THE HOPE FIRE COMPANY'S ANNUAL BALL. The annual Grand Hop of the Hope Fire Company, will come off at Brant's City Hall this evening. We are assured that the Terpischorean festival of the company this season will excel in every particular all its previous efforts. Gentlemen who secure a ticket to this grand jolification of good fellows and beautiful ladies, may consider themselves fortunate indeed, for nothing to equal it in rational enjoyment is likely to transpire in any social circle this winter.

Blanchard, gorgeous frescos, beautiful tapestry, scroll work, gas brackets, and other ornaments, and will only add, that as beautiful as they appeared in the dim, uncertain light of day, the time of our previous observation, they were rendered still more gorgeous last night, when gilded by the rich flood of light from a hundied gas burners. Indeed, the rich and cosey appearance of the hall was the subject of general remark among the audience last night, and Mr. Sanford was highly commended for his liberality in fitting up such a beautiful place of amusement for the accomodation of his patrons. Of course the programme for last evening's entertainment was something extra for the occasion, and it is scarcely necessary for us to add that the performers went at S. Lewy's. through their several rolls in an admirable manner. The singing of Mr. Carneross was admirable, and proved especially acceptable to the audience, who was fairly carried away by its mellowness and richness of tone. The danction of the state o ing of Miss Julia Sanford was also much admired. Mr. Hale, (N. Mr. Fostra, (Connecticut) thought the object was not attained by the amendment. The was not attained by the amendment. The Secretary of the Navy was in fact only a clerk of the President, and if not faithful should be removed by the President. If we pass the amendment the President will simply tell his clerk, the Secretary of the Navy, to do the work, and practically the amendment would have no effect.

Mr. Halk said the same difficulty had pre sent d itself to the committee, and they did the best they could with it.
