PENNSYLVANIA HOSPITAL.

[FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

MAY 19, 1860,—Elleu S., 28. 28, single, never was very strong. Two years ago she had an attack of acute rheumatism, from which she was confined to her bed for two weeks and subseqent y from a relapse for four more. She has been well since then till lut statur day, white engaged in house cleaning, she look cold, had pain in her back. Is the cold, hot had no decited chill. Two days later her antice began so swell, which was followed by swelling of the knee jo nts and of the hands. She has now dull pain in her shoulders, and her knuckles are very tendess, red and painful; both hands are aftered, but the right is mort so. This, then, is a case of acute rheumatism, or, as it is now fashiovably called, rheuma'le fever. It is a well remarked typical case. We will carefully watch the case, and from time to time call your attention to the various symptoms which present themselves. My chief object in bringing her before you now, is to call attention to a remedy which has recently been recommended in the treatment of rheumatism. Im an propylamiae. Dr. Awenarius, of St. Petersburg, recommends it in the highest terms, having derived great oenedit from its use in 250 cases which came under his care. Various commendatory testimonials respecting it have appeared in our journals, and I propose therefore to give it another trial! I must confess I am always incredulous as to the worth of new remedies, which are vanuted as specifies; but this comes to us recommended so highly, that we are bound to give it a trial. [FROM OFFICIAL HOSPITAL REPORTS.]

SAME CASE FOUR DAYS LATER !

MAY 23, 1860.—I will now exhibit to you the patient for whom I prescribed Propylamine, and was then laboring under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doses of three grains every two hours ing under an attack of acute rheumatism. She has steadily taken it in doese of three graius every two hours (intermitting it at night.) The day after you saw her, I found her much more comfortable, better than she expected to be for a week or more, judging from her other attack. (the patient now walken into the room.) The improvement has steadily progressed, and you cannot fail to notice a marked change in the appearance of her joints, which are now mearly all of their natural size—Thus far our experiment would have seemed very successful; but, gentlemen, we must wait a luit) while before we can give a decided opinion as to what is to be the result.

Here is ano her patient who was placed on the use of the asme medicine on Sunday last; she has long been suffering from a throne rheamatism, and I found her at that time with an acute attack supervening upon her chronic affection. The wrists and kouckles were much swollen and terms. She took the chloride of Propylames in three grain do es every two hours, and you will perceive that the swelling of the joints has much diminished.

THREE DAYS LATER!!

THREE DAYS LATER!!

May 26, 1860.—This is the case of acute rheumatism treated with propylamine, the dirst of those to which I called your attention at our last cliude. She is still very comfortable, and is now taking three grains thrice daily. In this case it has seemed to be followed by very satisfactory results. The second case to which your attention was called at our last lecture, has also continued to do welt. I will now bring before you a very characteristic case of acute shaumatism, and if the result be satfactory, I think, as good jurymen, we shall justly render our verdict in favor of propylamine.

He is a seaman, at. 28, who was admitted a few days ago. Has has occasional rheomatic pains, but not so as taken by the control of the upper extremities. These joints are, all swellen, tense and tender. His tangue is furred; this skin, at present dry, though there has been much sweating. His puise is full and strong, and about $0.—He has now used propylamine for twenty-four hours.

This gentleman is what may be called a stricity typical case of acute rheumatism. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a freshing of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure is followed by a freshing of coldness, severe articular pain, beginning, as it usually does, in the lower joints. There was exposure to cold and wet, and this exposure on all the points convention of giving you a lecture on all the points convention of giving you a lecture on all the points convented with rheumatism but to avain give a trial to the new remedy we are testing, and to exhibit to you this typical case, as I have called it, than which there co all not be a fairer opportunity for testing the use of all other medicines in which was the efficient remedy. You shall see the case of a future clinic.

THE RESULT.

A FAVORABLE VERDICT.

JUNE 9, 1880.—The next of our convalescents is the case of acuter heumatism before you at our clinic of May 28th, which I thou called a typical case, and which it was remarked was a fair opportunity for testing the worth of our new remedy. It was therefore steadily given in three grain doses every two hours for four days, the patient has got along very acedy, and is now able to walk about, as you see. I do not hesitate to say that I have neves seen as severe a case of acute rheamatism so soon restored to health as this man has been, and without being prepared to decide positive or as to the value of the remedy we have used, I feel bound to state that in the cases in which we have tried the Chloride of Propylsinhine, the palents have regained their health Propylamine, the patients have recained their much earlier than under the treatment ordinarily sued. I wish gentlemen, you would yoursely and report the results.

For a full report of which the above is a condensed extract, see the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter. It is the report after a fair trial by the hest medcal authority in this country, and makes it unnecessary to give numerous certificates from astonished doctors and rejoicing patients.
