THE UNION-THE CONSTITUTION-AND THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

HARRISBURG, PA.

Friday Afternoon, November 22, 1861.

THE LUZERNE DEMOCRACY ON THE SOLDIERS' VOTE.

It appears that the Democracy of Luzerne wish to disfranchise our gallant volunteers. Because these men who are now in arms against Southern rebellion voted for the Union ticketagainst the partizan Democrats of the Hakes and Chase school, the followers of these latter would throw out their votes, or enough of them, at least, to elect the Democratic ticket.

The Return Judges, who met on Tuesday week at Wilkes-barre, had quite a time. They finally adjourned by making out two sets of certificates-those by the Democrats rejecting the Army vote-those by the Republicans receiving it. In alluding to it the Pittston Gazette ob-

"Be it remembered, that the Democracy of Luzerne county in this year of our Lord, A. D. 1861, attempted to disfranchise the soldiers in arms against the Southern rebellion. Stick a pin there and keep it there.'

A BROTHER OF MAJOR ANDERSON A PRISONER IN THE SOUTH.-The Hon. Charles Anderson, a brother of the gallant Gen. Anderson, of Sumter fame, is a prisoner in the South, having the hold of the vessels. The full capacity of been arrested and confined by the rebels while Union sentiments.

Cincinnatti, where he stood deservedly high as the bins. There will be an engine of 40 horse sally beloved for his numerous virtues and his to move the machinery. fine social qualities. Shortly before the breaking out of the rebellion he retired from his profession and removed to Texas, where he purchased a large tract of land and started a sheep farm on an extensive scale. When Texas passed the ordinance of secession, Mr. Anderson turning to Cincinnatti, but he was stopped on being well known. Mr. Anderson was a promihonor. He is a highly educated and high-toned gentlemen, and is loved, honored and esteemed ing people of Ireland. Why not do it? where ever he is known.

Mr. Benjamin, the Secretary of War under the rebel government, is a member of a prominent social club in New York city. Since he joined the enemies of the country, repeated atthe club, to have him expelled; but as yet the resolution has been laid upon the table by the vote of the society. It was finally proposed to let the matter rest, in the expectation that his next dues would not be paid, and that he would, by that fact, cease to have any connection with the club. But when the time came round the of membership. Mr. Slidell, who belonged to the same club, was not so fortunate. No friend advanced his annual fees to the association, and his name was accordingly dropped from the roll. Slidell, however, has now joined the select junto who now hold a protracted meeting at Fort Warren, and he may find that assemblage quite sufficient to occupy his whole time and thoughts.

THE LOUISVILLE JOURNAL SAYS: We hear of more reports from the confederate states than the booming of our victorious cannon. The secession press is alarmed, and lets out wholesome truths. The Raleigh (N. C.) Standard naval expeditions) is stopped at once by the strong arm of the confederate states, more than to the Biack Republican government before the Union Congress meets." It seems too that the public officers in North Carolina are as ready to secede from secession as the people, for the same paper says: "It is very evident that the state authorities will never make a move in that and talons of the eagle. In producing a civil direction, owing to the reason that they are in war he has brought his reign to an end. Even the same boat with the Unionist." This is that life-long dependant and champion, the cheering.

THE TRAITOR BRECKINRIDGE.—The Louisville Journal thus closes a scathing article upon John C. Breckinridge.

His fate will be that of a traitor.

In the last of the battle Borne down by the flying, Where mingles war's rattle
With groans of the dying, There shall he be lying.

Monster of perfidy, ingrate and fiend, his name will be eternally linked with those of Judas and Arnold, and, when history seeks to recount the damning deeds of those who have entitled themselves to the execrations of mankind, that name will be foremost in the scroll which was borne by one, who, in the very spirit of the arch-demon, thought it "better to reign in hell than serve in heaven."

The railroad tracks are laid so as to allow the cars to pass into the building, and the grain is taken from them and placed in large hoppers, rom whence it passes on an endless band to a large pit in the bottom of the tower; and from here the grain is carried up by a series of buckets to a point about half way up the tower, and from thence through hoppers, where the grain is screened, measured, and weighed, to a pit, connected with a series of buckets, which convey it to the top of the tower. From this point it is distributed to the various bins. The main bins are 111 feet in diameter, and averaging 45 feet high, constructed out of boiler iron, being circular in form. The spaces between these bin are also to be used for storing grain. There are in all 90 circular bins, and 72 of the smaller bins. The large ones are calculated to hold about 4,500 busbels each. The bottom of these bins are about 15 feet above the railroad tracks. In conveying the grain from the elevator to vessels in the docks alongside of the new wharf, it is drawn out through a valve, and falls on a small conveyor, carrying it into another pit in tine tower, from whence it is elevated into a large hopper. Why should we not return this good will? While the government of Great Britain is doing all it can to aid in the destruction of the Republic, let us, from the abundance which God has given dues were paid, and he still preserves his rights us, relieve the perishing subjects of Great Britain from starvation.

If we want to rebuke British intolerance, and at the same time perform a mission of mercy, we could not perform it more grandly and effectually than by shipping a few cargoes of bread stuffs and provisions to neglected Ireland, under the protection of the undimmed stars and unsullied stripes of the still proud American flag.

"PUNCH" ON KING COTTON.

The last number of Punch has a cartoon repesenting "King Cotton Bound, or the Modern Prometheus." A strong old man, wearing a crown and clad in flakes of cotton, lies extended declares that "unless the movement (of our upon a rock, firmly bound in iron fetters, while of the carriage wheels. The flanges grasp the naval expeditions) is stonged at once by the lan eagle hovering over him with one wing an eagle, hovering over him, with one wing emblazoned with seven stars and the other with half the counties of this state will be attached twenty-seven, tears out his vitals. Punch has made a mistake. King Cotton should have been represented with his royal robes, committing the Japanese act of "harikari" -- or the happy despatch. His own poniard has been employed in striking home, and not the beak Charleston Mercury, deserts the poor old monarch. It says:

"Cotton is not king in the absolute sense of the term; for, in the history of the world, no "Father, I am not a merchant." "You have monopoly has secured absolute power; but it not committed murder?" "I am a doctor, does give us a large and legitimate influence in conscientiously replied the penitent, casting the commercial and financial affairs of the world, and thus indirectly confers political power. But this, like all other power, cannot be safety abuted, and is stronger the more justly it is used. It will not do, therefore, to assume that the control of the cotton crop will enable us to control the pride and prejudice and power of all Christendom.

Only a few months ago the Mercury argued that the whole dependence of the rebellion was on the cotton monopoly, but now it urges a moderation of the hopes of the expectants. Alas for the poor old king! Alas for his knights, whose delusions are so rapidly breaking away!

The Romance of War.

Captain Wilkes, the bold and responsibility-The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is now engaged in constructing a new grain elevator on the Delaware, at Philadelphia. The work is progressing rapidly, and all the iron columns the progressing rapidly, and all the iron columns the scretaries, is now about fifty-six years of the scretaries. which are to support the bins have been put up. Great care has been required in preparing the foundations to support the enormous weight to the melting mood, the blind god once sucwhich the building will have to sustain. Piles ceeded in sending one of his shafts clear through have been driven into the ground about twenty-his rough sou-wester, which found a lodging in his honest heart. The bow from which the five feet and cut off smooth about six feet below shaft was speed hung in the eyes of a fair girl, the surface. On these piles rest large blocks of granite, which support the iron columns on which rest the building and the immense iron bins. The sides of the building are being filled his wife. But the young sailor had a rival in his wife. with brick work of an ornamental style, and the son of a respectable tallow-chandler, when entirely completed will be a fine specimen of architecture. The lot has a front of 170 feet cut out, refused to accept "the mitten," but on Washington avenue and 120 feet on Swanson street, and the building will be sufficiently ca-"poisening" the mind of the "stern parient" of the fair one, until he refused his consent to his daughter's marriage with the bold Charlie the business will require, it will hold 750,000 Wilkes, and insisted upon her giving her hand to young Slidell, which after many protestations and the customary amount of tears and hyster-ics, she did, and became "Mrs. John Slidell."

The bold Charlie Wilks did not peak and pine, or let his melancholly feed on his weather beaten cheeks, but went to sea and smothered his grief in attending to duty and sustaining action whatever upon the subject, but will the honor of his nation's flag, never seeing "lady lass" again, nor meeting his successful rival for her hand and heart, until he saw him standing a prisoner on board his ship, a traitor to his country and a rebel against the Flag the honest tar had spent his life in defending. Such is the romance of war. We congratulate the bold Charles upon having at last "got more

Sailing of the Stone Fleet .-- Thirty Vessels to be Sunk in Southern

Correspondence of the Evening Post.]

NEW LONDON, Ct., Nov. 20, 1861. The stone fleet, not, however, with pomp or oanners, sailed to-day. Twelve or fifteen ver departed from this port, all bound south and all laden with stone. The crafts were old whalers, some of them of the largest size, but a hardlooking set. They have spent their lives nudging the icebergs, and have been industrious in their vocation of seeking material to illuminate the world and to make life tolerable at night to They go now to illustrate the ideas of com-merce which prevail in the darker portion, girt with sandbars, of our disturbed republic. A screw is fixed in their bottom which can be worked from the deck. When it is screwed out, the water, in a stream as big as a man's leg, comes in, and the vessel is sunk. The stone anchors it at the bottom.

Our fleet is to be joined outside by a like one from New Bedford, which will make the whole number of the vessels about thirty. Six thous and dollars each have been paid by the govern ment for some of the best of these vessels.

The fleet will be under the command of an old sea-dog, of whaling propensities, who has been appointed commodore.

Gen. Jim Lane on Slavery.

In a speech made at Camp Springfield, Missouri, Gen. Jim Lane, than whom no man is more feared and hated by Border Ruffians and Pandora box from which has issued most of our national troubles—as follows:

"My creed is, Let Slavery take care of itself. If it can survive the shock of war, let it live, but if between an upper and nether millstone it be ground to powder, and the winds drive it away, it is not for me to gather up the dust again. I do not propose to make war upon slavery, but upon Rebels, and in the meantime to let slaves and slavery take care of themselves. An oligarchy more cruel and proscriptive than ever scourged and cursed a nation, ancient or modtains this rebellion. It is no fault of Ireland if ern, has brought on this war for slavery; and if we are required to protect, or in any way help Slavery, then we are required to co-operate barbarous foes, and at the same time conquer due them, crush them contradictions are reconciled, we will think of harmonizing this."

Comment is unnecessary. The Federal Army marches to crush out rebellion and treason and let slavery take care of itself.

RIFLED CANNON FOR THE WAR. - Three field batteries of Wiard's steel rifled cannon, comprising eighteen pieces (six 12-nounders and 6-pounders) with forty-two carriages, including caissins, battery wagons and forges, have recently been completed in New York for the War Department, and two of the batteries have been sent into the service. These batteries are apparently of the finest description. The gun-carriages are in some respects pecu liar. A principal feature in their construction is the extraordinary elevation which may be given to the guns. For ordinary smooth bored dnance fifteen degrees are allowed, and for rifled pieces twelve are deemed sufficient and he carriages are made accordingly; but in the case of these batteries an elevation of thirty five degrees is provided for, thus adapting them for all or nearly all the purposes of shelling.

Another peculiarity consists in the use of iron flanges in the construction of the nave or "hub" may be tightened as the wood shrinks with age or wear. Between the spokes at the base are wedges properly secured, which may also be forced inward:

An agent of the State of Ohio has ordered similar carriages for four batteries of Wiard's cannon, with the understanding that the number may be increased to ten batteries.

THE LADIES OF BALTIMORE. - Our Baltimore correspondent writes:-The most distinguished and influential-I may also say fashionableladies of Baltimore, amongst whom are Mrs. Reverdy Johnson, Mrs. Bonaparte, Mrs. Albert, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. McKim, Mrs. Dr. Makenzie, Mrs. Morris, and a host of others, are now active members of our "Union Relief Association." This Association has five rooms, and is doing an immense amount of good. The ladies are unremitting in their attentions to the sick.

A son of Old Neptune enlisted in the Fifth Rhode Island Battery. He was picked out as one of the riders, and not long since his horse unseated him. The commanding officer came up and reprimanded him, and asked him stern ly if he did not know how to ride? He unhesitatingly said "No." "What did you then enlist for?" asked the Captain. To which the officer that he rode off smiling.
