The propsperity of Baltimore up to the 19th of April last was one of the wonders produced by the American Union. He who strangles himself from whatever motive is not more unreasonable than were those citizens of Baltimore who in a single night destroyed the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the Northern Central Railroad, and the Railroad from Baltimore to Philadelphia. From the day when that mad transaction occurred, the Govern ment of the United States has been diligently engaged in endeavoring to restore these great avenues to their former usefulness, and at the same time to save Baltimore and Maryland from the danger of complete ruin through an unnecessary and unnatural rebellion.
