FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Arrival of the Burnside Expedition.

THE EXPEDITION AT PAMLICO SOUND.

FORTRESS MONROE, January 10.

The long expected Burnside Expedition has arrived here. The advance in command of General Foster, came fifty Hampton Roads at about one o'clock this afternoon, and the remaining vessels have been arriving up to the present time. The greatest enthusiasm was manifested here when it became known that the expedition was coming up, and the shores, wharves and ramparts of the Fortress were soon crowded with spectators. Enthusiastic cheers were exchanged between the troops on the transports and the crowd on the shore, and the various bands of the regiments comprising the expedition performed a number of patriotic airs, "Dixie" being the most prominent.

The unusual excitement at the Roads this afternoon woke up the curiosity of the enemy, and a steam tug was sent out to reconnoitre. She came out some distance, and, after taking observations of the fleet, returned. The destination of the expedition is as much a secret as ever. It will probably remain here a few days, or until the final arrangements are completed.

General Burnside will arrive here this evening. The fleet was detained some twelve hours in the bay by the heavy fog prevailing. Gen. Foster and staff paid their respects to General Wool this afternoon.

Christmas and New Year Days were celebrated at the Inlet in an appropriate manner, and the 8th of January was signified by a general display of bunting.

Some of the soldiers at Hatteras are employing their leisure time in conducting an adult school for the instruction of the negroes. The school is under the charge of Patrick Kelly, of Company C, United States Artillery, a man deeply interested in the scheme, and every way qualified for his difficult post.

[From the Norfolk Day Book, 9th inst.

ARRIVAL OF THE BURNSIDE EXPEDITION IN PAMLICO SOUND.

Information reached this city last evening to the effect that a federal fleet had made its appearance in Pamlico Sound. The fleet consists of twenty gunboats, drawing from five to six feet of water, and carrying, some of them, five guns. They were first discovered by Captain Hunter, who, while reconnoitering, was shot at by them. On his return to the island he reported the fact, and our forces proceeded at once to place themselves in a state of readiness for an attack.

This is supposed to be a portion of the Burnside Expedition, and it is thought by some that its object is to prepare for an attack upon Norfolk from the rear. However, this may be one thing is certain, and that is, that should this be their programme they will find it a hard road to travel before they get to the end of it. We trust that our friends at Roanoke Island will make every preparation to successfully resist the foe, and that when he shows battle they will keep themselves cool and their powder dry, and by their valor cause another "masterly retreat" upon the part of the Hessians.

SUNBURYVILLE REPORTED BY THE FEDERAL ALIENS.

ROCHESTER, Jan. 8.—Passengers from the mountains say that Huntersville has been burnt by the Federals. Also, that heavy skirmishing continues above Winchester. There is nothing official corroborating these reports.

FROM KENTUCKY.

Confirmation of the Victory near Painsville.

RUMORED CAPTURE OF TWO STEAMERS.

Munitions of War, Clothing and Provisions Seized.

Louisville, Jan. 11. The Democrat of this city received advices this evening which corroborate the account telegraphed from Cincinnati of the disbanding of Humphrey Marshall's forces near Painsville. No further particulars have been received.

The Bowling Green Courier of the 2nd says that Gen. Floyd arrived at Nashville on the 1st inst. en route for Bowling Green.

A correspondent writing from Paducah on the 5th complains bitterly of the treatment of the Union men there by the Federal General Smith, and demands his immediate removal.

Rumors prevailed at Lebanon that the Federal troops have taken two steamers, which were proceeding up the Cumberland river with munitions of war, clothing and provisions for Zollicoffer's forces. The locality of the seizure is not stated.

THE NEW WASHINGTON RAILROAD.

THE TAX BILLS.

ISSUE OF DEMAND NOTES.

WASHINGTON, January 11.

A bill is before the House Committee on Military Affairs providing for the construction of a new railway from Washington to New York, the rates of fare to be low, and the bonds guaranteed by Congress.

The opponents of measures of direct taxation in Congress are decreasing in number. The tax bills will be reported early next week.

Secretary Chase's making arrangements for the daily issue of three-quarters of a million of dollars worth of demand Treasury notes. One-third of a million has hitherto been issued daily.

RESPECT FOR THE BRITISH QUEEN.—All of the foreign ministers at the English Court, as well as many of the native nobility, paid a ceremonious visit to Buckingham Palace, on the 16th ultimo, to read the bulletin from Windsor, that "The Queen passed a quiet night and slept several hours; her Majesty continues calm." Among the names of the visitors recorded in the papers are those of the American Minister and Mrs. Adams.

The Western Expedition.

ITS PASSAGE DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI.

Formidable Character of the Expedition.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.

The advance of the expedition, composed of McClelland's brigade, landed eighteen miles down the Mississippi, at the mouth of Mayfield Creek, on the Kentucky side, where they pitched their tents for the night.

General Grant and staff went down during the afternoon and returned in the evening. The remainder of the force will move in the morning.

FORMIDABLE CHARACTER OF THE EXPEDITION.

We glean the following particulars of this long talked of expedition down the Mississippi river, and judging from its formidable character, is destined to strike a terrible blow to re-echo. The most extensive preparations have been made for this expedition, which has been planned by the most skillful military and naval authorities in the Western Department.

Next to the overpowering numbers of the floating batteries, which will form a component part of it, these are the most formidable, and consist of boats of the most substantial construction. The total number of boats is seventy-eight, of which twelve are gun-boats, thirty-eight mortar boats, and twenty-eight are tugs and steamboats. The gun-boats are as follows:

Gun.	Pittsburg.	Gun.	Pittsburg.
Benton	18	Cincinnati	15
Essex	15	Louisville	15
St. Louis	15	Conestoga	15
Carondelet	15	Lexington	15
Mound City	15	Taylor	15
Cauro	15

Seven of these boats cost eighty-nine thousand dollars each to build. They are one hundred and seventy-five feet in length, fifty-one feet six inches in breadth, and draw five feet when loaded.

The bows and bow bulwarks consist of about three feet of oak timber, bolted together and sheathed with the best quality of wrought iron plates, two and a half inches thick. The sides have the same sheathing, with less bulk of timber. Each boat is pierced for fifteen guns, four on each side, four on the stern and three at the bow. The bow guns are eighty-four pounder rifled cannon; the others are eight-inch columbiads. The sides of the boats, both above and below the knees, incline at an angle of forty-five degrees, and nothing but a plunging shot from a high bluff could strike the surface at right angles. The boilers and machinery are so situated as to be perfectly protected and may be considered quite out of danger.

The iron plating has been severely tested by shots from rifled cannon at different distances, and has shown itself to be utterly impervious to any shots that have been sent against it, even at a range of three hundred yards.

The Benton is the flag ship of the expedition. She is one hundred and eighty-six feet long on deck, and seventy-five feet wide at the beam. Her hold is eight and a half feet in depth, and with a heavy armament and crew on board, will draw about five feet. She has a double hull, with wheels working in the recess, near the stern. Her hull is of four inch plank, and is divided by ten inches. The hull is divided by five feet and aft bulkheads, and fifteen cross bulkheads, making forty five water-tight compartments. The deck frame beams are ten inches square.

The main deck is planked with four and a half inch plank. The forward defence rug down to the two feet water line, and is of twenty-four inch timber, all sheathed with two and a half inch iron plating. The entire boat is sheathed with three and four inch oak plank, caulked and made perfectly tight. Casemates extend around the whole boat, and are made of twelve inch timber. There are four feet in thickness, solid. The Benton is pierced for and will carry eighteen heavy guns, which are from 32-pounders to 42-pounders calibre, some rifled and some smooth bore, and there are two 9 inch Dahlgren guns. The principal part of the armament is disposed in the forward part of the boat, there being two guns only at the stern.

The machinery, boilers &c., are all under the deck. The cylinders are 20 inches in diameter with 7 feet stroke. There are four boilers, 24 feet long and 40 inches in diameter, double fluted. The wheels are 20 feet in diameter, with 9 feet bucket. The wheel-house is protected by timber from six to eight inches in thickness, and sheathed with heavy iron. The pilot house is protected by 12 inch oak timber placed at an angle of about thirty degrees with the upper deck, is conical in shape, and of very ingenious construction.

There are two magazines, one on each side, just forward of the wheels. They are capable of carrying one hundred rounds of ammunition for every gun, and afford ample room for the necessary evolutions within them. The magazine can be flooded with water in a moment from the main deck, and are furnished and arranged in true naval style.

The mortar boats are built of heavy timbers, the sides of boiler iron, loop-holed for masonry, and are so arranged that they can be used for bridges. They will each carry one fifteen inch mortar. The mortar boats will be towed into position by tugs.

With this formidable armament, and a force of seventy-five thousand men, the onward march must be comparatively resistanceless. The progress of the fleet will probably be by the Mississippi to Columbus and Memphis; by the Tennessee to the mouth of the Sandy river, and by the Cumberland river to Nashville. Within a few days we shall make history very fast.

WHEAT COFFEE.—The Miner's Journal says:

During the week we have been drinking coffee, made of wheat and coffee combined—one-quarter pound of coffee mixed with two quarts of wheat. The wheat is boiled about twenty minutes in water, and then placed in a pan and browned in the same as coffee. So far, we prefer the genuine article, and it certainly is more healthy. With a pound of coffee and eight quarts of wheat, which costs from three to four cents a quart, this beverage is produced so cheap, that it makes up all the difference in the advance in price, of both tea and coffee.
