whom have enjoyed the privilege of Sabbath school instruction, and they are therefore under a high moral obligation to transmit the boon to those who come after them. The schools are deficient in teachers, just because these young people neglect to do their plain duty. Young ladies and gentlemen think of these things.

THE OFFICIAL RETURNS.—The Return Judges of the several election districts of Dauphin county met at the Court House in this city at two o'clock this afternoon, for the purpose of counting the army vote, in which duty they were still engaged at half past three o'clock, when our report closed. The official result of the vote, together with that polled in the several wards and townships of the county, will be published in tabular form in to-morrow morning's TELEGRAPH.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE DAUPHIN BIBLE SOCIETY.—The tenth anniversary of this association was celebrated on last Sabbath evening in the Lutheran church. The attendance was very large and the exercises of the occasion were very interesting. The President of the Society reported at length its operations from its first organization, after which stirring addresses were delivered by Rev. Messrs. Howard, Moore and Marts, of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Lutheran churches respectively, and a collection was taken for the objects of the Society. A large delegation was appointed to the annual convention of the Dauphin County Bible Society, and a resolution was unanimously passed, inviting the County Society to hold its next anniversary in Dauphin.

THE INEQUALITY of the Union, whose worthlessness of character, and total destitution of moral accountability interposes a shield of protection against the casu-hic, which in other communities has evidently been applied to him so assiduously that he still goes limping through our streets and by-ways with his jaundiced eyes cast to the earth much like a hog looking out for roots, this morning, with that ingenuity characteristic of the consummate scoundrel, attempts to divert the searching eye of an outraged community from his audacious iniquities, by charging that the scapled which laid bare the blackness of his callous heart, was guided by other hands than the regular local reporter of this paper. The snarling drunken rascal, with all his brazen impudence, has not the temerity to confront us, but must needs open his batteries of nauseous blackguardism upon a gentleman who in return would as soon think of engaging with the artillery of the skunk.

THE WARMEST AND BEST CLOTHING.—Most persons suppose that fabrics made of coarse wool are the warmest and most durable. This is a mistaken idea. Owing to the lower prices of coarse wool, fabrics of this material are usually made heavier than those of fine wool, hence their great thickness deceive persons respecting their qualities for warmth and wear. There is no heat in the wool itself; its property of what is called "warmth" is due to its non-conducting qualities. It is moreover evident that cloth made of fine wool equal in thickness to that manufactured from coarse material will wear much longer. The finest woolen cloth, although dearest at first, is cheapest in the end, because it is more durable and warmer; and according to Leibniz, so much heat saved is so much merit gained. It must not be overlooked, however, that there may be a very great difference between what is called "firm cloth" and cloth made of fine wool. Fine wool is our theme; it feels pleasant and soft to the touch, and has a rich velvety appearance. There has been a great demand recently for coarse wool to be used in the manufacture of common army and other cloth, but every effort should rather be made to obtain plenty of cheap fine wool, because it is the warmest and best for clothing.

Written for the Telegraph. MISS B.—S. DILEMMA.—"I wish I could do something for our poor soldiers," said Miss B.—with an emphasis upon each word which left no doubt of her earnestness. The newspaper, in which she had just read another stirring appeal to our country women for aid in meeting the many pressing wants of our army, slid from her knee, and as she idly toyed with the tassel of her girdle, her thoughts were busy contrasting her desires to "do something" with her fancied inability; not that she had not time to make hospital cushions, comforts and quilts, for many hours of every week were devoted to the last new novel; nor that she did not know how to knit, for her nimble fingers had crocheted more mats, tidies, rigolettes, and "bosom friends," than I would care to enumerate; but she had no means with which to purchase heavy stocking yarn, soft muslin, and flannels, and government did not furnish willing fingers with those materials. Ah! if only she had money she would supply mittens and hose to all a regiment. Tucked away in her pocket book, there was thirty dollars, sure, but every cent must go for her immediate necessities. She must have a new long cloak, for the pet one of last winter was not of the fashionable length by six inches; and a "Rep" dress, she must have one also, for last season they were a dollar and a quarter a yard, now they sold at "panic prices," a dollar and one shilling, and it would be a sin to lose such a bargain. Then that lovely French worked collar for three dollars, with cuffs to match it, was indispensable, and every one thought it so cheap. But, how her face brightened! she remembers having seen a "set" almost as pretty for "two fifty." She'll take the latter and save half a dollar. That will buy two hanks of grey yarn. She'll knit it up these long winter evenings, and some poor, brave fellow will profit by her sacrifice. Dear girl, did you ever hear the story of Mother Bailey's petticoat? During the dark days of the Revolution, when Fort Griswold fell into the hands of the British, and the glorious Lady died by his own sword in the hand of the officer to whom he surrendered, it Mother Bailey was a young girl living in Groton. In the extreme destitution of the troops, and to haste for ammunition, a soldier rode into the town and begged for flannel for cartridge-cases. Meeting him in the street, and ascertaining his errand, she immediately unpinned her petticoat, stepped out of it, rolled it up and he put it into his valise and galloped off. History does not record that she had others and better ones at home; in fact her after life of poverty rather precludes the supposition. Her prompt forgetfulness of self has left a record of sufficient brightness. Does not her example "prompt a moral?"
